

Telephone—EV 3-4111
11.30 p.m. to 8 a.m.
Editorial EV 3-4309 or EV 3-8309
Circulation EV 3-0725
Sports EV 3-7000

The Daily Colonist.

Vancouver Island's Leading Newspaper Since 1858

Forecast, clear, continuing warm
(Details on page 2)

No. 184—101st YEAR

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1959

10 CENTS DAILY
14 CENTS SUNDAY

62 PAGES

Nikita Dodges Riot Birthplace

POZNAN, Poland (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev yesterday shunned the scene of the birthplace of Poland's bloody 1956 "bread and freedom" revolution.
Instead he sent part of his entourage to the Cegielski Locomotive Works and himself visited nearby collective farms.

Queen Waves Goodbye

Farewell to Vancouver Island is waved by Queen Elizabeth at Patricia Bay Airport yesterday morning as Prince Philip smiles goodbye just before royal couple entered plane taking them to Terrace and the Yukon. Ceremonies and fond waves of assembled crowd marked the departure after happy two-day visit on the Island. See story, page 14. — (Photo by Howard Malo.)

Queen Is Run Down From Rigors of Tour

Queen Talks to Bennett

B.C. High Point Of Royal Tour

Premier Bennett had a private audience with the Queen at Government House Saturday before Her Majesty's departure for the north and she told him she was "most pleased" with her visit to British Columbia.
Disclosing this in an interview, the premier said the Queen and Prince Philip both presented him with signed photographs.

"I think this (the B.C. visit) was the highlight of her trip," the premier said. "She was most pleased too with the government's personal gifts and with its action in earmarking $1,500,000 as royal visit bonuses for pensioners and other needy persons."

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth's doctor last night confirmed speculation that she was tired after the first month of her 45-day Canadian tour.

The unexpected medical bulletin followed several days of reports that the Queen was physically ground down by the rigors of her journey across Canada.

OTHERWISE WELL
The unforeseen bulletin was issued by Surgeon-Captain D. D. Steele-Perkins, the Queen's doctor, who had accompanied her from Britain to Newfoundland and across Canada into the far north on a scheduled 15,000-mile tour that will not end until Aug. 1 in Halifax.

Capt. Steele-Perkins told newsmen who questioned him that the Queen was run down and that she was "tired but otherwise well."

YUKON CAPITAL
The Queen and Prince Philip arrived in the capital of the Yukon yesterday to begin a 2½-day visit to the Arctic.

During a visit to the MacBride Museum in Whitehorse, Mrs. W. D. MacBride told the Queen she hoped that Her Majesty would have a relaxed and restful visit at Whitehorse, because her trip obviously was a strenuous one. Replied the Queen: "There has been a lot of travelling."

Leopard Slashes Boy Who Opened Its Cage

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A half-grown leopard clawed a seven-year-old Richland boy at the Cole Brothers' circus here Saturday.
Richland police said Kenneth Baird crawled under a rope into a prohibited area and lifted a corner of the sliding door of the leopard's cage. As the boy was peering in, the animal lashed out and clawed him in the face. He was taken to a Richland hospital, where he was bandaged up, but in good condition Saturday night.

A four-year-old girl, Wilma Westerdale, poked her finger into a monkey's cage at the same circus and got it bitten. She was treated at the hospital and released.

Pavilion

Four Die As Plane Crashes

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Two men and their wives, on a fishing trip in the British Columbia interior, were killed Saturday afternoon when their light aircraft plunged into a railway station at Pavilion, 70 miles west of here.

They were identified as Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Morrison, of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor, of Surrey.

C. E. Williams of Vancouver, co-owner of the aircraft with Mr. Morrison, said it was recently overhauled and described it as being "in perfect condition." He speculated that it may have been caught in a down-draft.

Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Taylor were sisters.

Mr. Williams said the two couples had flown to a logging camp near Lillooet to do some fishing Saturday morning.

He described Mr. Morrison as a "first-class pilot" and said he had spent two years with the Royal Canadian Air Force over enemy lines during the Second World War.

"It was the only plane we had and I guess it's the last one," Mr. Williams said.

The RCAF Rescue Co-ordination Centre in Vancouver said the pilot had not filed a flight plan.

Don't Miss

No Speed Ticket
—Just Talking
(Names, Page 2)

Debate on CBC
Blazes Again
(Page 3)

Delinquent Cure:
Nudist Camps
(Page 7)

King Fisherman
(Page 11)

A Real University
—That's Our Need
(Page 13)

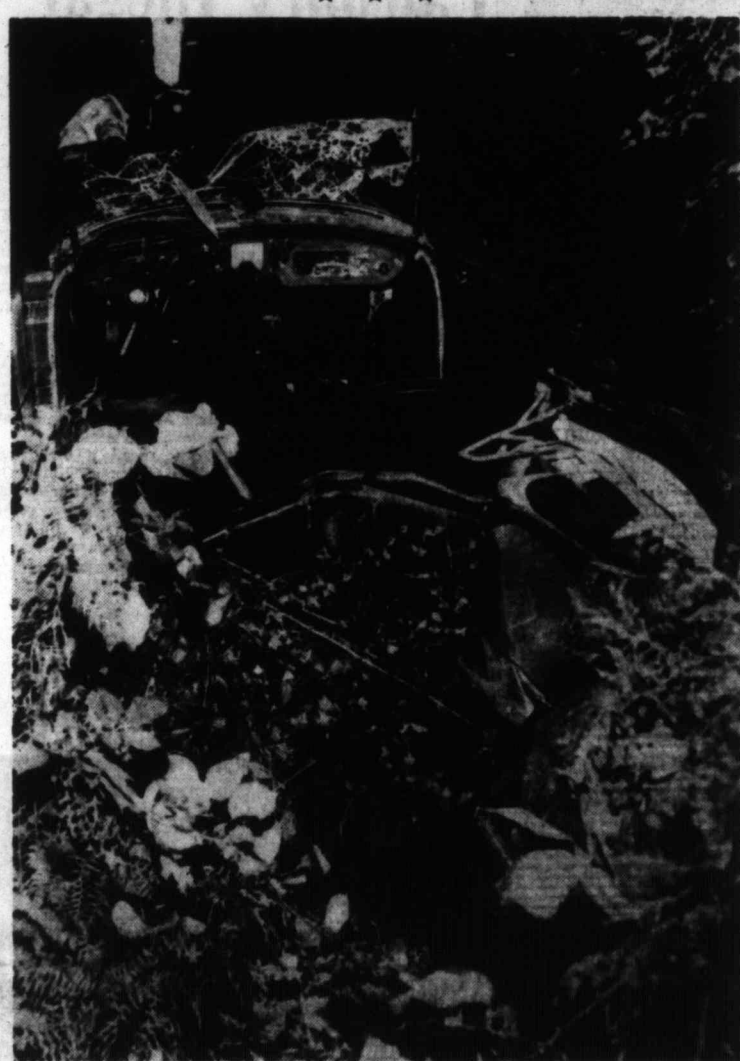

Page 8
Comics 8
Financial News 13
Garden Notes 8
Radio Programs 23
Social 16, 17, 18
Sport 10, 11, 12
Television 21
Theatres 6, 7
Building 9
Travel 19

Nowlan Sick Of CBC Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Nowlan reiterated Saturday he would like to be rid of his job of reporting to Parliament for the publicly-owned CBC.

He told the Commons he just can't carry both his revenue minister's job and the CBC responsibility.

Before the committee he had said he was "sick and tired," especially of funneling to the CBC the complaints of members of Parliament.

Tragic Sequel to All-Sooke Day

One man died and another was injured in this mangled sports car which broke in half during accident beside Sooke Road last night. Occupants were returning from All-Sooke

Day when car left road, struck a power pole and landed in gully. Driver's seat is below foliage showing through hole in chassis.—(Photo by William Boucher.)

Slice of Far North B.C. Price for Road?

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Premier Bennett has proposed to the federal government that British Columbia be given part of the Northwest Territories in return for full provincial maintenance of the 600-mile Alaska Highway.

The deal would involve that part of the territories lying north of B.C.'s northern border

west of the 120th meridian, which includes the power-rich and oil-rich Mackenzie River basin.

The extra territory could make British Columbia the largest province in Canada.

The premier disclosed in an exclusive interview that he had made the suggestion to Defence Minister Peckes, who was not available for comment. Mr. Bennett said he found the federal minister "very interested."

It was indicated that the defence minister will take the matter up with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the federal cabinet.

TAKE OVER ROAD

Premier Bennett also disclosed that B.C. is going to take over the first 100 miles of the Canadian section of the 1,500-mile Alaska Highway after the federal government completes paving the section from Mile 0 at Dawson Creek northward this year.

He indicated that it was this agreement to take over maintenance of the 100-mile stretch which resulted in his suggestion that B.C. take over maintenance of the whole of the 600-mile of the highway in British Columbia in a swap for a slice of the federally-supervised Northwest Territories.

NOT YUKON

"But I want to make it clear," he said, "that the Yukon Territory is not involved in my proposal. And I would want to take the matter up with my cabinet later if the federal government shows a definite interest."

It has been estimated that maintenance of the Canadian section of the road costs the federal treasury something like $17,000,000 a year.

Premier Bennett indicated that if a deal were made, B.C. would "eventually" pave the whole highway to Trans-Canada Highway standards.

Mr. Bennett noted that his plan would give B.C. "the whole Mackenzie basin," packed with power and petroleum possibilities and with an Arctic coastline.

Vehicle Breaks In Two

The young Victoria driver of a borrowed sports car was killed and his male passenger seriously injured when their car returning from All-Sooke Day crashed into a power pole and was broken almost in two.

Dead is Leonard Bruce Kalk, about 22, of 2537 Prior. In St. Joseph's Hospital last night was Chris Morgan, also about 22, of 406 Quebec.

A friend who was following behind in another car and was planning to go to a dance later with young Kalk, was one of the first on the accident scene about 7:30 p.m. on the Sooke Road, about 50 feet south of the Humpback Road intersection.

Witnesses said the 1959 red sports car broke in half after apparently leaving the left side of the road on a right-hand curve, crashing into the power pole and flying 40 feet through the air, ending up in a six-foot gully.

TWISTING ROAD

Driver and passenger were lifted from the scrap-heap wreckage of the small car and rushed over the twisting Sooke Road by Langford ambulance to hospital.

The driver was pronounced dead on arrival. Hospital authorities said Morgan was in satisfactory condition with multiple cuts.

Neighbors said the demolished, month-old sports car belonged to Bruce Kalk's sister, Mrs. Eunice McIsaac of Victoria, and that he had left his own 1954 large sedan parked in front of the Prior Street residence where he lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph B. Kalk.

The parents and the sister were out of the city last night. One neighbor said, "If he had taken his own car, he'd still be alive."

SEEN AT SOOKE

A friend of the two men who declined to give his name, said he had seen them at Sooke earlier in the day and that he had made arrangements to go to a dance last night with Bruce Kalk.

"I was on my way into town to meet him," said the friend, "when I came around a bend on Sooke Road and got the shock of my life."

"It was so unexpected. I saw the wreck and I recognized the car. I pulled off the road and stopped."

He said that portion of the road was "bumpy."

"I knew the road like the back of my hand. I imagine that was his trouble—he didn't know the road."

Three Seek Vancouver TV Station

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three groups in Greater Vancouver plan to apply for licences to operate a private television station.

Spokesmen for radio stations CKWX, Vancouver; CKNW, New Westminster, and CKLG, North Vancouver, said their companies have definite plans to apply for licences.

In addition, Vancouver advertising man W. E. (Bill) Bellman and a group of lawyers have indicated intentions of applying for a licence.

One of the lawyers, H. Lyle Jentley, has announced formation of Pacific Television Company, Ltd., with authorized capital of $1,500,000 and land to set up a station.

Plans were announced Saturday following Revenue Minister Nowlan's announcement in the Commons that private television will be permitted to compete with the CBC in major Canadian cities.

There are two channels available for private stations in the Vancouver area.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ABOARD THE CNR CONTINENTAL, EAST-BOUND—Small things chiefly caught our attention, from the train window. The boys exclaimed over speedboats on the Red River; youngsters hopefully offering bouquets for sale at Portage; an odd-shaped church; a heron beside a wild lake; a bright orange flower that appeared in many places near the track, through the Ontario bush.

John had just gone out of the compartment when I saw a cow moose and two babies standing in shallow reedy water at the end of a lake. I shouted to John, but he came back just too late. He cried with disappointment for a long time afterwards.

We rolled past innumerable lakes and swamps and hundreds of miles of lonely forest. I thought of this huge green wilderness, the lungs of the world, drawing in the foul air of the cities and breathing out fresh...

We were in the dining car at Ottawa. For us, the capital was only a cavernous station, a vista of river and a glimpse of towers... Later, the fields of Quebec.

There was an Englishwoman in our carriage, returning for a visit to her native land with her little daughter, aged about 11. She was married to a Canadian, and she liked Canada. Its vast distances had frightened her at first, but now she was adjusted to the dimensions of the land.

She liked the atmosphere of frontier mining towns, friendly and co-operative. But some things still irritated her: the careless way that people threw garbage around, for example. Canadians appeared to have no idea of keeping their country clean for the benefit of their fellow-citizens; they just let fly with bottles and grapefruit rinds, as the mood struck them. When the snow receded from northern towns, the debris was enough to turn the stomach.

She was amused by the way that a churlish Scot had welcomed her to Canada, saying, aye lass, she'd soon lone yon accent, or words to that effect, spoken in the broadest Scots, in all seriousness.

At Colonist Swim Class Monday

Watercade Stars to Call

By MARGIE NAYSMITH

I've got a real surprise for Monday morning's swim class.

At 10 o'clock we're going to be visited by at least three, and maybe more, famous swimmers and divers from the Holiday Watercade show which will play at Victoria starting on Thursday.

One of the visitors will be Charles Dahl, a world diving champion.

John Edwards, a top U.S. swimmer and one of the stars of the Watercade, will also be out to talk to you kids, and so will pretty Hellen Bergen, the famous Danish swimmer and swimming coach.

5,000 Cups Chowder

Here's One For Mother

Victoria housewives looking for new recipes can try their hand at this one—provided their family is large enough to consume 140 gallons of clam chowder.

The recipe was reluctantly disclosed yesterday by All-Sooke Day "chowder king" Tony Sullivan who has been mixing his fabulous brew for the annual celebration for the past 23 years.

First, says Tony, you peel and cube 200 pounds of potatoes.

If you haven't given up already and just decided to make potato soup and a 100 pounds of potato salad, you peel and cube about 50 pounds of onions, give or take a few pounds either way.

Then cook up about 40 pounds of chopped bacon and chop up a couple of armloads of celery.

To this add about 50 gallons of clams and clam nectar and enough fresh milk to produce the desired consistency. Add seasoning and cook slowly for several hours.

Now call up enough relatives and friends to consume 5,000 cups of Sooke clam chowder.

The stars of the Watercade were happy to have the chance to see the Colonist's young swimmers and I am indebted to the Klondike Club of Victoria North, sponsors of the show here, for arranging the visit.

Our visitors will speak briefly on swimming technique, water safety and competitive swimming and diving. This past week we have been learning the correct arm-swing, or stroking, for swimming, and combining it with our breathing exercises.

WHY IS IT HARD?

One little boy said to me, "I've been breathing all my life. I don't know why it should be so hard."

"I don't see why I have to remember to breathe out." But the funniest remark all week came from a little girl who was trying to explain to me that another youngster, Dianne Edwards, couldn't come that day because she was having a double molar extracted.

'DOUBLE PNEUMONIA'

What she said was "Dianne Edwards won't be able to come today because she has to have a double pneumonia tooth pulled out."

As soon as we get the breathing and stroking down we are going to do a quick review of the kicking and gliding motions we have already learned.

Then will come the great day when kicking, gliding, breathing and stroking all fall together.

THEY LOVE IT

The water out at Happyland Beach has been around the 69-degree mark all week and the children just love it.

When they get right into the water without squealing, you know it's warm.

Father Throws Baby in River 'To Get Even'

DETROIT (AP)—Police said a 27-year-old father killed his infant son Saturday by throwing him in the Detroit River.

Gale Henry Schall, unemployed roofer, admitted the slaying "to get even with his divorced wife, June. He told police he planned to kill himself too and jumped in with the baby, but the water was too shallow and he returned to shore. Schall was held on a charge of murder.

FRANK BUCHANAN... award from shah

Royal Gift Attacked

Falconry Illegal SPCA Protests

Presentation of a pair of falcons to Prince Philip by the B.C. Government on Friday was bitterly criticized yesterday by the Victoria SPCA.

The society's first vice-president, V. L. Eardley-Wilmot, charged that federal authorities consider the sport is prohibited by the Criminal Code, under a section covering bull-fights and bear-baiting.

He said "the gift of a pair of falcons is not representative of British Columbia, nor does the sport of falconry attract many followers in Britain."

Capt. James Barr, former SPCA president, said: "In my opinion, the government's gift has made a fool of the province."

The falcons, each about two months old, were captured in the Queen Charlotte Islands. They will have to be trained for hunting by Prince Philip or his staff. The Prince has done some falcon hunting in the past in Britain.

Neither Frank Beebe nor David Hancock, both of Victoria, a director and secretary, respectively, of the B.C. Falconry Association, commented on the SPCA attack.

Both men, along with George Galicz of North Surrey, also an officer of the association, made the presentation to Prince Philip at Government House.

No Speed Ticket—Just Talking

VANCOUVER—Highways Minister Philip Gagliardi says he can't talk to a policeman without some people becoming suspicious.

The minister, tagged three times for speeding, stopped a policeman at Delta this week to discuss a traffic problem.

The rumor went around that he'd received another traffic ticket.

Names In the News

WINSTON CHURCHILL... no show

LONDON—Sir Winston Churchill has reportedly turned down plans to make a movie of his life. The Daily Herald said he did not approve of a script MGM planned to shoot with either Orson Welles or Peter Ustinov as Churchill.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich.—Dr. Frank N. D. Buchanan, initiator of Moral Re-Armament, was made a Commander of the Royal Order of the Crown by the Shah of Iran. It is Iran's highest award.

HOLLYWOOD—Blonde actress Sheree North and her six-pound, 11-ounce premature daughter are in good condition in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

CALGARY—Mayor Don Mackay was criticized Friday for leaving town and forgetting to tell the deputy mayor, Ald. Ernie Starr said he discovered by chance that the mayor had been out of town for three days.

VANCOUVER—Roman Catholic Archbishop William Mark Duke of Vancouver called on labor and management to take a second look at each other's problems to overcome the "serious strike crisis" and "truly assure industrial peace" in B.C.

LONDON—Lilly Fallah, 19-year-old heiress whose name once was linked romantically with the Shah of Iran, is reported to have called off her marriage to Christopher Coe, 24, a London accountant.

OMAHA, Neb.—Blue-eyed, blonde Miss Omaha—Mary Jean Belitz, 18—gave up her beauty title Friday rather than jeopardize her Roman Catholic college education. She was told that if she kept the title and participated in the Miss Nebraska contest, she would be barred from re-entering Duquesne College.

ROME—Gina Lollobrigida has been released from the starring role in a new picture which would have featured her as a bald-headed Yugoslav partisan girl.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—A spat that broke up their ro-

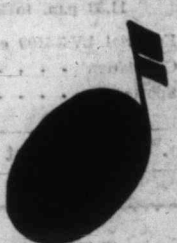

TORONTO—Louis Armstrong, 59, will be among more than 200 musicians participating in a four-day Canadian jazz festival, opening here Wednesday.

NANAIMO—President Colin Fitzgerald of Vancouver Marina says B.C.'s boating boom has created need for more waterside parks, better regulation of boats and a Canadian coast guard, which would likely have to be paid for by introducing a fee for boat licences.

HALIFAX—The estate of financier-industrialist Fred C. Manning, 67, who died July 8, was valued at $500,000 in probate court Friday.

WASHINGTON—Vice-Adm. Hyman Rickover, chief of the atomic submarine program, has not yet provided congressional investigators with the names of high-ranking retired military officers who allegedly tried to pressure him on government business.

You're Invited

FREE
B.C. Electric
BAND CONCERT

TODAY
3 P.M.

Beacon Hill Park

Beacon Hill Bus (No. 8) or South Fairfield (No. 19)

your dollars buy more when you shop here for Diamonds

We like to tell people the facts about diamonds. We have found that when we lay the whole story before them, based on our scientific training, as a Registered Jeweler, American Gem Society, they buy in trust and confidence. No "hidden" facts, no secrecy, just the whole truth about diamonds. Buy where knowledge and reputation build trust.

CONVENIENT TERMS

LITTLE TAYLOR
Registered Jewellers American Gem Society

1280 Douglas Street (Scollard Building) Phone EV 5-4431

Newspaper Advertising Stimulates Buying

Holiday Watercade star Bitten Bergen of Denmark, synchronized swimming expert, will be among aquacade performers visiting Colonist swim classes at Elk Lake at 10 a.m., Monday. The Watercade, showing for first time in Canada, will be staged at the Memorial

Arena, July 23 to 28. The Danish swimmer tried waters off Willow Beach yesterday.—(Colonist photo.)

NEW OFFICE
B. S. H. TYE
209 YARROW BLDG.
(Second Floor)
We have MOVED to No. 209
Open Friday nights till 9.
Closed All Day Saturday.

VICTORIA HEARING AID
B. S. H. TYE Founded 1935
209 YARROW BLDG.
625 FORT STREET

The Weather

July 19, 1959

Continuing clear and warm. Winds southwesterly 15. Precipitation, nil. Sunshine, 15 hours, six minutes. Monday outlook, little change.

Recorded Temperatures
High 76 Low 56

Forecast Temperatures
High 75 Low 58

Sunrise 5:31 Sunset 9:09

East coast of Vancouver Island—Continuing clear and warm. Winds westerly 15.

Georgia Strait winds westerly 20 and gusty in daytime. Monday outlook, little change. Forecast high and low at Estevan Point, 70 and 55.

TEMPERATURES
Min. Max. Precip.

St. John's 57 65 24

Halifax 58 66 24

Montreal 60 68 24

Ottawa 61 69 24

Port Arthur 62 70 24

Winnipeg 63 71 24

Brandon 64 72 24

The Pas 65 73 24

Regina 66 74 24

Saskatoon 67 75 24

Prince Albert 68 76 24

Swift Current 69 77 24

Medicine Hat 70 78 24

Lethbridge 71 79 24

Calgary 72 80 24

Edmonton 73 81 24

Winnipeg 74 82 24

Brandon 75 83 24

The Pas 76 84 24

Regina 77 85 24

Saskatoon 78 86 24

Prince Albert 79 87 24

Swift Current 80 88 24

Medicine Hat 81 89 24

Lethbridge 82 90 24

Calgary 83 91 24

Edmonton 84 92 24

Winnipeg 85 93 24

Brandon 86 94 24

The Pas 87 95 24

Regina 88 96 24

Saskatoon 89 97 24

Prince Albert 90 98 24

Swift Current 91 99 24

Medicine Hat 92 100 24

Lethbridge 93 101 24

Calgary 94 102 24

Edmonton 95 103 24

Winnipeg 96 104 24

Brandon 97 105 24

The Pas 98 106 24

Regina 99 107 24

Saskatoon 100 108 24

Prince Albert 101 109 24

Swift Current 102 110 24

Medicine Hat 103 111 24

Lethbridge 104 112 24

Calgary 105 113 24

Edmonton 106 114 24

Winnipeg 107 115 24

Brandon 108 116 24

The Pas 109 117 24

Regina 110 118 24

Saskatoon 111 119 24

Prince Albert 112 120 24

Swift Current 113 121 24

Medicine Hat 114 122 24

Lethbridge 115 123 24

Calgary 116 124 24

Edmonton 117 125 24

Winnipeg 118 126 24

Brandon 119 127 24

The Pas 120 128 24

Regina 121 129 24

Saskatoon 122 130 24

Prince Albert 123 131 24

Swift Current 124 132 24

Medicine Hat 125 133 24

Lethbridge 126 134 24

Calgary 127 135 24

Edmonton 128 136 24

Winnipeg 129 137 24

Brandon 130 138 24

The Pas 131 139 24

Regina 132 140 24

Saskatoon 133 141 24

Prince Albert 134 142 24

Swift Current 135 143 24

Medicine Hat 136 144 24

Lethbridge 137 145 24

Calgary 138 146 24

Edmonton 139 147 24

Winnipeg 140 148 24

Brandon 141 149 24

The Pas 142 150 24

Regina 143 151 24

Saskatoon 144 152 24

Prince Albert 145 153 24

Swift Current 146 154 24

Medicine Hat 147 155 24

Lethbridge 148 156 24

Calgary 149 157 24

Edmonton 150 158 24

Winnipeg 151 159 24

Brandon 152 160 24

The Pas 153 161 24

Regina 154 162 24

Saskatoon 155 163 24

Prince Albert 156 164 24

Swift Current 157 165 24

Medicine Hat 158 166 24

Lethbridge 159 167 24

Calgary 160 168 24

Edmonton 161 169 24

Winnipeg 162 170 24

Brandon 163 171 24

The Pas 164 172 24

Regina 165 173 24

Saskatoon 166 174 24

Prince Albert 167 175 24

Swift Current 168 176 24

Medicine Hat 169 177 24

Lethbridge 170 178 24

Calgary 171 179 24

Edmonton 172 180 24

Winnipeg 173 181 24

Brandon 174 182 24

The Pas 175 183 24

Regina 176 184 24

Saskatoon 177 185 24

Prince Albert 178 186 24

Swift Current 179 187 24

Medicine Hat 180 188 24

Lethbridge 181 189 24

Calgary 1

Three Victoria girls, Eleanor Whitehead, 15, left, Marcia Kane, 13, and her sister Ruth, 14, pulled off a surprising feat of rowing to Port Angeles in a boat this size, overnight Friday. —(Colonist photo.)

Three Girls in Dinghy Row to Port Angeles

Three girls in a "tub" — an eight-foot dinghy — carried on their unofficial tour of navy vessels on display Friday night by rowing to Port Angeles.

The trio, Marcia Kane, 13, her sister, Ruth, 14, 908 Lyall, and Eleanor Whitehead, 15, of 506 Gore, said they saw the lights of Port Angeles and "decided to row over" to the U.S. city.

However, when they finally landed customs and immigration officials "scartched their heads on what to do with us," the girls said.

Their small craft was impounded and the trio spent some time aboard the ferry Kala-kala yesterday afternoon.

prising feat of rowing to Port Angeles in a boat this size, overnight Friday. —(Colonist photo.)

New Charges Revive Debate

CBC Hot Issue Again As Parliament Closes

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament, driving for prorogation, became snagged yesterday in fresh charge and counter-charge about the CBC before moving on to finish up its business and prorogue early this morning.

Revenue Minister Nowlan announced, too, that the government is prepared to receive applications for additional television stations after Sept. 15 at points now served by the publicly-owned CBC.

There were two other major developments.

CHANGED MIND

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons he has changed his mind about his bill of rights—scheduled for action this session—and will introduce it early at the next session for study by a joint committee of the Commons and Senate. Previously, he had said the terms of the bill did not require committee perusal.

Veterans Minister Brooks announced the government is contributing $50,000 to the New Brunswick fishermen's disaster fund—now about $230,000—established after the vicious Northumberland Strait storm June 19 and 20 claimed the lives of 35 fishermen and equipment worth about $750,000. More than 100 persons were left without income due to the deaths of heads-of-families.

Fresh controversy boiled up in the four-hour CBC debate when Lionel Chevrier (L. Montreal, Laurier) said Mr. Diefenbaker is believed in some quarters to be the man who said "heads will roll" if a CBC political comment program was continued.

"Sheer nonsense," replied Mr. Nowlan, who reports to Parliament for the CBC.

"Where is your evidence?" shouted a government supporter at Mr. Chevrier, who said the opposition has good reason to believe the government failed to make sure there was no political interference with the CBC.

REPORT ATTACKED

A special Commons broadcasting committee studied the episode and concluded that there was no evidence of political influence—a conclusion attacked again yesterday by the opposition.

"There was something rotten in the state of Denmark," said Douglas Fisher (CCF, Port Arthur).

Opposition Leader Pearson asked how that conclusion could be drawn by the committee on the evidence before it.

Testimony before the committee was that acting CBC president E. L. Bushnell had told senior CBC officials that "heads would roll" unless the program came off. He had said that he and president Alphonse Ouimet would lose their jobs if it wasn't cancelled. Mr. Bushnell, now on a two-month rest, didn't deny saying that, but told the committee there had been no directive from any government or political person.

Mr. Chevrier said the committee report was a whitewash.

Sunday School Star Pupil Nikita's Boast

SZCZECIN, Poland (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev says he was a star Sunday school pupil when he was a boy.

The Soviet premier told of that phase of his childhood during a ceremony Friday in the old town hall here, where he was made an honorary citizen of Szczecin.

"I attended church school and I won a prize from the priest for knowing the Gospels by heart," Khrushchev said.

"The best school though is the Communist party and the people. Thanks to the party and the people, I am who I am."

Man Drowns

GIBSONS (CP)—A 27-year-old man was drowned in Howe Sound near Gibsons Saturday when he was caught in an undertow.

Missile Subs Pose 'Very Real' Threat

Missile firing nuclear submarines pose a "very real" threat to Canada and the U.S.

This is the conclusion reached by Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, after six days spent watching U.S. anti-submarine task force Bravo put through its paces in mid-Atlantic.

He said yesterday on his return that the exercises though "tremendously impressive" pointed up the great difficulties in detecting and destroying nuclear submarines.

Railways in India move an average of 362,000 tons of freight every day.

SOON

GOOD MUSIC

McCALL BROS

The Floral Funeral Chapel

When cost must be considered... understanding service with no sacrifice of highest standards.

1400 Vancouver Street EV 5-4465

FLOWERS

FOR THE SHUT-IN...

Send flowers to carry your sympathy and "Get Well" wishes. For out-of-town addresses we can send by wire.

BALLANTYNE'S

900 DOUGLAS PHONE EV 4-0555

our NEW "KENTUCKY HOUSE" group

Made in our own shop, with fine Colonial lines including Wing-Back and Roll-Arm styling. Has High Back for complete rest. Hand-made for years of wear.

3-Seater Wing-Back Chesterfield	299.50
Matching Easy Chair	168.60

When You Choose a Suite You Get an Average $50.00 Trade Allowance for Your Old Suite comfort and style features to complement fine construction.

- hardwood frame
- hand-tied double coil spring seat on web base
- hand-tied coil spring back
- airfoam cushions (reversible)
- large selection of covers, including Italian imported provincial tapestry
- choice of box-pleated kick-skirt or plain

Standard FURNITURE

CHINA OF VICTORIA

you save every day at Standard

Right Through—Yates to View EV 2-3111

Governor Plunks Down $12,000

Big-Bettor Earl Has Day at Races

RUIDOSO, N.M. (AP)—Louisiana's tempestuous governor Earl K. Long stalked out of the Ruidoso Downs race track Saturday before the program was over, shouting that he had been manhandled by a New Mexico sheriff.

Unconfirmed reports said that while Long was at the track, he placed bets totalling in the neighborhood of $12,000 to $15,000. He was known to have bet $2,250 on one race alone.

Distress Call Puts Boy Up Creek

SOUTH BEND, Wash. (AP)—A 14-year-old youth whose fake distress calls sent the United States Coast Guard on a long, futile sea search found himself up the creek Saturday.

The boy has been ordered to observe a one-year curfew and generally to stay away from any sizable body of water.

The Coast Guard sent a 40-foot boat and a plane to search the waters from Seaview to Tillamook and 15 miles out to sea last month when the youth sent out distress calls from a 38-foot cabin cruiser he had taken.

Judge John T. Langenhach said the boy: Must observe an 8:30 p.m. curfew for one year, must make a monthly report to the sheriff's office for one year, is prohibited from going on the Columbia River, may not work on any water craft unless it is tied to a dock, and must pay the Coast Guard for all the fuel and oil it used.

win 2 weeks in wonderful HAWAII for two

ZENITH'S

$250,000.00 "gift of hearing" CONTEST

- 250 Winners
- 25 Cash Weeks
- 10 Big Weekly Contests
- $25,000.00 in prizes each week
- You and the hard-of-hearing win

COME IN AND ENTER

EMES ELECTRIC

1122 Blanshard EV 5-0421 Complete Stock of Batteries and Accessories

Long got into an automobile provided by Ruidoso Downs after the row and sped immediately back toward El Paso — his headquarters for the last several days.

As he stalked out of the track, Long pointed a finger toward Sheriff S. M. Ortiz and said, "All I wanted to do was change my seat. If I ever saw a convict, he is one. If I ever saw a bruiser, he is one. Why do you turn these people loose on a sick man?"

Does BLADDER IRRITATION MAKE YOU NERVOUS?

Thanks to new laboratory formulation, thousands are now discovering how much stronger and better they can feel by combating ordinary kidney or bladder irritations. These irritations often occur after 25, and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Occasionally, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritations, CISTEX usually brings fast, relaxing relief by curbing irritating urines in urines, acid urines and by urines alkaline help relief. Safe for young or old. Get CISTEX at drugstore. Feel better fast.

what are you getting for your money?

When your purchases concern your health, you want to know that the health products you buy come from reliable manufacturers... that they're as effective as modern science can make them.

But there is always a question when you buy health supplies from non-professional sources. Distribution of scientific, highly effective medications is confined by law to professional channels—your physician and your pharmacist.

Rely on your physician for treatment and your pharmacist for drug supplies... get the best that modern medicine affords.

McGill & Orme

PRESCRIPTION CHEMISTS

1011 AT ST. EV 4-1196 EV 4-2222 EV 2-3191

For Your Health's Sake... Buy Health Supplies From Professional Sources

$2595.00

Complete

FACTORY FRESH 1959 METEOR

FORDOR SEDAN

- ★ Air Conditioner
- ★ Undersealed
- ★ Full De Luxe Interiors
- ★ Choice of Colors and Interiors

MERLIN

Pandora at Quadra EV 2-3111

Conservation Needed

GOVERNMENTS, understandably concerned with the day-to-day problems of administration in many forms, do not too often look ahead to the inevitable consequences of policies shaped under pressure of current need. For instance, it is becoming clear now that the B.C. government has acted only just in time to preserve suitable forested sites for future tidewater parks in the beautiful Gulf Islands. A few more years without such reservation and all of the available sites would have been taken up privately. As it is, subdividing has hit the Gulf Islands with impressive impact.

There are other fields in which the Province will need to be on guard against the spoliation of its natural scenic spots. What happened to Cowichan Lake in the past provides a serious example, not of wilful neglect but of failure to foresee the result of accustomed policies. One of the most magnificent timber stands on Vancouver Island once grew in the lake-side drainage area. Its water was conserved by timber growth in winter when snow covered the hills, and the river neither flooded nor ran low as seasons changed. All that changed with what amounted to strip-logging of the Cowichan drainage basin, with all of the attendant evils that then followed.

A similar situation could develop with regard to the westerly and northwesterly portions of Vancouver Island which have been made accessible to logging operations in recent years. Forest management licences, it is true, are aimed at conservation and regeneration of standing timber crops. But has special thought been given to natural water drainage basins as such? It would be a pity to see what is left of pristine forested areas which include natural watersheds and their lakes exposed to a form of denudation not reparable inside of a century. Broadly speaking every lakeside, trunk road-line and seashore should be protected against denudation; not only for the conservation of its natural scenic value, but also because before long the Island will need all of the fresh water that can be impounded and used.

Citizens and the Courts

EVERY so often judges and magistrates find it necessary to remind the public of the functions of the various courts of law and the obligations devolving on those who have recourse to them. Those courts which deal with criminal cases and prosecutions under provincial or local laws must not be treated as agencies for the collection of debts or damages, or the settlement of "private fights." Their function is the preservation of law and order.

Every citizen has the right to lay a complaint upon which a prosecution may be initiated, but having done so he must be ready to follow the matter through. When a case reaches court it is not a complainant's privilege to change his mind and ask the bench to forget the whole thing. An offence against the complainant alone but against the law of the country or the community, and the ball which an individual starts rolling has to run its course.

What often happens is that someone has a fight or a dispute with a neighbor and runs to the police to lay a charge of assault or some other breach of the peace. The police may decide to prosecute and in due course the case reaches the magistrate. In the meantime the neighbors may have made friends, and when the case is called the complainant wants to have it dropped. Or two cars may collide and the driver of one lays an information against the other alleging a breach of the vehicle laws, with compensation for damage in mind. If before the case is heard the defendant pays up, the informant has no right to ask that the charge be withdrawn, because the matter by then is out of his hands.

Many people do not appear to understand the difference between a prosecution and the institution of civil proceedings.

Everywhere But Here

AUDITORIUMS are in the news. If they are not exactly springing up like mushrooms they are being mooted across the land. Vancouver recently followed Calgary and Edmonton in building such a civic theatre, and Toronto and Montreal have planned similar ventures. Now the City of Ottawa is getting into the act.

There is a boost for the project from the Canada Council, which envisages the Queen coming to Canada on the nation's 100th official birthday in 1967 to open a "national auditorium." This would be a spectacular affair, in the council's mind, with bands, parades, tattoos, fireworks, plus a festival of the arts representing the best of Canadian culture. It all sounds very splendid.

While waxing so enthusiastic the Canada Council has no notion of building this national auditorium. That would be for the City of Ottawa in conjunction with the Province of Ontario to undertake, helped by the federal government since the idea is to erect a "national" centre of which Canada may be proud.

The year 1967 seems rather far away, however, and there are indications that Ottawa citizens are bent on securing their desire much sooner than that. A committee of leading organizations—some 60 in number—has been formed, and it seems likely that their efforts will not be strung out for eight years. The projected playhouse-cum-concert hall-cum-convention centre should well reach fruition long before that.

With the proposition that the federal purse should aid an auditorium in the national capital we are apt to agree, if only on the analogy that an auditorium in a provincial capital seems equally appropriate. Not too much can be expected of the James Bay government, perhaps, but there is a hint contained in the committee formed by 60 Ottawa organizations. In Victoria we have scores if not hundreds of organizations which should be interested in such a project.

Island Editors Say

Time Is Running Out

Some users of the airport insist that the government is holding back on its promises because of the likelihood of the use of the Fairley Rotodyne here. Not even the government could logically suppose that helicopters will oust all other machines from the air over Vancouver Island.

In March of last year, Hon. G. R. Pearkes, VC, minister of defence, stated in Sidney, "Within the next year or 18 months there will be an expenditure here of more than $2,000,000." Speaking of the runway extensions and the administration buildings, he told The Review, "This is not a political promise, it is official."

Time is running out and there are few weeks left for implementation of the advances planned at the local Victoria International Airport at Patricia Bay.

Industrial Court

As the late chief justice succeeded so well, it would be wise to set up machinery to have a permanent industrial court which would command the same confidence as both sides and the public at large manifested in Mr. Sloan. His impartiality was his great strength in the eyes of the disputants and the public. An industrial court of trained legal minds would not be too high a price to pay for greater industrial harmony.

Only by such a means and such an impartial tribunal does it seem possible to point the way to a more stable state of affairs.

This idea of an industrial court does not postulate compulsory arbitration as one of its features. The court's decision could be expected, however, to appeal to the reasonableness of the disputants more effectively than our present temporary conciliation boards.

Facts Ignored

It seems to us that in gaining one of the highest standards of living in the world today, we as Canadians have ignored a few facts of life. We are not insular. We have to live in this world, a world of diminishing time and space and a world in which we must be prepared to compete with other, less fortunate, countries in order to survive. The time is fast approaching when Canadians must learn to live on less; to sacrifice some of the frills that we have come to regard as necessities.

Emergency Service

With Northland Navigation Co. ships lying idle due to strike conditions, and with many communities running short of the necessities of life, the government has stepped in and hired a ship to carry food and mail to those communities on Vancouver Island as far north as Chamisso Bay. A similar charter ship will serve other communities on the mainland. Result of the emergency run for Barkley Sound Transportation's Uchuck III may see the commencement of what may eventually become a permanent schedule to Vancouver Island's West Coast communities.

—WEST COAST ADVOCATE

"Gentlemen, why not make them without engines, now that they can't move anywhere?"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

EVERYONE will have his own memory of the royal visit. A tourist from across the line, after admitting envy of Canada's queen, might wonder at our royal weather.

It was made to order. The weatherman takes the bumps when things go wrong, so he should get credit for the peerless sunshine that matched the Queen's smile. No more perfect days could be imagined.

For this writer the lingering legacy of the Queen's visit will be the superb performance of the PPCL. Mine eyes have seen the glory of military spectacle many times and oft, but never were they better rewarded than at Beacon Hill on Friday.

I hugged myself in sheer delight. The troops were magnificent.

The bands—and there were two of them in eye-catching garb—did not play "Soldiers of the Queen," but that's what these lads from Work Point were on this scintillating day.

They were on parade before their sovereign; she had cause to be proud of them.

Here in her far-flung outpost of empire were soldiers to gladden any sovereign eye. Had they been paraded in the spectacular "blues" of dress uniform the pageantry would have rivalled anything seen at the Horse Guards Parade.

As it was, the "thin red line" was a twin khaki line of consummate size and dressing. I have never seen a regiment so well set on parade; the white waistbelts made a 100-yard ruler.

These Patricians should be entered in the tournaments and tattoos of London and Edinburgh. They would draw tumultuous applause and acclaim.

Victorians are nearly inarticulate; always they suffer from some queer inhibition on public days. But they admired the Patricians with awe and admiration even if their cheers seemed spasmodic. More than one man I spoke to was choked with emotion.

The precision of this parade was marvellous.

If there was a flaw not even a god on Olympus could have discerned it. The whole display was impeccable.

There were some moving moments. When the battalion advanced in review order, with crisp brief step and a clockwork halt. When the Queen, laid hands on the Colors, linking sovereign and soldier in ancient time-honored role. When the drum-major threw his stick high, and everyone gasped in fear and admiration. When the march past came in slow time, a superb piece of footwork. When "Auld Lang Syne" faded the old Colors off the parade ground; Burns himself, a militiaman, would have shed a tear. When the air force put an "E" in the sky, with a split-second elan worthy of the troops below.

And when the battalion swung in quick step past the royal dais, pride in every man's bearing and never one an inch out of line; and with a swing and swank that made the spine tingle.

And all of it on an earth-grass field, sans the beat on asphalt that normally keeps the rhythm intact. Elsewhere you will have read of the Queen's part in this stirring and stimulating Color ceremony, carried out as usual with flair and intimacy by a sovereign who knows her soldiers well.

This is my tribute to the Pats of Hamilton Gault who are the Patricians of today. If there are finer troops than these men were on Friday last at Beacon Hill they are not yet born.

Up the PPCL! I take my hat off to them.

Letter from London

Sardines on a Sunny Sunday

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

MAYBE, just for a change, you would like to come motoring in Britain on a sunny Sunday afternoon in summer. At least it is a change from summit conferences, hydrogen bombs, the ordinary rut of politics and the most virulent forms of international diplomacy. Motoring on Sunday has the virtue of being different.

Normally, let it be said, I leave it well alone, but so much has been said and written lately about the state of Britain's overcrowded highways I thought it best to go and have another look—to renew past experiences and see if they were so much better than the present state of affairs. So I set out destined for no place in particular and, of course, a completely impartial observer.

I had to get nowhere in particular at no time at all. I was, therefore, completely unprejudiced by the many thousands of idiots who have passed their driving tests but very obviously should not have done so, and there is nothing like a fine weekend to produce a fabulous assortment of road maniacs, both grave and gay. I really do not know which group is the worst.

The grave maniac is usually an elderly gentleman about 1895 vintage ("I was driving when you weren't thought-of" type) in a 1934 baby car clinging tenaciously to the crown of the road, or the fast lane of a four-lane highway, beeping along at the fascinating rate of about 22 mph.

You will see him in dozens on Sundays. Hands frozen to wheel, eyes glued to the road, pressing on regardless. He regards himself as the ultimate in safe and courteous driving. If you toot in the hope that he will move over a bit the chances are that he will jump in his seat and nearly turn the old clock over in his determined effort to prevent you passing. Obviously he is convinced that anything over 22 mph is dangerous.

Alternatively he will throw himself with contemptuous abandon into the slow lane just at the moment that a frustrated Jaguar has decided to pass him on the inside. There are righteously indignant comments about irresponsible drivers who do not keep the rule of the road.

A couple of hours on a road statistically described as one on which "vehicles are passing a given point at 4,000 an hour" and I was ready for home. Work that one out and it means more than a car a second—and most of them in charge of drivers who specialize on weekend transport. The regular road users, the trucks, and far too many cops are at home on sunny summer Sundays.

Time Capsule...

General Strike Ends

SAN Francisco's disastrous general strike ended 25 years ago.

One hundred thousand workers, who had left their jobs five days earlier in support of striking longshoremen, returned to work. It had been one of the most spectacular labor disputes in United States history.

Club-swinging vigilantes raided alleged Communist strongholds, followed by police. Five thousand National Guardsmen with tanks, machine guns, rifles and fixed bayonets patrolled San Francisco.

The waterfront and the wholesale district were barricaded. Fresh food supplies moved in under armed convoy.

Twenty more were hurt in strike riots in Seattle.

Hon. R. G. Reid became premier of Alberta, succeeding Hon. John E. Brownlee, who had resigned. Mrs. Dorothy Gretchen Steeves retained the North Vancouver seat in the B.C. legislature for the CCF, defeating Mackenzie Matheson, Liberal government supporter, by 500 votes in a by-election. The Wilson Lumber Co. mill at Qualicum was destroyed by fire. Loss was $30,000.

NORTHERN British Columbia Indians held formal claim to a large piece of the province, 50 years ago.

They met two Indian commissioners at Hazelton and told them that the land was theirs by inheritance, and had never been taken from them by conquest or purchase. Therefore they still owned the country.

The Rev. Canon Arthur J. Beaulieu, for 17 years rector of Christ Church Cathedral, resigned his post. He sent his resignation from England, where he had been visiting.

WE learn that the earth which is being tipped into the harbor near Ketchikan wharf, is filling up the harbor.

So the British Colonist, that watchdog of the community's welfare, reported 100 years ago.

"It is hoped the Harbor Master will check this operation."

The Hudson Bay Company steamer Labouchere, Captain Swanson, arrived yesterday from Fort Simpson and the Russian Possessions, with furs.

"She reports that Messrs. Gollidge and Harrison, who left her in May, are at Bella Coola; that they have found a small quantity of gold."

—FROM COLONIST FILES.

Some of the had driving is, of course, due to frustration; some to thoughtlessness, but a great deal is due to the driver being out of practice. I spoke to one gentleman who had had a minor accident. He confessed in the course of conversation that he had held a licence for 23 years, but that this was the first time he had driven since 1939. He had bumped a young man who passed his driving test the previous week.

One thing is certain—England's weekend drivers do not, in the majority, drive during the week. They are less efficient, and they have grossly overcrowded roads to drive on. I shall continue to keep off the roads on Saturdays and Sundays as much as it is possible to do so. My main sympathy is for coach drivers who, with their throngs of happy people, have to try to maintain a day tour schedule. Their experience is not always a match for the summer weekenders.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE establishment of public camp sites along the highways is now general in all provinces across Canada.

The behavior of the public in these accommodations, most of which are free or at a very small nominal fee, is the subject of considerable concern to the provincial superintendents responsible for the parks.

An Ontario superintendent reports such things as a porcelain sink and all its fittings torn from the wall of a comfort station and just left lying on the floor. Over 200 recently-planted trees in one park were pulled out of the ground and left to die in the sun, a total loss. In another site some wit bolted 96 doors from the inside in the change houses for the bathing beach, by some means not yet discovered. Apart from such instances of sheer mischief, many of the camps are left in dirty condition, the trash cans ignored, fireplaces left filthy, bottles and broken glass strewn about.

One superintendent, on the other hand, reported an elderly lady, giving her husband with a badly damaged heart what might be his last camping trip, leaving her camp site as follows:

She scrubbed the campsite table, removed the garbage and sprayed the container, cleaned out the fireplace and laid ready a fresh pile of fuel wood from the wood pile at the outskirts of the site. Gathered a separate heap of kindling. And brought the camp ranger a pie she had left over on departure.

This proves that there are at least two kinds of people in the world.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Modern food packaging now enables the picnic to set out with a basketful of instant litter.

The good guys always come out on top in the westerns and detective shows. Unfortunately they don't seem to do so well in the newscasts.

The author of a $10 book on sociology declares that love and marriage are incompatible. It is to be hoped that this news doesn't ruin the golden anniversary of the couple in the next book.

A research committee in the U.S. is trying to find out why people smoke. Well, in the first place they have to do something with all those ashtrays they get as wedding presents.

'Nobody's Ever Made This Kind of Money'

One-Eyed Entertainer
Has World on a String

By RON EVANS

A one-eyed, 125-pound wonder with the show business world on a string, Sammy Davis, Jr., says he's planning one of the biggest financial coups in the history of the theatre.

The deal—which would start in London, move to New York and then on to Hollywood—is so BIG, says Davis, he can't talk about the money involved because it would set the show business world on its ear.

"You know, I can tell you that I make $30,000 a week for a night club date in Miami," he said, "because a lot of people make that kind of money. But this other deal... Nobody has ever made this kind of money."

STARRING ROLE
The show in question is a musical comedy, "Free and Easy," written by Harold Arlen and Johnny Mercer. Set in St. Louis around 1910, it would have Davis in the starring role of a jockey.

But this is for the future and big things are happening right now.

He has just completed filming the folk opera "Porgy and Bess" (for which he got $100,000).

He's off on a tour of U.S. night clubs and resorts (in Las Vegas he gets $25,000 a week).

TV SPECIAL
Next October he'll star in a 90-minute TV special.

There's a television series in the works.

Davis, a squash-nosed fast-talking, engaging and delightful actor-singer-dancer-composer-comedian-mimic-business man, is built like an undernourished schoolboy.

ENOUGH FOR SIX

But he packs enough talent and energy into his broomstick frame to keep half a dozen men busy for a lifetime.

At 33, he already has 30 years' experience in the theatre behind him.

His first glimpse of the theatre world was from a backstage crib and at the age of three he was out in front prancing through the buck-and-wing with his father in a 24-man act head by his uncle, Will Mastin.

DOWN TO EARTH
With the elision of vaudeville, the act shrunk to the Will Mastin Trio—Uncle Will, Sammy, Sr., and Sammy, Jr., and rolled around the continent as regularly as the seasons.

What spelled the difference for Davis between a busy-but-distinguished performer and a top-flight entertainer commanding his own prices?

THE ACCIDENT
"Well, there were quite a few things, including some records I made."

"But mainly I guess it was the accident."

The near-fatal automobile collision five years ago crushed his nose, scarred his face and rubbed him of his left eye.

"After that I think a lot of people came to see me perform just because they were curious. They kept coming."

NO HOLDING HIM

From then on there was no holding Sammy Davis, Jr.

"I had to incorporate," he explains, "I'm in the 98-percent income tax bracket. With the corporation I'm lucky to bank $2,000 out of a $30,000 fee. Without it, it would be 'goodbye Charlie.'"

IT MYSTIFIES ME

He says of his race:

"I'm not angry about it any more. But a lot of it mystifies me... on both sides of the color spectrum, the hate and the stupidity. I'm always in hot water with somebody, either among the whites or with my own. But I've got to talk honestly."

THREE PARTS IN ONE

The Chase walkout has more impact on the future of Miss Prowse, a young girl on contract who arrived on the lot only six weeks ago. Her part was immediately combined with Barrie's and built up threefold or better.

"This seems absolutely unbelievable," said Juliet, a lovely redhead who looks like a tall Leslie Caron. "This means I'll have five times the dialogue I expected."

Juliet will go into the records as the tallest girl ever attempting dance stardom. She is close to six feet.

TOO HASTY

Meanwhile, friends of Barrie Chase, including sponsor Astaire, feel she may have acted too hastily at this early stage in her promising career.

This could give a provocative new twist to the potentialities of Hollywood flares-ups. They can be made to pay off—for others.

Masons End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Agreement in another labor dispute in British Columbia has cleared the way for work to resume Monday on 13 Vancouver building projects that had been strikebound by the Cement Masons' Union.

Railways in Britain had 16,094 steam locomotives in 1959, compared with 20,000 in 1948.

Open 8:30 a.m.—10:30 p.m.
Liquor 11 a.m.—3 p.m.
Admission $1.50, C. 50c, tax inc.

See The Butchart Gardens

DRAMATICALLY ILLUMINATED FROM DUSK!

SAMMY DAVIS, JR.
... big things are happening

STARTS MONDAY "I Was Monty's Double"

Starring everyone's favorite John Mills, Cecil Parker and Clifton James. Filmed on location in Gibraltar, this story is fantastic, exciting and true. This is not a distasteful shooting war picture, but due that will leave you with such a proud and happy feeling. An acting gem—and especially appropriate due to the renewed interest in General Montgomery.

Doors 8:30
Complete programs 6.45 and 8.45
Feature 7.00 and 9.00

OAK BAY

STARTS MONDAY "RHAPSODY"

Filmed in Europe
Starring Elizabeth Taylor, Louis Calhern, Victoria Gessman (as the violinist), Rex Harrison and Boris Karloff.

Doors at 8:30
Complete programs at 6.30 and 8.30
Feature at 7.00 and 9.15

FOX
Air Conditioned

GEM THEATRE SIDNEY MONDAY AT 7.15 "To Paris with Love"

A J. Arthur Rank Production
Technicolor
Also Gussman - Optic Techno

3RD HILARIOUS WEEK! MARKIN MONROE TONY CURTIS JACK LEMMON "SOME LIKE IT HOT"

NOTE—DOORS OPEN 12.30
Feature at 12.45, 2.30, 4.30, 7.00, 9.15

Prices This Engagement Only:
Adults—1.5, 2.0, 2.5, 3.0
After 5 p.m., 1.00
Students—1 to 5/100
After 5 p.m., 1.00
Children—25c all day
Gov't Tax included

ODEON
EV 3-0312
AIR-CONDITIONED BY REFRIGERATION

SUNDAY MIDNITE Doors Open 12.01 "THE SKULLBUGGER" will SCARE you! "THE FOUR SKULLS" of JONATHAN DRAKE SECOND HIT Adult Entertainment Only PLAZA "THE INVISIBLE INVADERS"

Open 8:30 a.m.—10:30 p.m.
Liquor 11 a.m.—3 p.m.
Admission $1.50, C. 50c, tax inc.

See The Butchart Gardens

DRAMATICALLY ILLUMINATED FROM DUSK!

USED CAR? MORRISON
CHEVROLET - OLDSMOBILE
Talk at Quads

Jillicum OUTDOOR
SUNDAY MIDNITE
Gates open 10.30 p.m.—Show starts at 12.01
"I WAS A TEENAGE WEREWOLF"
—ALSO—
"INVASION OF THE SAUCER MEN"

Jillicum OUTDOOR
CORNEL WILHE
ANTHONY QUINN
"MARACIABO"
TECHNICOLOR
SHIRLEY BOOTH
"HOT SPELL"
Monday—Driver Admitted Free Via Driver's License Ends in 10

Stars Attend Luau

Ever-glamorous Joan Crawford left her own set in Hollywood to attend a Hawaiian luau party on the 20th Century-Fox lot where she is working. Richard Egan, who's starring in "A Summer Place" at the same studio, was another guest. He's also filming a new TV series there.

Top American Teacher Frets:

U.S. Stage Devoid Of 'Great' Women

Shakespeare Groundwork
Pays Off in Great Britain

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

Miss Graham taped this interview with Mr. Meisner prior to her departure for Europe and a vacation abroad.

PARIS (NANA)—There are no great actresses in the American theatre today—according to "Sandy" Meisner, one of the most sought-after teachers of acting.

Meisner's classes have included most of the top stars of U.S. stage and screen today—Gregory Peck, Eli Wallach and Richard Boone. He is now conducting his second year of summer classes in Hollywood.

Meisner's current pupils are all professionals—Mort Sahl, Phyllis Kirk, Barbara Rush, Marge Champion, Donald Harron, et al.

Overlooking Helen Hayes and Katharine Cornell who are considered today's two top actresses, Meisner states, "I don't know any great actresses in America. I think Alfred Lunt could have been a great actor, if he hadn't spent so many years playing below his potential."

"Laurence Olivier is good. A lot of English actors don't like Olivier—they don't like his voice, of all things! It's important for an actor to have a good voice—as long as he doesn't think about it. There was a well-known Italian actor who didn't give great performances until he lost his voice."

"I don't believe in child actors and I won't take any, even teenagers, in my classes."

Meisner is not a "method" exponent of acting, although "we are sort of related." He studied at The Group Theatre 25 years ago with Lee Strasberg who soon afterward went over to the Actors' Studio, famous for being known as the natural school of acting, where you are encouraged to pretend you are a bellowing bull or a cup of tea.

"Marlon Brando is credited with creating the 'Method,'" Meisner recalled. "But he was acting that way before he came in contact with the Actors' Studio. The actors copied his style of acting and called it the 'Method.'"

To get back to the dearth of good actors and actresses: "The reason some of the British stars are better than the American, as English actor Michael Redgrave once said to me, is that in England there is so much Shakespeare—that's where the great parts are; modern plays don't have the good roles that create good actors."

I asked Meisner why he had come to the movie capital to conduct his summer classes. Most easterners affect to despise their movie brethren.

"People here have a lot of spirit," he explained. "They're hungry out here, they want to learn."

Chinese Food!
MING'S
FREE DELIVERY
EV 4-3917

Jillicum OUTDOOR SUNDAY MIDNITE Gates open 10.30 p.m.—Show starts at 12.01 "I WAS A TEENAGE WEREWOLF" —ALSO— "INVASION OF THE SAUCER MEN"

Jillicum OUTDOOR
CORNEL WILHE
ANTHONY QUINN
"MARACIABO"
TECHNICOLOR
SHIRLEY BOOTH
"HOT SPELL"
Monday—Driver Admitted Free Via Driver's License Ends in 10

USED CAR? MORRISON
CHEVROLET - OLDSMOBILE
Talk at Quads

Jillicum OUTDOOR
SUNDAY MIDNITE
Gates open 10.30 p.m.—Show starts at 12.01
"I WAS A TEENAGE WEREWOLF"
—ALSO—
"INVASION OF THE SAUCER MEN"

Jillicum OUTDOOR
CORNEL WILHE
ANTHONY QUINN
"MARACIABO"
TECHNICOLOR
SHIRLEY BOOTH
"HOT SPELL"
Monday—Driver Admitted Free Via Driver's License Ends in 10

USED CAR? MORRISON
CHEVROLET - OLDSMOBILE
Talk at Quads

Jillicum OUTDOOR
SUNDAY MIDNITE
Gates open 10.30 p.m.—Show starts at 12.01
"I WAS A TEENAGE WEREWOLF"
—ALSO—
"INVASION OF THE SAUCER MEN"

'At Our Elbows'

Goldwyn Sees New Riches In Pay-TV

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Pay television is "real" and "right at our elbows," declares Samuel Goldwyn, long an ardent crusader for the selective form of air presentation. His opinion is backed by practically every major producer in Hollywood.

The feeling is current that the Federal Communication Commission's recent go-ahead signal for sectional trial runs of various coin-in-box methods, including the simple direct-channel broadcasts, will go into effect by year's end or shortly thereafter.

However, these tests, fought bitterly the last 10 years by the big networks and theatrical interests, must be made under highly restricted conditions. Never has a new business faced so many and such devious roadblocks.

QUICK RETURN
It is secretly estimated by one Hollywood source that a movie's cost, plus a handsome profit that would take months to accumulate under ordinary distribution methods, might be racked up in a single night at $1 a home set.

Goldwyn has a backlog of 52 features, many among the finest movies ever made in Hollywood.

PAYS BETTER

"I'm simply waiting to get my price," he said. "Pay-TV is right around the corner and I feel that these subjects, if given such a setting, could command a far higher profit for me than selling them to the commercialized TV purveyors."

Crosbys 'Hang' Together?

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Las Vegas' Sahara Hotel is eagerly anticipating one of the most jam-packed months in its existence with the coming July 28 of the four Crosby boys. But — and there's a big one in this — the management is holding its breath with fingers crossed hoping that Bing's tempestuous offspring can keep their tempers down and the act functioning until opening date.

The alarm is repeatedly sounded from Chicago, where the four are breaking in their revue, that the kids are at each other's throats most of the time and on several occasions have called it a day, only to mend their differences temporarily and resume action.

ART GALLERY of GREATER VICTORIA

1000 Hess St. EV 4-3110

EXHIBITIONS
SUNDAY AND TUESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
1. The Winslow Show
2. Drawing and Prints by George Kutham.
3. Group of Seven—Prints.

GALLERY HOURS
Closed Monday
Tuesday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m.
also Friday evenings, 7.30-9.30
Admission 25c
Free on Sundays
Single membership $7.50 per annum.

TRUE! FEARLESSLY TOLD!

$2,000,000 A WEEK WAS HIS APPALLING "TAKE!"

AL CAPONE

ROD STEIGER

CAPITOL
A FAMOUS PLAYERS THEATRE

Adult Entertainment Only
Feature at 8.00
1.00 - 2.00
8.00 - 7.00
9.15

NOW! TOPS IN EXCITEMENT!

WIDMARK
COBB-LOUISE
HOLLIMAN

"THE TRAP"

TECHNICOLOR

Royal

Doors 1 p.m.; Feature 1.30, 2.30, 5.15, 7.30, 9.30
Last Complete Show 9.30
the till 3 p.m., Children till 5 p.m.

ONE WEEK ONLY! Aug. 3rd to Aug. 9th — at 8.30
Saturday Matinee at 2.30

THE CREATORS OF My Fair Lady ANNOUNCE

fubilee

"Live Entertainment That's More Palatable Than the Headiest Giggie Juice"—The Province

★ Starring Corinne Conley, Dave Broadfoot & Paul Kligman.
★ Staged by Brian Macdonald

MAIL ORDERS NOW!
Reservations at 8.00—Price: $8.00, $5.15, $2.50, $1.45
Sat Mat. at 2.30 p.m.—$7.15, $2.50, $1.45, $1.15
Including Government Tax
Please Enclose Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope for Return of Tickets
BOX OFFICE OPENS MONDAY, 27th JULY

Royal

Boone Has Cake, Will Eat

It was actor Richard Boone's 42nd birthday, and it took him and actress Ida Lupino to hold that big birthday cake in Hollywood. Gift was suitably decorated with the western motifs associated with Boone's TV series, "Have Gun, Will Travel."

Entertainment Parade

Three-Way Week In Store for City

By BERT BINNY

Entertainment gets quite a fillip this week with three widely differing performances on tap.

The "Smile Show" pursues its merry way at the Langham Court Theatre every night and has for its second guest artist, Jimmy Bryce, only very recently out from Scotland and a vocalist and guitarist of repute.

The Victoria Symphony Orchestra provides the second concert at Butchart Gardens on Thursday evening with Dvorak's "New World Symphony and von Weber's "Oberon" Overture.

The soloist will be Roald Reitan of Tacoma who was successful in the Metropolitan Opera auditions in January.

Starting this Thursday and running through Tuesday, July 28, will be the "Holiday Watercade" at the Memorial Arena, at 8.30 nightly and Saturday afternoon at 2.30 p.m.

It is sponsored by the Victoria North Kiwanis Club with all the proceeds in aid of retarded children.

OUTDOOR SKATING

Monday Night
8.00 - 10.30

Colwood Roller Rink
1700 Island Highway
Next to Ches Motel

the ROMA ITALIAN RESTAURANT

Hours: 11.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m.
3.30 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Sun. and Holidays: 4.30 p.m. to 9 p.m.
RESERVATIONS: LV 5-8225
852 FORT ST.

Combining...
A COMPANY OF OVER
30 IN A GREAT
NEW MUSICAL
EXTRAVAGANZA

THE WORLD'S MOST MODERN
PORTABLE WATER & STAGE SPECTACULAR

- Famous Stage, Screen and TV Stars
- Beautiful Aquatic Shows
- World's Finest Production
- International Singing Champions
- Musical Comedy
- Famous Water Ballet

Entertainment for the Entire Family

MEMORIAL ARENA

July 23 to 28

TICKETS NOW ON SALE

Arena Box Office, Eaton's, H.R.C., Kent's, Woodward's and 1054 Fort St., N. Kiwanis Club Office—EV 5-0622.
Adults $1.50, $2.00, $2.50. Children under 12 half price.

OPENING NIGHT IS FAMILY NIGHT

With each adult ticket purchased
1 FREE ticket to child under 12

Evening Shows at 8.15 p.m. Saturday Matinee at 2.30

SPONSORED BY NORTH KIWANIS CLUB
PROCEEDS IN AID OF RETARDED CHILDREN

Cure for Delinquents: Nudist Camp

By WAMBLY BALD
North American Newspaper Alliance

PALMERTON, Pa. — Mrs. Zelda Supplee, a robust, brown-haired woman of about 40, disclosed a novel plan for combating juvenile delinquency during an interview in which she, this reporter, and 150 other men and women, were naked.

Mrs. Supplee, who runs Sunny Rest Lodge, nudist camp, says wayward youths should be sent to nudist camps for 10-day periods, properly supervised. "This would show them," she said, "that there is nothing shameful about the human body and that one does not have to be furtive to get a peek at it."

Mrs. Supplee's remarks were directed against a resolution by the Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars, demanding emergency legislation to ban obscene literature from the newsstands because of its link with juvenile delinquency.

"They should know better," said sun-tanned Mrs. Supplee. "Such legislative action against juvenile delinquency has never proved successful. The only true answer is pure nudism which can make a teen-ager's mind wholesome because it gives him a mental health approach to the facts of life.

"Nudism would eliminate morbid curiosity about the human body. It's all this unhealthy mystery that builds up tensions in young people and leads them to reading these obscene books."

Don't Ban Bad Books —Eliminate Curiosity

★ ★ ★

It recommended to the Pennsylvania legislature that problem children be entered into nudist camps for at least a 10-day period. "And then their morbid tensions will melt like snow," she added.

A heated, free-for-all discussion followed.

"Most kids wouldn't let themselves be dragged to a nudist camp except under armed guard..."

"But it would only be for 10 days..."

"That's it. The treatment would be too sudden. They couldn't adjust to it that fast..."

"It's the only way to give them a natural, healthful perspective..."

"It may not cure juvenile delinquency, but it's a step in the right direction..."

"This is a free country. How can you compel a teenager to stay at a nudist camp if it bores him?"

Sunny Rest's chaplain, Rev. William Albert, declared: "In all my years associated with this camp, I have never known of any child here ever becoming a juvenile delinquent. They are all the children of nudists and their outlook on life has remained wholesome. Perhaps other children can profit, too."

Off the Record

By Jim Taylor

Hilarious Sobs

Funniest man on records these days is Tommy Dee, who doesn't mean to be.

Dee is a disc jockey whose songs are to records what sick jokes are to humor. In a dead-serious, tear-stained voice he does monologues about tropical little things like plane crashes and condemned murderers, getting occasional vocal assistance from a group called the Teen-Aires.

NO COMEDIAN

Make no mistake, the man is not a comedian. He is an extremely shrewd individual cashing in on a trend, the trend that demands a little something mixed up in modern music.

And each time he does these serious, soul-searching monologues, he sends me into gales of helpless laughter.

STUPIDLY FUNNY

Maybe I have no sense of the serious. But somehow, when I finally got used to hearing that abomination called "Three Stars" and had finished trying to tear it to shreds, I came to the conclusion that although it was in bad taste, it was so downright stupid it came out funny.

You remember that one. It was the tribute to Buddy Holly, Richie Valens and the Big Bopper, rock 'n' rollers killed in a plane crash. It was the one with deathless lines like "Buddy's singing for God now, in his chorus in the sky."

GET IN AND BAWL

Now Mr. Dee has another one, something that really lets you get in there and bawl. Or laugh. It's called "The Chair," a monologue about a fellow sitting in prison waiting for them to strap him in and shoot the juice, Bruce.

The plot concerns this likable young chap who goes to a dance and meets a girl "But," intones Dee, "She went for another, and I went for my gun." Which just goes to show that the guy might be a good dancer, but he'll never win a girl shot on "Brain Trust," even if he beats the rap.

STARTED THE MESS

From there, through verse after verse, he talks about wardens, lawyers, ministers and his suddenly-faithful girl, "who is working so hard for me outside." I thought that was nice of her, considering she started the whole mess in the first place.

But when the sobbing is over, he's still in jail, and you never find out if he gets out or not. Maybe, everything considered, it would be better if he doesn't make it.

Then Dee can do a tear-jerking sequel. I like a good laugh.

NEW RELEASES: Prettiest record around is the new version of "The Three Bells," the old "Jimmy Brown Song" now done by the Browns... Warren Covington's "Big Bad Train" is an instrumental that is catching on in spots... Jack Scott's "The Way I Walk," already a hit in California, is beginning to show up on local charts... Connie Francis' new LP has one cut worth special mention, a Peggy Lee styled version of "Hallelujah, I Love Him So."

CAFETERIA ON RAILS: Cafeteria cars were experimentally introduced on Norwegian railways in 1959, passengers eating either at the counter or in coaches.

LANGHAM COURT THEATRE
ON STAGE
"SMILE SHOW"
Only British Music Hall in North America
Nightly to August 8
8.15 p.m.
$1.25 — Box EV 2-7798

It's the
COLONIAL ROOM
For Your Dining Pleasure
Business Lunch, 12-3 p.m.
Dinner, 5-9 p.m. Daily
JAMES BAY HOTEL
270 Government St.
EV 4-5151

'First Lady' Eleanor Returning to Scene

Neither heat nor holidays stop the Progressive Artists. Friday and Saturday at The Scene, 1386 Wharf Street, they feature "Canada's first lady of song," Eleanor Collins.

The following weekend, Buddy Glover directs the Progressive Artists' 13-piece band.

Reservations are available at EV 5-8143 or EV 2-7748.

JOAN MARSHALL
... afraid to smile

Looking in Mirror Terrified Her For Two Years

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Joan Marshall, who stars as Sailor in TV's Bold Venture series, began her boldest real-life venture 10 years ago when bulbar polio paralyzed her vocal chords, spine, neck and face.

A doctor in Chicago's Contagious Disease Hospital told the slim blonde actress, then 15 years old, that she probably never would walk or talk again. But her will power and constant therapy proved him wrong.

"If anyone had told me then that I'd be able to function as perfectly as I do now, I'd have thought it was a pep talk for a dying person," said Miss Marshall.

'Fur Lady' Successor

'Jubilee' Coming For Week

That great cross-Canada theatrical success, "My Fur Lady," now has a successor. It is the bubbling, frolicsome revue, "Jubilee," starring Corinne Conley, stage and TV comedian Paul Kilgman, and Dave Broadfoot.

There is a supporting cast of 11 girls and boys and the production is guided by "Fur Lady" producers Brian MacDonald and James Donville.

Victoria will be the first stop on a tour for "Jubilee," a Vancouver-born show. It hits the Royal Theatre for a full week, starting Aug. 3 and showing evenings at 8.30 with a Saturday matinee at 2.30. Tickets go on sale the week of July 27 at the Royal Theatre.

OPEN SAT. and SUN. at 5 p.m.

BAMBOO GARDENS

Stuffed Japan Shrimp
Pineapple Sweet and Sour
Loan Pork
Orders to Take Out

Open Daily, 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. — Sunday 5 p.m. to 1 a.m.
Friday, 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. — Saturday 5 p.m. to 2 a.m.
170-176 GOVERNMENT STREET — Between Fingert and Hurd

Detergent Takes 'Pops' from Disc

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press International

Many owners of high fidelity equipment complain about their records scratching and popping and wonder whether they can do anything about it.

They can. The main thing is to keep records clean. Be sure, in the first place, that you get unplayed records.

Handle each record carefully by the edges so that your fingers don't smudge the grooves. After you are through playing it, take it off the turntable, again not touching the grooves. Put it back into its jacket promptly.

Every minute the record is in the open, it collects dust and grit.

One of the best ways to clean records is to wash them in lukewarm suds.

One of the best known makers of fine records recommends a solution of a common detergent (Joy). He mixes one part of the detergent with 10 parts water and wets a handkerchief with the solution.

Then he puts the record on a turntable and starts it going. He presses the damp handkerchief down fairly hard on the record and lets the whirling of the turntable gradually bring handkerchief and finger to the centre of the record.

CHURNS UP DIRT

The detergent churns up a lot of damp dirt which sticks to the stylus after the first playing. This can be lifted off with the tips of two fingers.

Some persons wipe every record carefully with a special cloth before they play it. This helps, but a cloth does not penetrate far into the grooves.

THE RECORD SHELF

By Clyde Gilmour

To its shame, the record industry has often published operatic "highlights", long-plays which only meagrely and stingly represented the full-length works—sometimes, in fact, with less than 15 minutes of music on each 12-inch LP side.

No such complaint can be lodged against a superb new hi-fi edition of highlights from Mozart's sparkling comic opera, The Marriage of Figaro (Angel 35326), recorded in Vienna under the baton of Herbert von Karajan.

DE LUXE CAST

The de luxe cast participates in a total of 14 solos, duets and concerted numbers in addition to a tingling performance of the famous overture by the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.

It all aggregates 26 minutes of music on one side and 30 minutes on the other; close to a solid hour of top-drawer Mozart.

LONDON SOLOIST

Soloists include George London as a fine Count Almaviva, Elizabeth Schwarzkopf as a lustrous Countess, Sena Jurinac as a love-dazed Cherubino, Irmgard Seefried as a bubbly Susanna, and Erich Kunz as a high-spirited Figaro.

The "packaging," too, is admirable in this Angel set. An inserted leaflet contains an Italian-English libretto for all the excerpts.

For customers who don't care to scrutinize the words line-by-line while listening, an-

SKY LISTENER

Australia's largest radio-telescope, completed in 1959 near Sydney, has a saucer-shaped aerial 60 feet in diameter.

SEVEN-TITCHEN CHINESE FOOD

Free Delivery
Open from 4 p.m.
Phone EV 4-1914

THE NET LOFT

The restaurant with the view of the harbor, and all the amenities for your

Complete Dining Pleasure

LUNCHEON, 12 NOON TO 2 P.M.

Every Day, including Sundays

DINNER EVERY EVENING—

5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Sundays—12 p.m. to 9 p.m.

640 Montreal St. Reservations: EV 5-5513

CLEARANCE SAVINGS!

TWO SPECIAL GROUPS OF DRESSES

More leaders among the wonderful July sale values at Mallek's. Dresses, fresh and dainty for warm weather wear, in sheers, Arnel, Terylene and crepes. Prints and plain shades and in a full size range.

Reg. to $19.95

Reg. to $24.95

$9.95

$12.95

Mallek's

1696 DOUGLAS

EV 2-5151

Budget Terms with No Extra Cost

SKY MASTERS

JUDGE PARKER

BLONDIE

BEN BOLT

LIL ABNER

REX MORGAN

ARCHIE

JULIE JONES

POGO

RIP KIRBY

Garden Notes

Only Direct Hits Count

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

SLUG CONTROL (S. B. Sidney)—It is true that common salt will kill a slug, but only when you drop a pinch of it on his back. Scattering the stuff around the garden is ineffective, as it dissolves and washes away so easily, and may be actually harmful to the soil and plants.

Better use a proprietary slug bait, tucking small piles in under the spreading foliage of ground-hugging plants, or covering them with grapefruit skins to protect them from the weather. Or better still, treat the area to be protected with one of the new liquid slug-killers, diluted with water and applied in a watering can.

CRYSTAL APPLE CUCUMBER (W.W.E. Victoria)—There is no need to erect trellis-work on which to grow the Crystal Apple cucumber, as it has exactly the same habit of growth as the conventional green varieties. I think it pays to pinch out the tip of the vine after it has made five leaves to encourage the production of side shoots, and these, when they appear, may be allowed to ramble at will over the ground.

The ball-shaped, pure white fruits of the Crystal Apple cucumber have a somewhat milder flavor than the green kinds, and folks who can't eat cucumbers ordinarily have told me they have no digestive troubles at all with the white varieties.

SICK BEGONIA (H.G. Victoria)—The begonia leaves you sent me appear to be infected with a leaf-spot fungus. Better pick off and burn all obviously affected leaves and give the plant a light dusting with rose dust, paying particular attention to the undersides of the foliage.

Better check up on your watering, too, as too much or too little water is a predisposing factor in such ailments. It won't hurt your plant to knock it out of its pot carefully, so you can examine the state of the root ball. You can see then if the soil in the bottom is too dry or too soggy wet.

BEGONIA SEEDS (J.A.O.M. Victoria)—Unless you have a proper greenhouse, I doubt if you would have much luck in growing tuberous begonias from seed. The seeds are very fine and difficult to manage, and are extremely subject to the damping-off disease in their seedling stage.

There are other ways, however, in which you can multiply your present stock of begonias. You can take cuttings from your plants, for instance, rooting them in pots of coarse sand and peat moss, or you can cut your tubers in half next spring, just as the first growth buds appear on the tops of the bulbs. Also, seedling plants and rooted cuttings can be purchased quite reasonably from the Swan Lake Conservatory.

The small tubers you keep finding in the soil of your garden look to me like anemone corms, but I suggest that you take a few of them to the Provincial Museum for an expert opinion.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Anything to Help a Boatman

The Away We Go II cleared Sandy Hook to starboard in mid-morning and made the swing east into the block-long swells of the Atlantic. She's a 34-foot Richardson sedan and she lifts and falls gracefully in a good sea. I put her on course for Fire Island and turned the wheel over to my friend John Dundas.

We call him Chief. He puts a navy cap on and takes the helm like Captain Bligh. The only trouble with the portrait is that he is stout and has gray hair and a hard face. He looks like a house dick who has knocked on the wrong door.

He kept both engines at 2000 rpm, which gives us 12 knots. This would bring us to Fire Island Inlet at 3.20 p.m. and we proposed to tie up and spend the night watching the restless natives. He turned the ship-to-shore speaker on because he's nosy and likes to listen to the chatter. I sat aft in the sun reading Sam Crowther's new Crown book, "The Small Boat Guide."

The book is the greatest. I have a boat library at home, but this one tells things about boat handling and engines that I never knew. I've been through it twice, and I'm still learning. Coney Island passed to port and we could see the big Ferris wheels, the parachute drop and the scenic railway.

The twin exhausts blubbered in the green brine and Chief said that what he liked about boating was that the people in it are so considerate. "A boatman will do anything for another boatman." Yes, I said, he sure will.

We passed Jones Beach Inlet at 2.10. I phoned Fire Island Coast Guard and asked if there were any unusual conditions in the inlet. "Nothing," the man said, "except they're doing some dredging." The inlet is tricky without dredging. It is shaped like a fish hook with a long shank and I had never been in it before, so I took it slow.

Outside the inlet, two men were fishing in a skiff. "Any problem at the inlet?" I shouted. They looked at me as though I was barmy. They shook their heads. No. I moved in between the channel buoys at 700 rpm—dead slow. I was carried on a two-knot tide. At the last moment, I saw it: a curving ripple in the water.

This could only be a pipe underwater. A big one. I put both engines in reverse and saw that the boat couldn't stop in time. So, rather than have the Away We Go hit the thing with both props spinning, I put the engines in neutral. Then it came: thump... thump. Chief thought we had torn the bottom out. He checked the bilges while I tried the propellers. The port engine was okay. The starboard one sounded as if someone had dropped a pound of rocks into a coffee grinder.

I shut it down. "What was that," I said, "about consideration?" No one had told us about the pipe. We limped to an anchorage. A man watched us. "You can't tie up here long," he said. "Only temporary." We backed out. We crept to a big marina behind an island.

The Away We Go was just properly moored when a man said: "We have no facilities for you here." I explained the case. He shrugged. "Why don't you follow the inland course to Amityville? Or somewhere? They have boatyards there."

We cast off. The channel was like a grassy canal. We followed it all evening until we reached Jones Beach Inlet. Every marina had signs: "Members only." "No transients." "Do not tie up here." We met a Nassau County police boat named The Sergeant. The cops said to follow them. We did.

They were kind. They led us to a boatyard at Freeport, across the street from Guy Lombardo's nice white home. We moored for the night. Next to us was a dragger. He had a few dead mossbunkers on deck. It was a hot night. We ate at Otto's and went to bed with the ports open.

In the morning, we asked the boatyard man for emergency repairs. I had two spare propellers on board. "Sorry," he said, "I have my own customers to take care of. Where you guys from?" We cast off and headed down the canal for the sea. We made it to Sea Bright slow and easy.

The boat was taken out of water at Zobel's. Frank Sarpolis studied it. "That thump you heard," he said, "came from a piece of nylon rope on the propeller shaft. There's nothing wrong."

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

NORTH
♠ 965
♥ AK432
♦ 832
♣ Q5
EAST
♠ 87
♥ 10987
♦ 1076
♣ 7642
SOUTH (D)
♠ AKQJ43
♥ 65
♦ AQ5
♣ AK
The bidding:
South	West	North
3♠	Pass	3♥
3♠	Pass	5♥
6♣	All Pass

Opening lead: ♠ J

Holding the North cards, when partner opens a strong two bid, you should make some try for slam. When South rebids three spades, a raise to four does not do justice to your hand, and to bid six directly is too optimistic. A compromise of five spades is suggested.

When this hand was played in a duplicate tournament in New York, we were surprised to see how many players failed to make six spades. One popular line of play, after winning the club lead, and drawing two rounds of trumps, was to cash the ace and king of hearts and trump a heart. If they divided 3-3, declarer would return to dummy with the spade nine and discard his losing diamonds on the two good hearts. If hearts don't divide, he can still resort to the diamond finesse. The odds are about two to one to make the slam this way, but on this particular hand it would fail.

You can get a better price than two to one with another line of play. The best percentage play is to win the club lead; cash two rounds of trumps, and lead a heart toward dummy, but let West win the trick. The contract is now assured unless the hearts divided 5-1 and the diamond finesse is wrong.

It makes no difference what West returns, but let's say he leads another club. You play a heart to dummy's ace, and discard a diamond on dummy's heart king. By leading a small heart, you establish the fifth heart; using the spade nine to get back to dummy and discard the diamond queen.

Released by The Associated Newspapers

The Daily Cross-Word Puzzle...

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Feel one's way. 2. Wallabies. 3. Horn's neck hair. 4. Blackbird. 5. Narrow road. 6. Sweetest. 7. Slew as gun. 8. Movement of ocean water. 9. Recited. 10. Sled. 11. Three-legged person. 12. All-weather for waste. 13. Litter vetch. 14. Pig. 15. Arch water garment. 16. What baseball team are batting first. 17. Cleveland pitcher. 18. Mineral. 19. Tibetan. 20. Saddle. 21. River of England. 22. Hempock. 23. Sanctified person. 24. Roman name. 25. Sacculent plant (pl.). 26. Insects. 27. Years old. 28. River island. 29. Golf score. 30. Cactus. | 31. Old slow graceful snail. 32. Endless of land. 33. Narrow inlet. 34. Death notice. 35. Wife of Goliath. 36. Victor. 37. Man's nickname. 38. City of Nevada. 39. To harden. 40. Bovine animal (pl.). 41. Fortune teller. 42. Business transactions. 43. Not any. 44. Makes lace edges. 45. Pierce. 46. American. 47. Indian. 48. Bartolomeo's wife. 49. Neighbor sheep (pl.). 50. Woodland deity. 51. Sea. 52. Beverage. 53. Tugboat. 54. Tugboat. 55. Fairhead. 56. Form of "to be." 57. American composer. 58. Elm. 59. Fisherman's winter basket. 60. Theatre. 61. Passageway. 62. Extremities. 63. Australian aboriginal stone hatchet. 64. Old World wild goat. 65. Baseball team. 66. Turkish title (pl.). 67. Signifying maiden name. 68. Feminine name. |
|---|---|

EDUCATIONAL, PROFITABLE

and... Lots of FUN, TOO!

TO BE A DAILY COLONIST CARRIER

- A Colonist Carrier receives a training for the future... a basic training in the operation of a business, responsibility, thrift and self-reliance.
 - A Colonist Carrier can earn between $25.00 and $45.00 per month for a little spare time each day.
 - A Colonist Carrier can have fun by winning trips, banquets and prizes of all kinds for his sales efforts.
- Due to some older boys leaving for full-time jobs, there will be a few routes available, also opportunities for summer delivery only to cover boys going on holidays.
- If you are between 12 and 15 years of age, fill out and mail the application below.

TO COLONIST CIRCULATION DEPT.
2631 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C.
Telephone EV 3-1111

COLONIST ROUTE APPLICATION

DATE.....

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

TELEPHONE..... AGE.....

SCHOOL..... GRADE.....

Inside view of patio shows use of translucent roof and vinyl-coated glass screening.

Bars Insects, Rain

Comfortable, Screened Patio Keeps Neighbors Guessing!

Patios are designed for enjoyment, not for deep thinking but four things can hinder enjoyment of patios:

Rain, sun, insects and noisy neighbors, not necessarily in that order.

Screening the patio from the harmony of summer is the logical thing to contemplate—once you have the patio paid for.

Properly installed stringers and support posts are not too expensive to come by, and a covered, screened patio is something to think about for the seasons yet to come.

Roofing-in against the elements need not defeat the feeling of being out of doors. Fiberglass panels are translucent and can be purchased in densities that permit upward of 80 per cent of light to pass through—without glare, of course.

At the maximum in screening effect, they approach solid roofing. That type of panel is for the folks who want to kid themselves that they're roughing it outdoors. The indoors effect consoles them.

Panel is light, and does not require massive supporting. Panels are made in flat, corrugated and step-lap form. The choice is yours.

Properly installed, with adequate ventilation directly under the roofing area, they'll serve for many years.

Ensures Privacy

Colors are molded in, and highly fade-resistant.

Choice of colors permits you to enjoy other shades than that of sunlight, and allows you to match the patio decor to the rest of the house.

Screening, obviously, bars the bugs from patio living. A second and very important plus-value for screening is that it keeps the neighbors guessing as to the activities on your patio.

What kind of screening? Vinyl-coated glass screening is glare-free, shrink-proof, stretch-resistant, rustproof and fire-safe. Once properly installed, maintenance is almost nil.

In case small fry poke a space gun through the mesh, repair is a relatively simple chore. Furthermore, screening is made, as is the roofing, with color built-in. Posts should be no more than 72 inches apart, in order to support screening properly.

Aluminum screening serves well, too. A light coat of screen lacquer will keep the soft, aluminum sheen from fading. Be sure fasteners used are compatible with aluminum, so that corrosion does not occur.

Metal screening serves adequately, if you maintain an every-other-season painting routine. Less frequently, of course, if you store screen panels each winter.

From the outside, patio looks like what it is—an extension of the house.

By Bettie Blight

Woman's Angle

Minimum Upkeep Watchword In Planning Recreation Room

Easy upkeep is the key word when you plan your recreation room. Unlike the living room—where practicality is frequently by-passed for the sake of appearance—your recreation room should require minimum upkeep. The nice thing is that you needn't sacrifice attractiveness.

Choose your wall and ceiling surfaces carefully. Wood paneling is the prime favorite. If you have a fireplace, you might break the monotony of wood by facing the fireplace wall with ceramic tile to make it the focal point of your room.

Select practical fabrics and sturdy furniture. An old door, supported with six short legs, will double as a fireplace seat or coffee table. Cover large airfoam cushions with bright, striped sailcloth or denim.

These can act as cushions on your fireplace seat, or be tossed on the floor for the small fry to curl up on.

Keep a supply of dishes, a kettle, a double burner cooking unit in your recreation room. Half the joy of your fun room will be lost if you have to dash upstairs when the family demands a round of hot chocolate and a late evening snack.

Resist the temptation to move in all the discarded furniture from the rest of the house. Underfurnish rather than overfurnish. Leave lots of room to move around, to dance, play games.

Unpainted furniture offers a splendid opportunity to furnish simply and economically, and bright, clear colors are recommended. And use lots of yellow if your room tends to be dark.

SAVES OIL . . . CUTS SERVICE

Color Schemes Most Effective If Kept Simple

Would you like the decor of your home to express stability, strength and soundness? Then make the walls brown, charcoal or olive green with lighter-colored floors and low-key color accents.

On the other hand, you may prefer to have your friends and neighbors think of your family as the creative, imaginative type. You can achieve this effect with white or off-white walls, light-toned floors and lightweight furniture. Accent these with dark wood paneling and real or simulated stone and brick walls.

PSYCHOLOGY USED

These ideas are offered by color stylists in a study on the psychological effect of wall colors. The study was made for business offices, which are becoming more elegant and handsomely decorated than homes today. Many of the tips for office planners are valuable to people decorating their homes.

The color experts find that the most effective color schemes are the simplest. A room should be "pulled together" with color by creating a continuous unbroken background of a neutral tone, against which a few good decorative effects may be dramatized.

UNIFIED EFFECT
Experts advise painting windows and door frames, shelves, wallboard or brick surfaces the same color as the walls for a unified effect.

Against the neutral background, introduce accent colors on the ceiling or one wall, usually the one facing the entrance. In a hallway, make end walls red, orange, or yellow to make the long narrow corridor seem shorter. Paint the doors in bright colors to break the monotony of a long hall.

ALUMINUM SCREEN DOORS
From $39.50 to $89.50
SUMMERY WINDOWS Ltd.
131 Glenview EV 5-4413

the true TRUE insulation

WESTROC
ROCK WOOL INSULATION

MAXILITE STORM GLASS
CLEAR AND TINTED
COOL IN SUMMER — WARM IN WINTER
ELIMINATE CONDENSATION • FADGE REDUCE HEAT LOSS • GLARE SCREENS
CUSTOM MADE FULL FRAME ALUMINUM SCREENS
Dealer Inquiries Invited
Maxwell Industries Ltd. • 405 Bay St. • EV 5-0734

ROOFING NEW or RE-ROOFING DOWN PIPES, EAVESTROUGHS RENEWED
Latest Designs, Colors in Roofing Materials
CAPITAL CITY ROOFING CO.
LOCATED AT THE 1-STOP 1200 OAK BAY AVE.
For a Better Job By a Qualified Crew, Telephone EV 3-5911
Jack Houston EV 2-9934
Bob McIntosh EV 4-1546
Approved Applicators: Sidney • Johns-Manville • Barrett

Paint-filled brushes keep moist for weeks in this airtight bag.

Painter's Aide

No Need To Clean Brushes

Painting's a prime pastime for putterers, and a lot more paint would go on homeowners' possessions if it weren't for the brush-cleanup bit that goes with every painting job.

That's where the new, plastic brush bag illustrated, above, comes into the picture. The vinyl plastic is vapor-proof.

Raised ribs along each edge of the opening that runs the length of the bag lock together under finger pressure to form a zipper-like closure.

A paint-loaded brush will stay moist and ready for use up to several weeks, depending on how volatile the solvent in a particular paint happens to be.

The bag turns inside-out for cleaning, and can be used over-and-over again.

Bags are made in sizes for 2½-inch brushes and 4-inch brushes.

A companion line can be used to store paint rollers up to 9 inches in length.

Handyman's Guide

Easy Solution Avoids Eyesore Of Paint Peeling on Siding

By J. RALPH DALZELL

This time of the year many homeowners become worried, disappointed and even frightened when paint on the exterior surfaces of wood clapboards has blistered, loosened or peeled off. These paint troubles can occur on both old and new houses regardless of many new coats of paint. If allowed to continue, houses become eyesores and the clapboards may rot.

NEED NOT OCCUR

Paint peeling on clapboards can be prevented. It is only necessary to understand the cause and then, in a relatively inexpensive manner, provide the preventive.

The best paint will not stick to wood if the wood becomes soaking wet. The moisture breaks the bond between the paint and the wood and the paint starts to blister, loosen and peel.

INVISIBLE VAPOR

Picture 1 shows what a frame wall looks like. Note the lath and plaster, on the inside, the open space between studs, the sheathing, the waterproof paper and the clapboards on the outside. During the winter, the air in houses generally contains a considerable amount of water in the form of an invisible vapor. Vapor (indicated by the arrow at A) can go through the lath and plaster, bridge the open space, and come in contact with the cold sheathing. There the vapor condenses into plain water. If waterproof paper does not exist, as shown in the picture, both the sheathing and clapboards could become soaking wet before the winter is over.

LIKELY CAUSE

The exterior walls in most houses have the waterproof paper, so the most likely cause of wet clapboards is from the pockets (see picture 3) that are created when clapboards are overlapped. See pictures 1 and 3. The air in the pockets also has some moisture in it, which is heated during the day when the sun shines on one or more sides of a house. Because no ventilation exists, the pocketed air is trapped. After sunset the moisture in the air pocket condenses and actual water is deposited on the back of each clapboard.

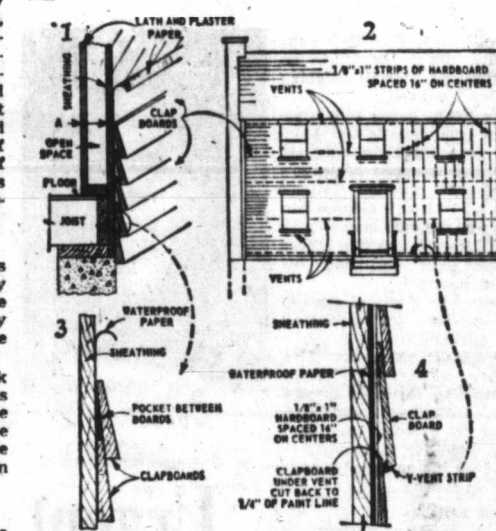

EXPAND CONTRACT

By mid-winter, the clapboards may be soaking wet and cause paint bubbles. The wet clapboards may expand under the sun's heat during the day and then contract at night, and this movement causes paint to peel.

If the pockets (see picture 3) can be ventilated, all moisture can be disposed of before it can cause trouble. The following procedure is an effective means of ventilation.

ESCAPE STRIPS

In picture 2, note the heavy, horizontal dashed lines marked "vents." At each location, a metal V-Vent strip (see picture 4) or other means of allowing pocket air to escape should be installed. Start at the second clapboard from the top of the wall. Loosen and remove clapboards at all points indicated by the heavy, horizontal dashed lines, then loosen all other clapboards. This can be done using a flat bar or chisel.

Cut eighth-inch hardwood into strips one inch wide. Then, as indicated by the vertical dashed lines, shove the hardwood strips under the clapboards, sixteen inches on centers. Depending upon the length of the strips, other clapboards may have to be removed so that the strips can be shoved into position and maintain a continuous space between clapboards and waterproof paper. (See picture 4).

V-Vents can be attached to the clapboards using flat head brads or box nails. (See suggestions in picture 4.) When all vertical strips of hardwood have been placed, and when the vents have been attached, the clapboards can be replaced and nailed.

It is also advisable to drill three-sixteenth inch holes in every clapboard next to all windows, doors or corner trim. Holes should be drilled so that they reach the pockets.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—We are building a masonry (brick) barbecue stand and wonder if we can safely

WINDOW SCREENS

736 Newport EV 3-4685

Does Your Home Need Re-Wiring?

PHONE US NOW FOR A FREE ESTIMATE!
COMPLETE HOUSE WIRING BY CONTRACT OR TIME AND MATERIAL BASIS
Work Guaranteed, Contract Prices Complete
DUNN ELECTRIC LTD.
1200 OAK BAY AVENUE EV 4-3211

REPEAT OFFER

OIL HEAT SPECIAL!

W. R. MENZIES & CO., now in their 50th year of business, are pleased to announce their "Golden Anniversary Special!"

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY

We will supply and install the famous Williams Oil-O-Matic, 100,000 B.T.U. air-conditioning furnace in your home for only

$550.00 Plus Ductwork

INCLUDES:

- 250-gallon basement oil tank
- Wiring to approved circuit
- One-year unconditional warranty

EASIEST TERMS IN TOWN!

ONLY 10% DOWN. Balance payable over five years at simple interest. Payments as low as $15.00 per month including interest.

ACT NOW AND SAVE MONEY!

W. R. MENZIES & CO., LTD.

911 FORT STREET EV 3-1112

Serving Victoria for Over 50 Years

NOW!

MODERN OIL HEAT FULLY INSTALLED

Yes... your choice of a 90,000 BTU Beach, Aircor or Lennox furnace, with complete duct work and materials to six existing registers. 250-gallon basement oil storage tank and wiring to open circuit in approved panel.

HAVE IT NOW—PAY LATER
First monthly instalment in October

No money down and five years to pay. Ask us for a free heating survey... act now and enjoy summer air conditioning. You pay NOTHING 'til October.

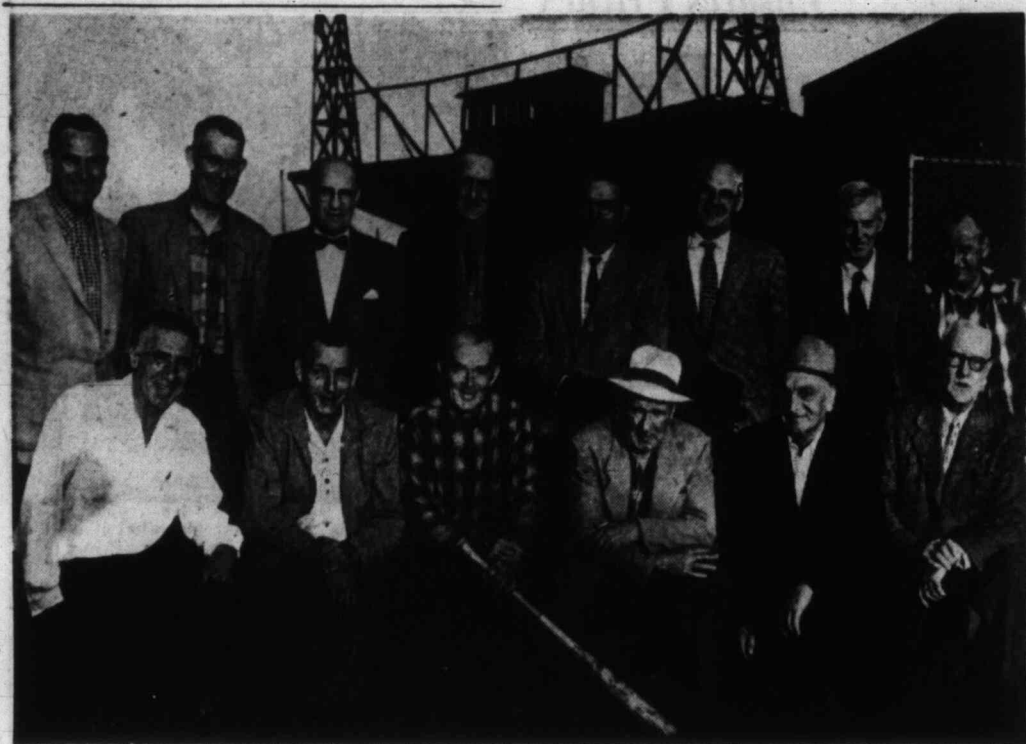

The Easiest Credit Plan in Town

HARKNETT FUEL LTD.

737 PANDORA
Just up from Douglas
EV 4-3847

NO EXTRAS
$675

INSTALLATION SERVICE QUALITY OIL

Baseball Stars of Yesterday Reunited

Baseball memories were chief topic of conversation at this meeting of former city amateur greats at Royal Athletic Park. Purpose of the get-together was to discuss plans for July 25 "Old-Timers" game as part of Senior Amateur Baseball League Eagles Day at Royal Athletic Park. Among those on hand will be, back row (left to right) Bill Holman, Ray Parfett, Doc Webster, Bill Cox, Bill Brousseau, Ainslee Worthington, Bob Whyte and Wally Thompson. Front row, Bill Bridgwood, Dave Essler, Herb Cummins, Stuffy McGinnis, Jack Curtis and George Burnes.—(Photo by Paul Jonas.)

Willie Mays Hitting Again; Giants Lead by Three Games

Willie Mays is off on one of his famous hitting streaks, and San Francisco Giants are three games out in front in the National League pennant race.

Wonderful Willie collected three straight hits yesterday

NATIONAL LEAGUE	W	L	Pct	GBL
San Francisco	32	28	.529
Los Angeles	30	32	.483	3
Milwaukee	28	35	.443	6
Pittsburgh	27	33	.447	7
Chicago	26	34	.435	8
St. Louis	25	35	.417	9
Cincinnati	24	36	.400	10
Philadelphia	23	37	.383	11

as the Giants edged Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, for their biggest lead of the season. Los Angeles Dodgers lost 5-2 to Philadelphia Phillies, and the slumping Milwaukee Braves were edged, 6-5, by St. Louis Cardinals.

Willie's 16th homer, a two-run blow in the eighth, gave the Giants their victory. He also collected two doubles, scoring one run. Ed Bressoud homered for San Francisco's other run. Dick Stuart drove in all Pittsburgh's runs with his 18th homer in the first inning.

The Braves, now four games back, lost their fifth straight when the Cards came up with two runs in the bottom of the ninth. Ken Boyer singled home the winning run with two out.

Phillies scored all their runs on five hits in the fourth inning behind four-hit pitching by Don Cardwell.

Jay Hook, bonus rookie left-handed pitcher for Seattle last Monday, gave the Cubs only six hits and snapped Chicago's four-game winning streak with a 5-1 victory. George Altman was the only man to give Hook trouble, getting three straight hits including his fourth homer.

There was plenty of news in the American League, not all of it made on the field.

Cleveland manager Joe Gordon and outfielder Minnie Miroski drew three-day suspensions, $200 fines, and telegrams from league president Joe Cronin for their parts in an eighth inning brawl Friday night in Boston.

FROM ROOF

Gordon and Miroski watched from the roof of Fenway Park yesterday as the Indians, under coaches Red Kress and Jo Jo White, beat Boston 7-5 in 13 innings.

Indians got four runs in the 13th off reliever Murray Wall, then called on Cal McLish to spit the Braves after they scored twice in their half of the inning. George Strickland's two-run double was the big blow for the Indians in the rally.

YANKS BEATEN

Meanwhile, Chicago White Sox got six-hit pitching from Bob Shaw to beat New York Yankees, 2-1, and hold on to their one-game margin over the Indians. It was the second straight win over the Yankees, now seven and one-half games off the pace. Latest Yankee pitcher to get his lumps was Don Larsen.

Detroit Tigers got only two hits off Hoyt Wilhelm, both singles, but broke a six-game losing streak with a 2-0 victory over Baltimore Orioles in the second game of a double-header after the Orioles had taken the opener, 5-2. Frank Lary got the shutout with a six-hitter.

In the other American League game, Kansas City Athletics beat Washington Senators, 10-3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE	W	L	Pct	GBL
Chicago	30	28	.519
New York	28	30	.483	2
Shaw, Stanley (3)	1	0	1.000
Mass (3)	0	1	.000
Kansas City	28	28	.500	3
Washington	26	30	.463	4
Herbert and Chell, Kansas (2)	1	0	1.000
Shaw, Stanley (3)	1	0	1.000
Mass (3)	0	1	.000
Cleveland	26	30	.463	5
Boston	25	31	.447	6
Scott, Ferraro (4)	1	0	1.000
Smith (1)	0	1	.000
Baltimore	24	32	.431	7
White, Home runs: Cleveland (1), Brown (1), Martin (1); Boston (1), White (1).

First game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Second game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Third game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Fourth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Fifth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Sixth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Seventh game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Eighth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Ninth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Tenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Eleventh game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Twelfth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Thirteenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Fourteenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Fifteenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Sixteenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Seventeenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Eighteenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Nineteenth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

Twentieth game: 000 000 000-2-6-2

WILLIE MAYS
... on rampage

Urgent Appeal For Sports Fund

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Amateur Sports Council Saturday warned unless funds can be found immediately B.C. will not be able to send swimmers to Pan-American Games trials in Eastern Canada.

In launching a last-minute drive for funds, the council said there is not a cent available to send 10 swimmers to Bradford, Ont., or a rowing team to Port Dalhousie, Ont. The competitors must leave next week.

Merv Ferguson, council treasurer, said B.C. rowers and swimmers have made strong showings in international competition "and if we are unable to send our teams it will weaken the Canadian team."

He said there is a need for small contributions from ordinary citizens.

The sports council, formed to co-ordinate planning in amateur sports, is composed of representatives from the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Canadian Legion, Olympics and British Empire Games Association and the University of B.C.

Miss Holland won three events. She won the freestyle, backstroke and butterfly events and placed second in the breaststroke race.

Bob Wheaton, Patricia Holland, Pam Crutchlow and Stan Cameron were two-event winners for Victoria YMCA. Other first place finishers for the YMCA crew were Susan Murphy, Doug McFarlane and Allen Kelly.

Relay races saw Victoria YMCA swimmers win three girls' events and two boys' events.

VAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

YAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

YAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

YAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

YAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

YAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

YAC placed third with 260 points. Vancouver YMCA finished well back in fourth position with 193 points while Victoria Amateur Club placed fifth with 101 points.

Leading the Victoria YMCA swimmers was Sally Holland, girls' high point winner during the two-day meet.

ALBURNI—Victoria YMCA, trailing by 44 points following Friday's events, rallied strongly yesterday but fell just short of the pace-setting Vancouver Dolphin Club in an invitational swim meet held here.

Dolphin Club won the meet with 265 points, just two more than the onrushing Victoria team which overhauled Vancouver Amateur Club with Saturday's spectacular comeback.

Nanaimo Boxla Officials Reconsider Resignations

By JIM TAYLOR

Eleventh-hour intervention by Mayor Pete Maffeo kept the executive of Nanaimo Labatts at their posts last night, but unless there are radical changes made in Inter-City Lacrosse League policy the club's directors will go through with their threatened mass resignation.

Maffeo's move climaxed a hectic day in the lacrosse-conscious Up-Island centre, a day in which the executive, "fed up" with the league's refereeing, resigned en masse, the players themselves planned a special meeting to try and save the club, and Maffeo talked the executive into returning only an hour before Labatts took the floor to beat Victoria Shamrocks, 8-6.

Maffeo made his plea to the executive to keep lacrosse in Nanaimo, and promised to speak personally to the league executive to reopen a meeting held Friday in Vancouver. Unless that meeting is opened, his move is a stop-gap measure at best.

MAKES IT CLEAR

It was the Friday night meeting, held to rule on Don Ashbee's suspension, that triggered the latest outburst in a week of dissension in the inter-city league, but it was not the one-year suspension handed Ashbee that made the executive resign. Nanaimo president Bob Fawdry made that clear yesterday in an interview with the Daily Colonist.

"We are not protesting over the Ashbee incident. That has nothing to do with it. We are resigning in protest over the fact that referees Ernie Smith and Wally Henderson got off scot-free after what happened Saturday night in Nanaimo."

Fawdry was referring to the incident that led to Ashbee's suspension. Ashbee hit Smith during the game, and Nanaimo officials have been protesting since then at the manner in which the game was handled.

COMMISSIONERS RAPPEL Fawdry gave the league and its commissioners a torrid verbal scolding yesterday.

"We will not condone the type of refereeing we get in Nanaimo. We feel their actions and language (they being Smith and Henderson), showed them incapable of handling the game. The fact that the commissioners continue to let them referee after Friday's meeting must mean that the commissioners themselves do condone such action."

Henderson and Jim Kinna handled last night's game in Nanaimo, and sources there say the game was extremely well handled.

INEFFICIENT

"The stature of lacrosse in general is due to inefficient and poorly handled games," Fawdry charged yesterday. "Nowadays there are six radio stations on the mainland, and not one of them broadcasts mainland games. Even the newspapers on the mainland almost belittle Canada's national game."

"Something is wrong. It must be the type of men on the commission. They have lacrosse interests at heart, but they do not have the necessary stature to administrate and carry on their duties the way they should."

"They claim there are no referees to replace the ones we have! This is not a new game; there must be former players around who would be interested and could handle the position."

The threatened resignation by the Nanaimo executive would involve Fawdry; Rev. John Snowdon, team manager; Gordon Pinkett, treasurer; Bill McFarlane, secretary; Ken Medland, vice-president; and 11 members of the directorate.

Maffeo will speak to the league executive on the weekend to try and have the Nanaimo protests aired officially again.

MAYOR PETE MAFFEO
... successful plea

Labatts Don't Worry, They Just Win Games

NANAIMO (Special)—Nanaimo Labatts, ignoring the executive problems plaguing the club, climbed triumphantly into second place in the Inter-

City Lacrosse League here last night with a comeback 8-6 victory over Victoria Shamrocks.

The win left Labatts alone in second place, one point ahead of Vancouver Carlings. In two games, in spite of the team's troubles, they have climbed from the league basement into the runner-up spot behind New Westminster O'Keefe's.

Three former Victoria players helped put the finishing touches to the Shamrocks' third straight defeat. Ross Rosskamp and Norm Kowalyk scored consecutive goals early in the fourth quarter to give Labatts the lead for the first time in the game after they had trailed 4-1 in the third period.

Ron Jay scored his second goal of the night at 7:07 to tie the score but Jack Howse, last year with Shamrocks, scored unassisted at 8:53 to give Labatts a lead they never relinquished. Gogi Stewart made it 8-6 at 10:16, and Shamrocks could never come back into contention.

It was a crushing defeat for the Irish, who had appeared on their way back into third place as they staged a hustling display in the first half.

Bert Bertola got the only goal of the first quarter on a power play, and Jack Wilson and Jim McNeil gave the Rocks a 3-0 lead before Joe White got Nanaimo's first goal seconds before half time.

In the third quarter, Severson made it 4-1. Skip MacKay rapped in two quick goals for Nanaimo, and Jay and Stewart exchanged goals in the last five minutes to set the stage for the fourth-quarter rally.

Geordie Johnston was star of the game in goal for Shamrocks, keeping them in contention as he blocked 21 of 22 shots in the first half and finished with a total of 33. Fred Fulla stopped 26 for Labatts.

Victoria	G	A	P	Nanaimo	G	A	P
Johnston	0	0	0	Fulla	0	0	0
Smith	0	0	0	Lalich	0	0	0
C. Kowalyk	0	0	0	Dugan	0	0	0
McKay	0	0	0	Lumley	0	0	0
Gill	0	0	0	MacKay	0	0	0
Jay	0	0	0	Howse	0	0	0
English	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Norburn	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Bertola	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Shawers	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Collett	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Wilson	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Severson	1	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
McNeil	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Druse	0	0	0	Stewart	0	0	0
Totals	6	5	14	Totals	8	5	14

Score by periods: 1-1-2-4-2-2

Shots by periods: 14-7-5-7-13

Goalkeepers: Johnston, Bertola, Wilson, McNeil, Druse

Referees: Wally Henderson and Jim Kinna

Bartzen, Reed In Net Finals

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., for the championship today.

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen had to go 22 games in the first set but defeated South African Abe Segal, 12-10, 6-3, 6-1, Saturday to move into the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament finals.

Bartzen, seeded third behind Alex Olmedo and Barry MacKay—both were eliminated—will meet

Some Good Springs From Weir's Beach

Reports of improving spring salmon fishing in certain areas make it apparent that anglers trying for July crests in that division of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest are going to have to land themselves a pretty hefty fish.

As things stand, it appears that nothing under 28 pounds will have a chance at one of the 25 crests awarded each month.

Yesterday's heavy entry list included forms from Weir's Beach Boathouse, Metcalfe, where two springs over 32 pounds were landed. Bob Curran, 3500 Cedar Hill, caught a 32½-pounder, and George Shipley, 2020 Foul Bay, caught a 32-pounder, and two other springs.

Both used Strip-Teaser. Harry Davies, 323 Cowichan, also reported good luck with the springs, weighing in three at 27.4, 25.4 and 20.2.

Latest entries:

Salmon

WEIR'S BEACH BOATHOUSE

Bob Curran, 3500 Cedar Hill, 32.8 spring, Strip-Teaser.
George Shipley, 2020 Foul Bay, 32.3 spring, Strip-Teaser.
Harry Davies, 323 Cowichan, 27.4, 25.4, 20.2 spring, Strip-Teaser.
Alan Callaway, 2808 Cedar Hill, 27.6 spring, Minnow-Tearer.
C. Rhoads, William Head, 22.13 spring, Minnow-Tearer.
J. R. Smith, 2808 Cedar Hill, 22.13 spring, Minnow-Tearer.
David Callaway, 2808 Cedar Hill, 22.13 spring, Minnow-Tearer.

More Sport On Page 12

Eight Men Carry Rock 876 Miles

JOHN O'GROATS, Scotland (AP)—An eight-man relay team Saturday claimed the record for carrying a tiny piece of seashore rock over 876½ miles of British roads. Capt. David Shaw ran the final leg for the Birmingham University 'squad in a race measuring up for unusualness to such off-beat British pastimes as the Lady Godiva horse race stakes and the London-Paris commuting contest. The rock and runners were timed in 92 hours, 19 minutes over the course from Land's End, Britain's most southerly point, to John o' Groat's, the most northerly. Apart from the geography, there is no other reason for running the race. Nobody except the runners can see the rock stays in Land's End or John o' Groat's.

Jensen Hurt

BOSTON (AP)—Jackie Jensen, Boston right fielder, hurt the instep of his right foot in batting practice Saturday and was taken to a hospital for precautionary X-rays. Jensen leads the Red Sox with 72 runs batted in.

Old Country Sports Scene

Surrey Finally Finding Range

Warwickshire are waiting to take advantage of every opportunity presented them. Surrey, however, gave few opportunities to two of the stronger teams—Essex and Glamorgan—and in gaining two easy victories and a maximum 28 points moved into fourth place behind front-running Yorkshire, the surprising Warwickshire side and the Welshmen. Peter May and company ended Glamorgan's impressive unbeaten record of nine games at Cardiff with a 10-wicket victory, a victory in which Tony Lock played a big part with his finest bowling performance of the season.

Lock, who was left out of the side while he changed his bowling style to conform with the new M.C.C. policy on "throwers," finished the second innings with seven wickets for 66 runs despite a quick 42 by Glamorgan tail-ender Don Shepherd. Lock, part of cricket's most flexible attack, was no-balled in the first innings but at no other time in the match did he revert back to his old action.

Constable was the chief instigator of Surrey's fifth straight victory with a five-hour stay at the wicket that produced 168 runs, 48 of them in a productive partnership with May. It was the May-Constable partnership that regained the initiative for the champions, who started off badly and were four for 69 before the runs started flowing again.

Surrey's 136-run victory over Essex, which hadn't won in its last seven matches, was largely the work of Stewart, Fletcher and Edrich, who received recognition for his brilliant opening bat when he was presented with his county cap. Stewart and Fletcher scored 140 and 89, respectively, in a first-inning partnership and Edrich scored his seventh century in seven weeks with a second-innings 103 that carried Surrey to the win.

Yorkshire also had a productive week, taking 14 points from Essex on the strength of an evenly-balanced batting performance, one of the features of this young and talented side's many fine qualities. Derbyshire fell to a six-wicket defeat at the hands of the leaders, who were set 301 runs to win at 95 an hour and reached the target with 15 minutes to spare on the strength of some lusty batting by Taylor. The Yorkshire opener

Butt Colonist, Victoria Sunday, July 19, 1959

FAN FARE Walt Dittus

7/3

Colt All-Stars Need One Win

Victoria All-Stars are within one win of a trip to Kennelworth, Wash., and a berth in the regional Colt League baseball finals to be held early next month.

Scoring two victories yesterday, Victoria moved into the favored position in the Vancouver Island Colt League tournament that concludes today at Windsor Park.

Victoria took an early lead and held on for a 4-3 win over North Island All-Stars in Saturday's opening game. In the nightcap, Victoria pounded three Mid-Island pitchers for 13 hits and an easy 15-3 win.

Winning pitcher in the first game was Grant Udy who allowed six hits, two of them misjudged fly balls that paved the way for North Island to score all three runs in the final inning. Finch-hitter Jordan did most of the damage with a two-run homer.

Victoria manager but three hits. However, a two-run single by Don Boden was the key blow.

Play concludes today with three games.

Victoria North Island 4-3
Victoria Mid-Island 15-3

Mid Island 9-2
Victoria 13-3

Bill Peck, Burnaby (2), Don Cappe (4) and Tom Moore, Delta (1); Rod Fuller and Mike Woodley, Bruce Timbers.

LITTLE LEAGUE
LAKESIDE 10-0
Essex 3-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Essex 3-0
Lakeside 10-0

Evcoes Win Again On Breakaway Goals

By LARRY ROSE

Breakaway goals made the difference Saturday afternoon at Macdonald Park as Victoria Evcoes used a strong final half showing to shade Vancouver Halecos 3-1 for a second straight Pacific Coast Soccer League win.

All three Victoria goals resulted from breakaways as coach Willie Hamilton's crew

After a scoreless first half, coach Hamilton decided to shuffle his makeshift forward line that produced so well in last week's 4-1 win over Continentals.

Hamilton called veteran Cedric Robb to the bench and inserted Taffy Jones at outside-left. He moved Bill Abbott back to his old centre-forward spot to replace Robb.

SLOW SHOT
Eight minutes after these moves, George Paul fired the game's first goal on a pass from Abbott. It was a breakaway effort, Paul neatly sidestepping Halecos goalie Gordon Jackson and tapping home a slow 20-footer.

Evcoes went ahead 2-0 just four minutes later when Jones scored his first summer league goal. It was identical to the first, Jones being sent into the clear by Paul and easily beating Jackson.

Seconds later Jones rattled one off the post with Jackson beaten. This seemed to give Halecos a lift, even though the visitors were playing with only 10 men.

McKIBBON BANISHED
Referee Dan Kulai, head Vancouver official making his first appearance here this season, had banished fullback Terry McKibbin. When Kulai moved in to break up an exchange of words between McKibbin and a linesman, the latter threw the ball at Kulai.

After pressing relentlessly, Halecos finally beat a red-hot Al Davies in the Victoria net. Rookie forward Don Boyd, replacing injured veteran Brian Philley, headed past Davies at 30 minutes.

Halecos surged to the attack but couldn't beat Davies. With two minutes remaining, Hamilton's final move paid off when Ernie Eastlake, a late substitution, made the play for Abbott

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Evcoes went ahead 2-0 just four minutes later when Jones scored his first summer league goal. It was identical to the first, Jones being sent into the clear by Paul and easily beating Jackson.

Seconds later Jones rattled one off the post with Jackson beaten. This seemed to give Halecos a lift, even though the visitors were playing with only 10 men.

McKIBBON BANISHED
Referee Dan Kulai, head Vancouver official making his first appearance here this season, had banished fullback Terry McKibbin. When Kulai moved in to break up an exchange of words between McKibbin and a linesman, the latter threw the ball at Kulai.

After pressing relentlessly, Halecos finally beat a red-hot Al Davies in the Victoria net. Rookie forward Don Boyd, replacing injured veteran Brian Philley, headed past Davies at 30 minutes.

Halecos surged to the attack but couldn't beat Davies. With two minutes remaining, Hamilton's final move paid off when Ernie Eastlake, a late substitution, made the play for Abbott

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

2

DAY SALE

These Prices Good Only from FRIDAY 6 P.M. to MONDAY 9 P.M.

1956 BUICK
Convertible, Tuxedo red and white, radio, heater, automatic trans. Lc. 63-748. Reg. $3,895. $1995

1957 OLDSMOBILE 98
Two-Door Hardtop. Full power, radio, heater, automatic trans. Lc. 63-748. Reg. $3,895. $3295

1957 CADILLAC
Convertible, LUXURY car—radio, heater, automatic, full power, electronic eye. As new. Lc. 410-872. Reg. $4,995. $4195

1956 MONARCH
Four-Door Sedan. Radio, heater, automatic. Lc. No. 58-175. Reg. $2,195. $1795

1956 CADILLAC
Four-Door Sedan. Tuxedo green, full power, radio, heater, automatic, immaculate inside and out. One owner. Lc. 319-638. Regular $3,895. $3195

1956 BUICK
Four-Door Hardtop. Radio, heater, automatic, tuxedo paint. Lc. 319-427. Regular $3,495. $1995

1956 PLYMOUTH
Sedan. Tuxedo, 6-cylinder, heater. Lc. 57-657. Regular $1,595. $1295

1957 BUICK
Special Sedan. Heater, automatic, A-1 condition. One owner. Lc. 60-518. Regular $3,895. $2395

1957 BUICK
Special Four-Door Hardtop. Radio, heater, automatic, power brakes, power steering, power windows A-1. Reg. $2,895. $2450

1956 EDSEL
Ranger Four-Door. Radio, heater, automatic, power brakes, power steering. One owner. A-1. Lc. 4199. Reg. $3,595. $2995

1955 JAGUAR
Mark VII Sedan. Heater, automatic, new car condition. Lc. 34-400. Regular $2,895. $2195

1956 AUSTIN
A-55 Four-Door Sedan. Lc. 216-638. Reg. $1,295. $1050

1959 RAMBLER
Ambassador 4-Door Wagon. Radio, heater, overdrive, power brakes, power steering, full air conditioner. New. 55,000. Low mileage. Lc. 66-753. Reg. $3,295. $3295

1951 PACKARD
Sedan. Radio, heater, automatic. Reg. $595. $395

1952 OLDSMOBILE
Sedan. Radio, heater, automatic. Reg. $895. $645

1952 DODGE
Sedan. Heater. Reg. $695. $495

1952 DODGE
Coronet Four-Door. Radio, heater, automatic. $595

1954 FORD
Four-Door. Heater. $895

1955 ANGLIA
Two-Door. Heater. Regular $695. $525

NO PHONE ORDERS PLEASE
OPEN TILL 9.00 P.M.

NATIONAL MOTORS
800 Block, Yates

Oak Bay Stretches Margin in Cricket

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Cowichan, getting 23 runs apiece from Derek Hyde-Lay and George Ellis, scored 88 runs. Oak Bay replied with 92 for five wickets. Top bowler for the Bays was Jack Sparks,

who took five wickets for 25 runs, including the hat trick. In other games, Five C's and Albions played to a draw at Beacon Hill Park, and Incogs drew with Alcos at University School.

Five C's declared at 129 for eight, and Albions had 60 for nine when stumps were drawn. Mick Shanks had 39 runs for Incogs, where were 118 all out. Alcos, getting 46 runs from Stan Jackson, were 99 for nine.

There are no games scheduled today.

Oak Bay stretched its lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association yesterday, defeating Cowichan by five wickets at Duncan as two other matches ended in draws.

Harry Young Says:

A Real University —That's Our Need

$1,500,000 for 'College'
Just Isn't Good Enough

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Victoria College is going to appeal to the public for $1,500,000 in the near future.

The official announcement last week said the money was needed for improvements to Victoria College.

There was no mention of the word "university." Why?

When the extension of the Ewing Building was opened last February by the Premier, Mr. W. A. C. Bennett said the government was interested in a university for Victoria; that there would be extra grants and that the status could change from college to university within months.

The official program of the dedication ceremony was headed "University of British Columbia at Victoria."

A few weeks later, Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of UBC said in Victoria suggested that the new title should be "University of British Columbia, Victoria" with the subtitle "Victoria College."

He added "it should develop into a distinguished liberal arts college, granting degrees in academic courses, and eventually offering honor courses."

In March the federal government said to the Victoria

College Council, 119 acres of land at Gordon Head as a site for the new campus.

In welcoming that event Dr. Harry Hickman, principal, said it was satisfactory that the property had been acquired at a time when the college was planning to offer third and fourth year courses.

The word "university" was missing.

In numerous following announcements by Victoria College officials a scrutiny of the files shows that the same unwillingness to accept the university title has persisted.

One and a half million dollars is a lot of money. Part of it—perhaps $400,000—will have to be raised locally. If Victoria College Council thinks that it can rouse the enthusiasm for the job on the basis of an extension to Victoria College it is far out of touch with public thinking.

Must Promise More

If the fund-raising campaign is to be successful, it must promise a great deal more.

Money will not be forthcoming for anything else than a full-scale university in which local youngsters will have a fifty-fifty chance at least of finishing their education on the island.

The initial announcement made by the College Council has been described as a half-baked effort. The impression is that the $1,500,000 is being sought from the public merely to take care of additional registrations and not for any wide increase in the scope of education to be offered.

It is a sort of "give us the money now and we'll decide what we are going to give you for it later."

That isn't good enough. Victoria wants a university—a real one—and wants it badly. The theme has been supported by every phase of local life.

Last session more than half the students at Victoria College were in their first year. They completed no more than their senior matriculation—a level that is taken by high schools in some other provinces.

After their first year here engineering, medical and many other students have to go to Vancouver. With college fees up $100 a year and boarding costs up from $55 to $75 a month during the past two or three years, the need for extended university education in Victoria is more vital than ever.

But the point that has really roused the public to indignation against the Victoria College Council is its decision not to establish the new campus at Gordon Head, but to continue the building campaign on the old Lansdowne property.

The College Council has stated that it does not see how it can raise sufficient money to make the complete switch-over, and proposed to use the Gordon Head land for sports and gymnasium facilities only.

Decision Not Shared

The decision is not shared by leading government and public officials.

Last April Works Minister W. N. Chant told the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce that the new buildings should be erected at Gordon Head and not adjoining the present campus.

He saw no reason why the funds for such a move could not be made available.

Under its present plan the Victoria College hopes to raise $3,300,000. Of this $1,500,000 will come from the public; $1,500,000 from the government, and $300,000 from Canada Council.

The same amount of money—or less—could build the same facilities at Gordon Head, where the terrain is more favorable.

Firm $165,000 Offer

In addition there is a firm real estate offer of over $165,000 for the undeveloped land adjoining the college campus.

This means that for the second stage the College might have more than $1,665,000 in hand, and the possibility of more covering government grants.

This is reckoned sufficient to complete the move.

The Chamber of Commerce University Committee is the spearhead of the movement which is trying to persuade the College council to up-root itself to Gordon Head.

Its chairman Captain G. R. Newell was shocked when he heard that the College had decided to stay put.

"When we had a meeting with representatives of the College Council a few weeks ago, we parted on the understanding that we would go jointly to the government to see what could be done to provide funds for the switch-over to Gordon Head," he said.

"We never agreed at any time that the chamber favored the plan to stay at Lansdowne."

Captain Newell added that he could not see eye to eye with the college's short-term outlook.

"We are going to build a university which we hope will last for generations. The present needs may be terrific but they should not cancel out long-term planning. It is surely better to put up with discomfort for two or three years than to perpetuate an unsatisfactory condition."

Many other government and municipal officials share this view.

The Victoria College Council should take the warning now before it is too late. Its plan is not going to get wholehearted support. And without wholehearted support it must fail.

Rank, File 'Solid' On Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—L. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers, says the rank and file is solidly supporting the union leadership in its four-day-old strike against the United States basic steel industry.

The strike has made idle 500,000 USW members and at least 35,000 workers in allied industries.

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Sun., July 19, 1959 13

Doctors Break Down, Cheer, Then Light Up

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—A no-smoking rule broke down at the British Medical Association's annual conference.

Some 500 doctor-delegates survived the opening session Thursday without a single smoke. Three attempts to suspend the rule failed, but late Friday, a fourth attempt succeeded on a show of hands. Loud cheers went up as hundreds immediately lit up cigarettes and pipes.

Half a Ship Launched

As an aftermath of a freak accident, half a ship was launched when the bow of the 10,000-ton ship "Nyon" hit the water at Boines, Holland, near Rotterdam. Shipbuilders had to undertake this task after the bow of the vessel broke off in an accident off the English coast last November. The stern, docked in the background, will be joined to the newly-constructed fore-part.

Fund Refuses to Sell Ford Stock to Ford

By HARRY YOUNG

One of Canada's most successful investment funds reports that it declined to take the offer of Ford Motor Company for the shares it holds in Ford Motor Company of Canada.

All-Canadian Funds not only held onto the 10,500 Ford "A" shares it held last March, but added another 1,000 additional shares at $125 last April.

W. J. Borrie, president, said in a report to shareholders that "because we believe that Ford of Canada 'A' will be worth more than $180 a share we did not choose to sell at that price."

Final details of the merger between MacMillan & Bloedel and Powell River Company will not be known for a few weeks yet, but based on the terms of the exchange already announced there should be about $6 difference in the price of the two stocks.

Powell River stock is to be split two for one, and it will take seven of the new Powell River shares to buy three MacMillan & Bloedel.

Friday's closing price of Powell River was $37 and of MacMillan & Bloedel $41½. Using the exchange prices, three MacMillan shares could be purchased for $124½ and seven new Powell River for $129½. It would therefore seem MacMillan shares are overvalued, or Powell undervalued, by about $1.50 a share.

A picture of the tremendous business revival in the United States is beginning to take shape.

One company, General Tire and Rubber, which has fingers in the missile, jet, television and chemical industries, reports that its first-half earnings are $2.63 a share, five times the 52 cents earned in the first half of 1958.

This is typical of many U.S. companies in the specialty business, but there are also increased earnings of a spectacular sort in the basic industries.

Current contracts with the

She Knew Tax Cost Hard Way

BOSTON (UPI)—President Patrick B. McGinnis of the Boston & Maine Railroad asked a luncheon gathering: "How many here know how much they pay for state and Federal gasoline taxes?"

He was surprised when the only woman in the room promptly answered: "Nine cents."

Asked how she knew, Miss Emily Rockett explained: "When you pay on 500,000 gallons a year, you know."

She owns a Boston taxicab company.

With the Scouts

The following proficiency badges were issued during the past week by the Victoria Boy Scout Association: tenderpad, Robert Lee, Jack Seto, Donald Seto, Milton Chan, Neil Chan, Dick Lowe, Gilbert Chew, Tony Quan, Gordon Wong; swimmer, B. Kirkpatrick; second class, David Neilson; camper, Tony Collis; public health man, Tony Collis.

Economy Faces Blow

Crisis in Steel

Stockpile Will Run Out In About Six Weeks

WASHINGTON (CP)—

Six weeks...

That's the time qualified federal authorities give the United States before the costly country-wide steel strike starts to cripple a fast-growing economy that had been swelling to boom-time proportions.

In six weeks, they say, the U.S. will have chewed up a big chunk of the steel stockpile when the labor storm threatened. In six weeks—if the strike lasts that long—a crisis in supply may begin.

INFLATION FEAR

Out of this crisis, they figure, will grow a new threat—that of enlarged inflation. In the cry for steel amid a temporary scarcity, prices would be bound to rise.

Among some federal economists, that appears to be the biggest fear—the inflationary push that appears inevitable.

It appeared almost inevitable, on the basis of the historical trend, that management would pass any prospective wage boost to steel consumers in the United States, Canada and elsewhere.

HEART OF INDUSTRY

Steel is the ribbon that ties all industry together. It is the heart of industry. To some extent the price of steel sets the price of automobiles, bridges, ships, locomotives and a thousand other vital products.

The wage concessions won by steel workers will be eyed by other unions, both in the U.S. and Canada. In some ways, the pattern of prices and wages set in steel is woven through the fabric of the entire economy.

$12,000,000,000

U.S. revenue from steel sales runs to some $12,000,000,000 a year, roughly about one-third of the entire value of Canada's annual production in goods and services of all descriptions.

American mills use quantities of Canadian iron ore hauled through the Great Lakes. Much of that haulage has been shut down, either because transport workers involved form part of the steel strike or because mills can't use the ore.

The American steel industry, spread through some 28 states, employs about 600,000 workers, roughly 10 per cent of the entire employed American labor force.

DE LUXE SUITE
Wanted to buy de luxe co-operative suite in Beach Drive apartment block, up to $30,000.00 Cash.
Please call Mr. Yella, Res. EV 3-3051 or Mr. Mitchell, EV 3-4073. Harry Foster Ltd., EV 3-3101.

A. E. Ames & Co.

Business Established 1889

Members

Toronto Stock Exchange

Montreal Stock Exchange

Canadian Stock Exchange

Royal Trust Building - 612 View Street, Victoria, B.C.

Telephone: Evergreen 3-4171

TORONTO MONTREAL NEW YORK LONDON, ENGL. VANCOUVER
WINNIPEG CALGARY

Wood, Gundy & Company Limited

Canadian Government, Municipal and Corporation Securities

Stock Exchange Orders Executed

Private wire connections to Toronto, Montreal
Winnipeg, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton,
Regina and New York

Resident Manager: 612 View Street
A. L. Pidgeon Victoria
EV 2-4261

Gillespie, Hart & Co. (1959) Ltd.

INSURANCE AGENTS and BROKERS

LOW-COST AUTO FINANCING

Phone EV 4-1181 - 625 Fort Street

CREDIT BUREAU OF VICTORIA LTD.

205-10 JONES BLDG. - 723 FORT ST. - EV 5-3311

MEMBERS ASSOCIATED CREDIT BUREAU OF CANADA AND AMERICA

CREDIT AND PERSONNEL REPORTS—COLLECTION SPECIALISTS

Serving Victoria Business and Professional Men Since 1911

Mears & Whyte Oak Bay Realty Ltd.

2188 Oak Bay Ave.

have pleasure in announcing

FOR SALE

3110 EXETER ROAD

UPLANDS

Designed and Built by Mr. F. A. Robinson

Landscaping by W. Barker

Price $49,400

View by Appointment Only

D. Whyte, J. Mears - Telephone EV 5-7707

THE WESTERN SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

- Instalment Savings Certificates
- Fully Paid and Prepaid Certificates at current rates
- Dominion Government Approved Registered Retirement Savings Plans

Present Assets in excess of $80,000,000
Capital, Res. & Reserves in excess of $15,000,000

408 ROYAL TRUST BLDG. - VANCOUVER
310 ROYAL TRUST BLDG. - VICTORIA

MORTGAGE FUNDS AVAILABLE

Funds on hand and immediately available for First Mortgage Loans - Quick decisions; reasonable charges; current rate of interest. Repayments to suit.

Mortgages and Agreements Purchased

Queen's Plane Flies North

Fond farewell to Queen Elizabeth is waved by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Mrs. Bennett, Defence

Minister George Pearkes and Laurie Wallace, deputy provincial secretary.

Departure Cavalcade Slowed Down

'Goodbye' to Islanders Delays Royal Takeoff

She's gone.

Queen Elizabeth stepped aboard a department of transport Viscount aircraft at Patricia Bay at 10.10 a.m. yesterday morning, ending her two-day visit to Victoria and southern Vancouver Island.

But it's a final indication of how much she enjoyed her visit to this far west part of the Commonwealth that she was 10 minutes behind schedule.

Those 10 minutes were lost when the royal cavalcade slowed down en route from Government House so the Queen and the thousands of Canadians who lined the 19-mile route to the airport could say goodbye to each other.

The gesture was unexpected and slightly ruffled arrangements at Patricia Bay airport.

The crowd, men, women, children, servicemen, commissioners, cubs, scouts, brownies and girl scouts formed a constant murmur while they waited for the Queen's arrival.

People who had waited from the heat during the wait, many of them sitting on the ground, suddenly came to life, struggling and pushing and shoving to catch one more glimpse of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip as they entered the airport.

One of the "loyal American subjects" of Canada's Queen excitedly waved both the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes as the royal limousine drew closer.

The famed silver trumpets of the RCAF formed a shallow "V" for Victoria in front of the band, just behind the honor guard of 100 airmen from Comox RCAF base. As the royal cavalcade drove onto the tarmac the trumpeters played a fanfare, the silken panels flashing in the sun.

As the limousine carrying Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip moved slowly through the crowd packed all the way along the road from the highway to the tarmac, spontaneous cheering and clapping broke out.

Some of the cubs and guides bent ranks a little to catch an early glimpse of the royal couple. Cheering broke out from the children before the royal car drove onto the tarmac.

The Queen and Prince Philip smiled and waved to the crowd as they drove past but they reserved more smiles and waves for the group of brown, green and blue dressed children.

The RCAF band played quietly as the limousine drew up near the Viscount and while Queen Elizabeth reviewed the honor guard. Prince Philip chatted warmly with Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross.

When the Queen rejoined her husband they stood for some minutes, thanking Mr. and Mrs. Ross and officials, and then the Queen led the way up the red-carpeted stairs to the plane.

As she neared the top step, with Prince Philip close behind her, the cubs, scouts, guides and brownies began cheering. The Queen turned, with Prince Philip behind her, and waved.

And then they disappeared from view.

Gold Rush Pioneer

Queen Shakes Hands With Living History

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. — Queen Elizabeth had a look at a little of the Yukon's history Saturday and shook hands with a man who has seen it all since '98.

W. D. MacBride, who conducted the Queen and Prince Philip on a 25-minute tour of the MacBride museum, told the royal couple: "Here we can just reach out our hand and touch our history."

Outside the museum, the royal couple had met Patsy Henderson, an 82-year-old Indian who is the last living link with the start of the great gold rush of 1898.

Mr. MacBride explained to the Queen and Prince Philip that Henderson was a nephew of Skookum Jim—James Mason—who found the first nuggets on fabulous Bonanza Creek, near Dawson City.

Henderson, now nearly blind, was a youth in the party prospecting on Bonanza Creek when Skookum Jim made the discovery in 1896 that sparked the gold rush of '98.

The Queen and her husband displayed a genuine interest in the story and examined carefully a bracelet made from the first gold nuggets found on Bonanza by Skookum Jim.

Also studied was one of the world's largest moose heads. It measures 75½ inches across the horns and the moose weighed 1,800 pounds when it was taken.

The Queen paid special attention to a number of clippings of works of Robert Service, whose stories and poems of the Yukon have become famous the world over. Service died 18 months ago.

She also saw a copy of the first telephone list published for Whitehorse, a 24-name one-page phone book.

A lady-in-waiting will be able to pass along the story that goes with it. She was told that three women of ill repute had telephones in Whitehorse in 1901 when the list was printed and insisted that their names be listed.

They were listed at the bottom of the page and beneath a blank space of more than an inch which separated the names — Violet Devere, Jessie St. Clair and Mamie Ray — from the other 21.

"It is understood that the upstanding wives in Whitehorse at the time snipped the three names off the bottom and burned them," said a museum spokesman.

The list was not explained to the Queen.

West of Chemainus

Ring Around Fire Hot Spots Cooled

CHEMAINUS—"Hot spots" in 75 acres of smoking timberland west of here are being dug up, doused with water and covered with earth to kill any chance of a forest fire breaking out again.

Forestry officials said last night that 35 men, mainly striking IWA members, are working with shovels, mattocks and axes.

The whole area on the north-west face of Mount Brenton, nine miles from here, has been "ringed" by five bulldozers who have cleared away brush and trees for a fire break.

14 Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Sun., July 19, 1959

Fisherman's Cod Had Grunt Inside

DUNCAN—A "Grunt" was caught in Cowichan Bay—inside a cod. The 2½-inch-long Grunt, a fish with a shell and back like a dinosaur and a deep-sea dweller, was discovered by Jeffrey Mayes, 14, of 163 Second Street, in the stomach of a ling cod he reeled in.

Grunts get their name because of the noise they make when they are pulled from the water.

Bay fishing guides say they are a "rarity" and do not live in the shallow bay.

EATON'S SEMI-ANNUAL SALE

FURNITURE AND HOUSE FURNISHINGS

Throughout EATON'S Monday you'll find savings in all types of merchandise. Check the big, 16-page flyer that has been delivered to your home, for special buys in House Furnishings. Check this page for Hour Specials in House Furnishings and many other departments. Monday is big Savings Day at EATON'S.

9 o'clock Specials

On Sale from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m.
If Quantities Last
Please, No Telephone or Mail Orders

Razor Blades

Limited quantity of fine quality steel razor blades to fit any standard size razor. Made in Kronenberg, Germany. Buy a good stock now... don't run the risk of running out. Pkgs. of 100.

59¢

EATON'S—Cutlery, Main Floor

Sea Grass Mats

Handy for house, cottage, porch... braided sea grass mats. Ovals, approx. 23"x47" in bright, multi-colour pattern. 9 o'clock Special, each

89¢

EATON'S—Floor Coverings, Main Floor, House Furnishings Building

Boys' T-Shirts

Canadian-made T-shirts are styled with round neck, short sleeves. Striped in red, blue, grey, navy and tan. Washable. Sizes 8 to 16.

147¢

9 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Boys' Wear, Third Floor

Summer Fabrics—Clearance

Cotton and Dacron blends for dresses, blouses and other summer clothes are in plain shades, mostly pastels. Crease-resistant, fully washable. 45" width.

189¢

9 o'clock Special, per yard

EATON'S—Fabrics, Third Floor

Ventilator Cushions

Comfort while driving can be yours with air-cooled seat ventilator cushions. Air circulates between you and hot upholstery, keeping you cool, dry and comfortable, clothing crisp and unwrinkled. Protects upholstery from wear and dirt, too.

299¢

9 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Auto Accessories, Lower Main Floor

2 o'clock Specials

On Sale from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.
If Quantities Last
Please, No Telephone or Mail Orders

Mattress Covers

Strong quality mattress covers with taped ends are completely washable. For double bed. Limit 2 per customer.

199¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Bargain Basement

Sun Halters

Polished cotton sun halters for milady are crease-resistant, and need little or no ironing. Choose from a good assortment, sizes 12 to 18. Regularly 1.59.

98¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Accessories, Main Floor

Clearance of Brassieres

Bandeau, long-line and some basque style brassieres are selling at clearance prices. Broken size range, slightly counter soiled. 2 o'clock Special, each

100¢

EATON'S—Lingerie, Second Floor

Window Shades

Washable plastic shades on positive action rollers in white, green, sand or cream are 36"x70". An excellent buy for your home or for the cottage.

159¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Draperies, Second Floor, House Furnishings Building

Younger Boys' T-Shirts

Sizes 4, 6 and 8 in several bright colours and styles, these T-shirts are comfortable and practical for summertime wear. Regularly 1.50 to 1.79.

99¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Children's Wear, Third Floor

Jig Saw

8 Only... Black and Decker jig-saws. Sturdy, well-made machines give 3,600 strokes per minute. With 3 blades. Shop right at 2.

3499¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Hardware, Lower Main Floor

8-Cup Percolator

Gleaming chromium-plated finish Universal percolator has composite base and handle. Set percolator for mild, medium or strong coffee... then it stays at serving heat after it brews.

1495¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Small Appliances, Main Floor, House Furnishings Building

Auto Cushions

These cotton-filled cushions are durable and easy to clean. For cars, picnics or boats... buy several at this low price.

2 for 159¢

2 o'clock Special,

EATON'S—Auto Accessories, Lower Main Floor

China Cups and Saucers

English Bone China cups and saucers in lovely floral designs are attractive tall shape. Add to your own collection... tuck several away for gifts.

69¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—China, Main Floor, House Furnishings Building

Gymnasium Set

Keep the children happy and safe in your own yard... buy them a gym set. Set includes 2 swings, glide ride, 2 chinning bars. Bright enamel finish. Packed ready to assemble. 10 only.

1599¢

2 o'clock Special, each

EATON'S—Toys, Third Floor

Store Hours: 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily. 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday.
Telephone EV-2-7141 or Toll-Free Zenith 6100.

T. EATON CO.

BEAUTIFUL THINGS NEED NOT BE COSTLY

Depend on Hayward's for a complete service within the means of every family. Specializing in air shipments around the world.

HAYWARD'S CHAPEL

734 BROUGHTON — EV 3-3614

Bruce M. Leyden, Manager; Hayward Family, Directors
Mrs. P. W. Bell, Director

Increased Supervised Parking

VISIT

EATON'S OPTICAL

DEPARTMENT

• Victoria • Nanaimo
• New Westminster • Vancouver

EATON'S HEARING Centre

4th Floor at the ELEVATOR

Let Us Help You to Hear Better

EATON'S offers you...

- Trained hearing aid consultants
- Modern fitting and service facilities
- Choice of many models of hearing aids
- Scientific audiometer tests
- Private consultation in the store or at your home
- EATON'S time-honoured guarantee—"Goods Satisfactory or Money Refunded."

Come in today for a complete audiometric test—with no obligation.

Budget Plan Terms Available if Desired

Phone Today for an Appointment

EATON'S — EV 2-7141

EATON'S—Hearing Centre, Fourth Floor, Phone EV-2-7141

Needy Share Loaves, Fishes

More than 800 loaves of bread, 200 pounds of fresh peas and 100 pounds of fresh fish were split among 150 needy families yesterday at the monthly stall day of the Surplus Food Stall.

Convener Mrs. E. E. Harper said, "Everybody got something, but we had to use everything. We didn't have one potato left."

The peas were a bulk donation, as was the fish, the latter donated by the Saanich Anglers' Association.

The next stall day will be Aug. 15.

Delinquency

Action Soon Or Trouble, City Told

Vancouver—supposedly a hotbed of juvenile delinquency—at present sends only half as many delinquents per thousand of population to corrective institutions as does Victoria.

MRS. BLITHE PLIMLEY

Seen In Passing

Mrs. Blithe Plimley puzzling over her shopping list... (A retired housewife, she lives at 1137 Hillside. Her leisure hours are spent gardening and relaxing)... Bill Restall explaining to wife, Win, who Gabby is... Gayle Dunnett returning with the Victoria Bluebird majorettes from White Rock... Don Boon on his way to All-Sooke Day... George Cronby celebrating his wedding anniversary... Ted Matthews giving some good counsel.

Armed with hard-hitting facts like this one, a delegation of local welfare officials will appear before Greater Victoria municipal councils to dramatize the need for a unified family and juvenile court for the area.

Representatives of the Community Welfare Council, the Community Chest, and the Family and Children's Service are scheduled to meet with Saanich council on Monday night. Meetings are being arranged with councils of Oak Bay, Victoria and Esquimalt.

Vancouver has found a partial solution to the serious problem of juvenile courts in its system of juvenile courts with trained probation officers to help the youngster who has run afoul of the law. Dr. Gordon H. Grant, Victoria, said in a report to southern Vancouver Island social workers.

"This is no more than a partial solution," said D. E. Woodsworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service, "but it is a giant step forward from where we now stand."

The delegation will tell municipal councils—in the words of Dr. Grant—"a family court, staffed by people who know their business, hardly can be beyond our means."

"An adequate staff of probation officers, no matter how much we decide to pay, could hardly cost more than repairs to our parks. It could hardly be more expensive than a periodic wild chase through city streets ending with dead and maimed children in the smashed fugitive car."

"It could not add up to the murders we are going to have soon unless we take action."

Mr. Woodsworth said there seems to be growing support for a unified family and juvenile court here.

"Reeve George Chatterton has already expressed himself in favor of the proposal but feels it should be thrown open to discussion by his council."

The provincial government has agreed in principle, but since the municipalities must share costs of the court, it feels they should have a say in whether court is established.

Charter Bus Entry

Tourists' Departure Sparks Study Here

A study of the law covering entry of charter buses to Canada is being made by George

L. Warren for the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Playroom Fire Ousts Family

Fire broke out in a utility playroom in a Saanich house early yesterday morning, causing moderate damage and forcing the occupants outside until firemen cleared smoke from the building.

Firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barrow, 3120 Qu'Appelle, about 2:15 a.m. and returned to their stationhouse at 2:31 a.m.

It follows the incident last week in which a group of U.S. tourists left Victoria in a huff after learning that a technicality prevents chartered buses from following regular sight-seeing routes.

"There are two sides to every question," Mr. Warren said last night. "It is my own opinion that once a charter bus is admitted to B.C. it should be allowed to travel over any road."

"But I might point out, Victoria Chamber of Commerce goodwill mission was prevented from taking a charter bus into the U.S. recently. So we are looking into the whole matter to see what is the law."

Bouncing Babes, Athletic Axmen, Luscious Lasses Sooke Day Specials

Chubby and lean, smiling and in tears, placid and tempestuous, silent and voluble, this array of appealing babies made judging of All-Sooke Day baby contest yesterday a difficult task. Record crowd attended celebrations.

Twenty years a faller in B.C. woods and now a highways department road foreman for Port Renfrew, 36-year-old Elmer Stolth won All-Sooke Day tree-chopping contest and looks lovingly at keenly-honed blade which helped him do the job in best time of day.

Pretty 23-year-old Marie Young, 834 Devon Street, made good time pounding home first three of five spikes in All-Sooke Day women's nail-driving contest but flagged towards end and was hardly able to finish.—(Colonist photos.)

Revved-Up Racer Sets Pigeon Mark

A revved-up racing pigeon landed in Victoria last night and claimed a new speed record for the run between this city and Edmonton.

The bird, owned by Charles Woolley of 2895 Inlet Drive covered the 557 miles in 24 hours and 39 minutes, 18 hours less than the previous record. The pigeon was one of eight belonging to Victoria Racing Pigeon Club members to start the flight on Friday.

Double Try Today

Strait Swimmers Meet in Middle?

Two burly veterans of long-distance swimming may meet today in the middle of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Doug Rivette of Victoria and Jim Woods of Orlando, Florida, will both start their swims in the early morning—Doug from Victoria and Jim from Port Angeles.

Rivette, a three-time loser so far, expects to "make a much better showing" on his fourth attempt.

He hopes to catch a tide off Race Rocks about 11:30 that will sweep him in towards Victoria.

Doug Rivette also hopes to catch a tide, about four to five miles off Albert Head. This should take him around Race Rocks, where he will try to pick up a tide sweeping down the strait from Salt Spring Island.

Another strait veteran, Ben Laughren will accompany Jim Woods as coach. His navigator will be David McMillan.

Radio station CKDA will cover the Woods swim for its duration. They will broadcast every half-hour starting at 7:25 a.m.

attempt. He leaves Victoria's breakwater at 5 a.m.

Woods, a novice in Strait swimming here, holds the record on the Lake Ontario swim. He will leave Ediz Hook at 8:23 Victoria time.

Jim said he "felt good" last night "with the exception of a little cold from the training in this icy water."

"If all the breaks are with me I hope to take 10 hours. If the weather stays like this we ought to have a fairly good chance."

He hopes to catch a tide off Race Rocks about 11:30 that will sweep him in towards Victoria.

Doug Rivette also hopes to catch a tide, about four to five miles off Albert Head. This should take him around Race Rocks, where he will try to pick up a tide sweeping down the strait from Salt Spring Island.

Another strait veteran, Ben Laughren will accompany Jim Woods as coach. His navigator will be David McMillan.

Radio station CKDA will cover the Woods swim for its duration. They will broadcast every half-hour starting at 7:25 a.m.

DOUG RIVETTE

JIM WOODS

Smallest 'Farm Fair' Draws Mobs to Sooke

All Usual Events Seen by 10,000

SISTER SUPERIOR MARY ANGELUS... leaving administration of St. Joseph's Hospital

Canada's smallest "agricultural fair" yesterday drew 10,000 to the banks of the Sooke River.

The occasion was the 23rd consecutive staging of 'All-Sooke Day'—an annual celebration which started out as a neighborhood get-together and grew to international fame.

This year, presence of five goats, three calves, a rooster, two rabbits and a collection of house plants made it an agricultural fair for the first time.

The transformation came, according to Sooke Community Association president John Wilson, when police served notice that a raffle conducted in connection with All-Sooke Day events was illegal.

To legalize it the sponsoring association collected the modest array of livestock and flowers—plus a handful of carrots thrown in for good measure—and made it an agricultural fair.

New status of the major Vancouver Island attraction was not allowed to intrude on the normal course of events which consisted of children's sports, loggers' competitions and the justly renowned beef and salmon barbecues, plus generous dollops of clam chowder.

In fact the association president had some trouble locating the exhibits, which had been carefully tucked away where they were unlikely to interfere with the day's festivities—or the general rush to buy raffle tickets.

Drew Record Crowd

By last night as the Sooke festival drew to a close a crowd believed by some old-timers to be a record had downed 140 gallons of clam chowder, eaten all but a few tag ends of 450 pounds of prime barbecued beef and completely demolished 1,600 pounds of barbecued spring salmon.

A program of children's sports got the day off to a flying start after an official opening address by Herbert Bruch, M.L.A., Esquimalt.

Vancouver Island title events for loggers took up most of the afternoon and early evening and drew thousands of loudly cheering spectators.

Between events the crowd of Sooke visitors and residents staked "claims" worth as much as $25, shied at coconuts, played bingo and strolled through the tree-shaded setting on the West bank of the Sooke River.

Although attendance at the event goes up almost every year, an official said, net returns, which go to maintain the Sooke Community Hall and improve the All-Sooke Day grounds, grow slimmer.

This year for the first time the association was forced to buy the salmon—some $1,200 worth—which in the past has been donated.

But the association's fame is spreading as fast as attendance figures are going up.

Mr. Wilson said the sponsoring group is getting more and more requests to cater to conventions with their famous chowder and barbecue recipes.

"Later this year they want us to stage a barbecue at University of British Columbia," he said.

Vacant Shack Burns At Colwood Corner

An unoccupied, two-room shack at Colwood Corner burned to the ground about 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

Firemen said that the blaze had such a hold on the 12-foot by 12-foot structure with shingle siding and roof that they were unable to save it.

Local St. Ann's Sister Promoted To Leadership of B.C., Alaska, Yukon

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Sister Mary Angelus, St. Joseph's Hospital has nearly completed plans for its new wing, which, it is hoped, will be started next year.

New Superior of St. Joseph's is Sister Mary Anne Celesta, who was 16 years in St. Joseph's business office and who for the last year has been administrator of St. Martin's Hospital at Oliver.

As Provincial Superior, Sister Mary Angelus succeeds Sister Mary Luca, who now goes as Superior administrator to St. Ann's Hospital in Juneau, Alaska.

During Mother Luca's six-year term as Provincial Superior, the order of St. Ann grew considerably in British Columbia; St. Patrick's School attached to Our Lady of Lourdes parish in Oak Bay; St. James' school at Vernon; Immaculate Conception school in Vancouver; a high and grade school at Little Flower Academy in Vancouver; an eight-room addition to St. Ann's Academy in Victoria and additions to the Sisters' hospitals in Juneau and Smithers.

It was Mother Luca who planned and brought to fruition last year the celebrations marking the 100th anniversary of the arrival in Victoria in June 1858 of the first four Sisters of St. Ann.

The Sisterhood, under Mother Luca, also purchased Glenisly, at East Sooke, as a vacation resort for the sisters.

PERSONAL MENTION

Enjoying the festivities at Friday's Government House garden party were several couples from Nanaimo including Judge and Mrs. Arnold L. Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. George Molecey, Mr. and Mrs. M. Farano, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Koster accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Syd Thompson.

Vancouver Island Delegate

One of the two Vancouver Island delegates to the Eighth annual Business and Professional Women's World conference in Paris this year, Mrs. Ruby Stewart, of Victoria, visited friends in Courtenay before leaving for Europe. Accompanying her will be Mrs. D. Kingston of Duncan.

Three Months Holiday

Leaving next week for a three months holiday in Britain are Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gibbs. The couple plans to visit a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Camburn, in Essex. While the Gibbs are away, their Island Road home will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gibbard, recently returned to Victoria from the Interior.

Garden Party Guests

Among guests from Vancouver attending Friday's Government House garden party were Ald. Anna Sprott, Mrs. J. A. McGeer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Caple, Miss Ruth M. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. A. Bruce Robertson.

Passing Through City

Passing through Victoria this weekend on their way to Seattle, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murray, of Nanaimo, were Mrs. M. Malberg, of Ottawa, Mrs. J. McAllister, of Fort McLeod, and Mrs. J. Boulton of Burbank, Calif.

Farewell Party

Active for many years in Metropolitan United Church, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Standen, leaving July 30 to make their home with their son, Dr. J. Standen, Mars, Pennsylvania, were guests at a farewell party in the church parlor recently. The reception at the church was arranged by Mrs. Jack Boorman, president of the WMS. The couple, surrounded by good wishes from many members of the congregation received a copy of the British Columbia Centennial Anthology as a going-away present.

Presented to Queen

Mrs. Hew Paterson, the wife of a former ADC to governors, in Victoria, for 20 years, was presented to the Queen at the Royal garden party, Friday.

Bridal Shower Held

A shower for the former Miss Eileen Hay, married on Saturday, July 18, to Mr. Bert Ridley, was held by Mrs. Shirley Gilbert at the home of Mrs. Jean Rothgaber, Joffe Street. Among those present were Mrs. J. Hay, mother of the bride, Mrs. W. Ridley, the groom's mother, Mrs. J. Corry, Mrs. B. Gilbert, Mrs. J. Bryant, Mrs. N. Le Bus, Mrs. G. Bell, Mrs. F. Mallory, Mrs. R. L. Groutage, and the Misses Jean Hay, Shirley Hay, Rose Webb, Janet Wright and Peggy Tarbet.

July 11 Marriage

Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Salmon was married to Mr. Robert Lloyd McGill at Victoria Truth Centre on July 11. Mrs. Kay Vance was matron-of-honor and Mr. Fred G. Usher, bestman. Mr. Michael Dixon and Mr. Jack McMaster acted as ushers. The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Melvin Vance. Following a honeymoon in Portland, the couple will reside at 1903 Shotbolt Crescent.

Visitors from Edmonton

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Birdsell and son, Douglas, are visiting Victoria from Edmonton for a week to see their son, Dale Birdsell, who is a cadet at Royal Roads.

Recent House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Colbourne, Peatt Road, Langford, have had as recent house guests their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Colbourne of Redondo Beach, Calif.

Guest from New York

Mrs. Leon Benoit of New York city is here visiting her daughter and her son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. McClellan of 943 Linkless Avenue.

Texas Visits Mother

Col. Paul Borup arrived from Texas to visit his mother, Mrs. J. C. Gorup, 2325 Estevan Avenue, on the occasion of her 88th birthday today.

Vacation in Oliver

Miss Mary-Anne Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Wood left Victoria for Oliver where she will vacation. Miss Wood will be the guest of her friend, Miss Sandra Ball and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Norbert Ball. Both Miss Wood and Miss Ball, 1958 debutantes, are now laboratory technicians at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Cousins from Ontario

Mrs. W. A. McElmoyle had as guests at her home on Rockland Avenue, her three cousins from Ontario: Mrs. A. Burnside Campbell, Niagara Falls, Mrs. M. Wright, Toronto, and Mrs. Malcolm A. Rosenthal of Ottawa. The trio are leaving the city today.

Forbidden Plateau Guests

Among the guests at Forbidden Plateau Lodge in Courtenay recently was Victorian Mr. M. H. Aldersmith. Reports are that the snow is rapidly melting from the Plateau and Kwai Lake Camp will be open and in operation by July 20.

Visitor from Hawaii

Visitor from Hawaii is Mrs. L. M. Barrett, staying at the Mayfair Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McGill. Mrs. Barrett is Dean of Women at Jackson College in Honolulu and will leave here next week to join her husband, Dr. Barrett and their three children at the Mammoth Lakes, Calif.

Teenagers Despire 'Egghead' Label

CHICAGO (AP) — If you want to make a teenager angry, call him an egghead. A poll of 5,000 youngsters across the United States showed three times as many objected to the label "egghead" than the runner-up, "spendthrift." Then came "huckster," "reactionary" and "proletarian."

EASIER DELIVERY

The Norwegian post office is installing collective mail boxes on the ground floors of multiple-story apartment houses.

Hospital Party Planners at Work

Planning a garden party for Wednesday, July 29, are members of the LA to St. Joseph's Hospital, sitting in the lovely gardens of Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Boettcher, 3107 Westdowne, where it will be held.

Conveners from left to right are Mrs. C. N. Day, Mrs. J. Ryan, Mrs. R. Reading, Mrs. G. Goldby and Mrs. E. Boettcher. — (Colonist photo.)

Mr. Andrew E. Constantinidis seen here with daughter Andrea and his wife, who is presently in Victoria for a few weeks' stay at 3144 Millgrove Street. — (Colonist photo.)

Multi-Lingual Family

Constantinidis Party International Affair

By CAROL KENDALL

A party at the home of the Constantinidis on Millgrove Street is an international affair.

This multi-lingual, much-travelled family of four is frequently separated. They hope to be together here in the next few weeks.

Mrs. Maritsa Constantinidis is their hub.

Her husband, Mr. Andrew E. Constantinidis, is a representative of carpet factories in Japan and has his office in 5th Avenue, New York. He has to spend much of his time visiting cities all over this continent and is now in Victoria for a short stay.

Daughter Andrea is at Victoria High School. Now indistinguishable from any other Canadian girl, she was born in China and spent all her childhood in the Orient.

The missing member is Emmanuel, known to his friends as Manno. He came to Vancouver alone from Tokyo in 1952 to graduate at UBC. At present he is out with a forest-survey team but expected back shortly.

A Greek, born in Turkey, Mr. Constantinidis went to China as a young man to help his uncle, who owned a tobacco factory.

For a time he was sent to Java, East Indies, but found the climate overpowering.

"I decided I was too young to die of malaria," he said, "and went back to Tientsin, China."

Later he went to work in a carpet factory and soon owned his own.

These Chinese carpets were hand made, thick and beautiful, nearly indestructible but very costly.

From Tientsin the family moved to Shanghai and later to Japan. Hand-made carpets became a luxury and now Mr. Constantinidis' factories make broadloom Wiltons which are mainly exported to America.

Mrs. Constantinidis thinks Victoria beautiful but finds life quiet after the gay social life they led in the Far East.

"There was always the country club," she says, "where everybody met everybody." They played golf, tennis, swam, danced or just lazed around. Children were well looked after in their own play areas.

Life was leisurely or hectic, whichever you preferred.

Their friends in Victoria have come from many parts of the world. When they meet at 3144 Millgrove Street it is usual to hear conversations in Estonian, Swedish and Chinese, and more than likely that you will end up singing sad Greek songs.

Home for this family is where they all meet. This time it's Victoria.

Here's a Tale Of Neighbors

This is the tale of two neighbors in Victoria... Mrs. A and Mrs. B.

Mrs. B was talking some time ago about how wonderful it would be to attend the royal garden party at Government House and meet the Queen.

Mrs. A laughed delightedly and said she could arrange it all. "I sign the visitors' book at Government House every year," she said, "and I go to all the garden parties."

So Mrs. A took Mrs. B to Government House and had her sign the visitors' book.

And then Mrs. A went downtown and spent a lot of her husband's hard earned cash on a complete new outfit.

And Mrs. B got an invitation to the garden party, as Mrs. A had promised.

But Mrs. A didn't.

CATNCART'S CLEARANCE SALE of Women's Shoes

CONTINUES — FROM REGULAR STOCK In Colors of Black, Brown, Blue, also White

REGULAR TO $16.95— 11.95
CLEARANCE SALE

REGULAR TO $15.95— 8.95
CLEARANCE SALE

DISCONTINUED LINES Dr. M. W. Locke's. Pumps only. Regular $17.95. 12.95
CLEARANCE SALE

CATNCART'S SHOE STORE 630 FORT STREET PHONE EV 4-6111

Mars-Flett

Bride Wore Lace

Exchanging rings and wedding vows in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last evening were Miss Lila Gertrude Flett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Flett, Niagara Street, and Robert Henry Mars, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mars, McNair Street.

Rev. J. L. W. McLean officiated.

Preceding the bride and her father up the aisle were her sister, Mrs. W. Wickett, in a coral nylon and net gown with a bouquet of Kokomo carnations and the groom's sister, Miss Donna Mars, in turquoise with pink carnations.

Carrying red roses, the dark-haired bride was pretty in a full, hoop-skirted gown of nylon finet, festooned with hand-clipped lace applique on the skirt and floral Napa lace outlining the Sabrina neckline and net streamers stemming from the V-back. Her coronet of seed pearls and drop crystals held a chapel-length veil of illusion mist.

Mr. Lyle Hollingworth was best man, with ushers Mr. George Wright and Mr. Bill Wickett.

The bride's uncle, Mr. Thomas Hull, proposed the bridal toast at a Holyrood House reception.

enjoy unequalled pleasure with 2 EAR HEARING with new improved Maico
MAICO
Hearing Glasses

Discover the joy of normal 2 ear hearing with the years-aided Maico slim line Hearing Glasses. Get true directional hearing! Don't miss a word in group conversation. Come in and see the All-New Hearing Glasses by Maico.

Optical services on Maico Hearing Glasses available only through the optical profession

R. O. MUNSON

AND COMPANY

Ground Floor, 640 Fort

Phone EV 3-2436

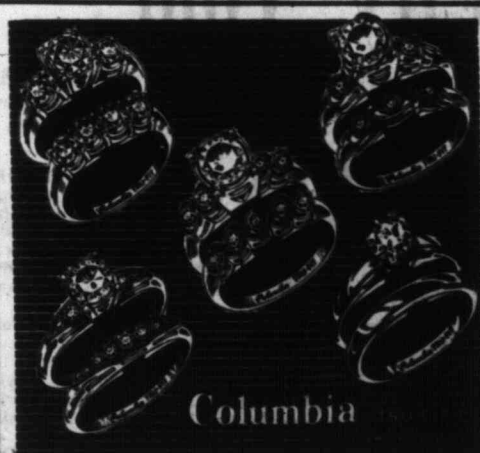

Batteries - Repairs - Cords For All Makes

Newspaper

Advertising

Stimulates

Buying

Little Things Mean A Lot...

There's something special hidden in each Columbia Diamond Ring masterpiece... Two tiny Guardian Angels that make a world of difference when you put the ring on your finger and enjoy its self-adjusting comfort... its feeling of security... the joy of knowing that your precious diamond is perfectly centered, to be seen and admired

Styles from $50.00

EASY TERMS — NO CARRYING CHARGES

1317 DOUGLAS ST.

JEWELERS

REPEAT SHIPMENT!

"TROPICANA" DRESSES

LOOK FOR THIS FAMOUS LABEL

$4.98 ALL ONE PRICE!
SIZES 14 to 20
18½ to 24½

SPENCER'S STORES 1420 DOUGLAS LTD. 1110 GOV'T.

Vancouver Island Welcomes Queen

Tumultuous Crowds Greet Sovereign

A tumultuous two-day trip under a blazing July sky by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip can be summed up with:

Welcome to Vancouver Island!

Everywhere they went they were greeted by exuberantly cheering crowds—the Prince, tanned and sun-bleached from his Pennask Lake holiday and the Island sun and the Queen, fragile and feminine.

Arriving in Nanaimo, they met 3,000 people jammed into Exhibition Park to watch Her Majesty be titled an Indian princess and presented with the famed Cowichan Indian sweaters.

When the royal party reached Chemainus, more than 6,000 men, women and children had been waiting an hour to see her.

Mount Brenton golf course was the next stop for luncheon with logging officials and their wives—a delightful, quiet time on the club's fourth fairway.

In Duncan, flashing the royal smile, Her Majesty captivated more than 4,000 people in spite of 90-degree heat.

Swelled by tourists, jammed with cars, cameras and people, Victoria waited with increasing expectancy as the royal limousine sped and slowed along the highway.

Her Majesty and Prince Philip rode into the city on a wave of warmth and friendliness, as crowds waving flags and cheering lustily, sped them on their way to be greeted at Government House by the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross.

Close to 10,000 people encircled the legislative buildings that afternoon to give the royal pair an affectionate "Hello."

Friday was a full schedule.

With warm weather and blue skies heralding their approach, they spent 15 minutes chatting with patients of the Veterans' Hospital.

One of the most spectacular events was the presentation by the Queen of colors to the First Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and the King's Own Calgary Regiment at Beacon Hill and the dramatic fly-past of the RCAF.

More formal was the provincial luncheon at the stately Empress Hotel given before the Clover Point drive.

And climaxing the afternoon, the Government House garden party attended by 4,000 people from all walks of life in the province—with the accent on warmth and hospitality and fun.

Among the most thrilled of all people at the Government House party were a group of Guides, brave in their uniforms and badges of accomplishment.

The Queen paused and talked to several of them questioning them about their homes, where they came from and their achievements as Guides. (Photo by Jim Ryan.)

In his customary pose, tanned and healthy Prince Philip shows the Edinburgh profile as Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, together mount the steps of the legislative buildings to a raised dais where the Queen received a royal salute and then inspected the RCN guard of honor, in the background.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Escorted by the lieutenant-governor and naval and army aides-de-camp, Her Majesty leaves Government House for Friday afternoon's garden party, where she circulated among the

4,000 or more people of British Columbia who were present. Prince Philip strides along on the right. In the background is Government House, the Queen's B.C. "home".—(Photo by Jim Ryan.)

Looking every inch a queen, Elizabeth II strolls over the grass at Duncan to say hello to children and to elderly people. She wore her "arrival" ensemble of white silk surrah, dotted with black squares, and softly gathered to a black velvet belt and bow. Her silk-swathed, white turban was finished in a matching bow.—(Photo by William A. Boucher.)

"Ar-oh-muht!"—the Kwakiutl name given Her Majesty by the Vancouver Island Indians during her Nanaimo visit Thursday means "Respected by all, Mother of all people." Pictured here with Nanaimo's mayor, Peter Maffeo, she is holding another of the Indians' gifts, a hand-worked basket filled with summer flowers, as the drums throbbed a welcome in the distance.—(Photo by Don Ryan.)

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I've been married to a spoiled brat for six months. We are both 23. The characteristics I once considered "cute" now get on my nerves. When she used to get mad at me and pout I thought she looked adorable. Now I'd like to belt her one in the chops and put that lower lip back where it belongs.

Last night we argued about which TV channel to watch. I figured since she had her choice for two hours it was my turn. She stamped her feet and had a real tantrum, so I simply yanked the plug and said "O.K., let's both read."

She ran to the bedroom, locked the door, and it stayed locked until morning. I had to sleep on the couch. This is the third time in two months she's locked me out. Are we beyond help?—SORE.

Dear SORE: The wife who locks her husband out makes a big mistake. Some men might take this as a cue to try other doors—which might be open. Far better to stay in the room and slug it out verbally. A good argument is much healthier than stony silence or complete retreat.

You two need a third party to mediate this war. Not a friend or a relative—but a marriage counselor. If you've been married only six months chances are good this marriage can be set on the right track. Get going and good luck.

Brother's a Thief

Dear Ann: My little brother is a thief. He takes money out of mama's pocket-book; and yesterday I caught him in my room rummaging around for money I earn baby-sitting.

At first Mom couldn't understand why the milk money was disappearing. Then the neighbor told Mom she saw Sonny take it. Mom got mad at her, but we know now she was telling the truth.

Sonny is 10 and I'm afraid he's going to wind up in jail if he doesn't stop this. No amount of hitting seems to do any good. Daddy strapped him three times last week, but he took a dollar off the teacher's desk after that. What can we do about this problem boy?—SISTER.

Dear SISTER: There is no such thing as a "problem boy"—only boys with problems. He needs professional help. I hope your father will stop hitting him with a strap and take him to a doctor who deals with disturbed children.

Blind as a Bat

Dear Ann: You may have 20-20 vision, but you're blind as a bat in one area. May I be your seeing eye dog?

A woman wrote she was fed up seeing her husband around the house in a moth-eaten sweater and old army pants. Did it ever occur to you that he might be the kind of guy who'd rather spend whatever money was available on his wife and kids? Not everyone can afford to buy "whatever is needed" for the whole family. Maybe this fellow deserves a bouquet instead of a boot, Ann.

I know about these things because I'm married to a selfish, egotistical jackass. Every time he has to have a new car so he can show off for the people at work. My old washing-machine fell apart in 1957 so now I wash by hand.

He goes to the barber shop every Saturday and leaves our kids standing in the driveway looking like little urchins. If he took his eyes off the mirror long enough to pat them on the head he'd see that they need haircuts worse than he does.

I hope you'll print this for the sake of the unselfish and sometimes heroic men who sacrifice for their families. I know there must be such guys around even if I didn't get one.—EMMILY.

Dear EMMILY: I am sure there are such men around, but the guy you refer to doesn't happen to be one. The letter clearly stated "he has a closet filled with nice clothes and he could buy whatever his heart desired—but he's a slob." Thanks for writing anyway. It was a good letter.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Victoria Still Glowing

Warm Memories!

By EILEEN LEABOYD

The lovely sovereign who came to see her people on Vancouver Island has winged her way to cooler climes.

She carries away warm memories of Victoria—both of the heat, and the reception she got.

The Queen did show signs of fatigue on her arrival Thursday but, by Friday, for the magnificent PPCLI color ceremony, and later at the garden party, she was showing much of the inner beauty so evident in her mother, the Queen Mother.

SHONE LIKE SAPPHIRE

When she arrived at the sun-baked, heat-washed arena that was Beacon Hill Park wearing a vivid blue dress, she shone like a sapphire in a khaki desert.

This slender young woman who probably knows more about ceremonial drill than a regimental sergeant-major, sat forward on her powder blue chair most of the time as if she were afraid to miss a single movement on the parade square.

SUPERLATIVE DRILL

She and Prince Philip watched the superlative drill of the six escorts as they came past in column, in slow time, with intense interest. Both smiled to see how well it was done. Again when the foot soldiers broke from slow to fast time with never a falter they showed pleasure.

At that difficult manoeuvre, the advance in review order, when the single file, almost the length of the square, came forward 15 paces in a line like an arrow, she turned to the Prince and smiled again.

PRINCE DELIGHTED

Prince Philip seemed particularly delighted with the "E" flypast of the bombers from Comox.

At the Garden Party at Government House the Queen was radiant and relaxed.

There it was that I spoke for a few minutes to Michael Butler, her press secretary.

"The Queen was delighted with the color ceremony. She thought it was magnificently done. She is enjoying herself."

HAPPY PARTY

This must have been true, for she stayed a full one and a half hours at that happy party where all ranks and classes from every corner of the Province came to be dazzled by her warmth and charm.

In the two-day Royal visit to Victoria, a hundred correspondents sent a million teletyped words to every corner of the earth.

Working against time, many impressions have to be left out.

DEAF!

Read Humphrey Goff's message from the Salt Lake Herald-Examiner, published every day under Amusements, in this newspaper.

Northern Audio Company
223 Scotland Building

B.C. ELECTRIC LIGHT AND TELEPHONE
BILLS PAYABLE AT BOTH PLACES

McCall Davey Drug Co.
1425 Douglas, Opp. City Hall
EV 5-5211 or EV 5-5212

Shelbourne Drug Store
Corner Blythe and Shelbourne
Phone 6-6106

Veteran Army Nurses Reminisc

Thirty-five members of the Canadian Nurses' Association from Victoria, all veterans who saw action during two world wars, had their first up-island meeting recently. Some of the group were, left, Mrs. Ida Groves, Cowichan Station, who was hostess to the group at her home on Wilson Road, Mrs. George Stewart, Victoria, Miss Marnie Hearn, Victoria, president, and Mrs. H. A. Hunt, Cobble Hill.—(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foster, 2021 Camarvon Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Anne, to Mr. Denis Walter Cullimore, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cullimore, 2140 Cadboro Bay Road. The wedding will take place at St. John's Church at 8 p.m. August 8. Canon G. Biddle will officiate. (Photo of Mr. Cullimore by Hy-Fidelity; of Miss Foster by Meyers Studio.)

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

PERSONAL AIR-CONDITIONING. It is a popular misconception that cold drinks, cold foods and cold showers keep you cool during hot weather. Experts say "it ain't so!"

You need at least one hot dish or beverage at a meal to spur your digestion, which in turn spurs your energy into fighting the drain of heat. And instead of a quick cold shower, you need a leisurely warm bath. Cold water only cools the skin's surface; warm water helps to draw the inner heat from the body.

If you would like to feel as cool as a mountain breeze for hours, sip a cup of hot tea and then relax in a tub of warm sudsy water for ten minutes. Thereafter rinse off with tepid (not cold) water and, instead of toweling dry, let yourself air-dry.

From the "do," your skin benefits along with your temperature. Warm aids art tonic to every head-to-toe complexion.

TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS

Let me help you with the problem of a too-fleshy arm, chest or upper back by sending you my leaflet, Trimmers and Slimmers. It contains a set of co-ordinated spot reducing exercises—easy to do, quick to get results. Just write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

(Copyright 1959, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Fewer Visitors Lured Despite Royal Tour

OTTAWA—Canada's highways have seen less—not more—American and foreign tourist cars this year despite hopes that the Royal visit and the newly-completed St. Lawrence Seaway would provide big tourist attractions.

Number of foreign vehicles entering Canada on "traveler vehicle permits" declined by 5 per cent to 322,699 in the first half of the year.

Daughters of St. George To Meet on Wednesday

The Daughters of St. George, No. 83, will hold their meeting Wednesday, July 22, in the Knights of Pythias Hall at 7.30 p.m.

DRIVE BY

1224 BEACH DRIVE
EXCLUSIVE
NEAR OAK BAY GOLF LINKS

Five lovely rooms. Sea view. 1 1/2 bathrooms. Basement. Garage. Oil heat. Quality plus. Included garden.

Please DO NOT Disturb Occupants

Phone E. J. FAY, EV 5-5411 or EV 5-5412, for details and to view by appointment

KER & STEPHENSON LTD.

905 GOVT. STREET

Off to Scotland and the Continent

Off to attend the Canadian and British Medical Association meeting in Edinburgh, Scotland, are Dr. and Mrs. R. J. White of Victoria. They will combine the week-long convention with a continental holiday.—(CPA photo.)

CBC Fashion Commentator

Queen Charming, Feminine

By ANNE SHELLE

Queen Elizabeth was described as "charmingly feminine" and "appropriately dressed for the tour and for the climate" by one of the country's leading fashion experts.

Canada's first CBC fashion tour commentator, Miss Joy Davies, of Toronto, thought Her Majesty was five-foot-three inches of pure dignity.

And Joy should know. She's been with the Royal Tour since St. John's.

Her Majesty managed to have a trunkful or two of suitable clothes considering that the temperature varied across Canada from 48 degrees to 85 degrees.

Mainly Hardie Ames or Norman Hartnell-designed fashions, the frocks chosen for the tour.

"The Queen doesn't pretend to be an extremist in style unlike her sister Margaret. What she wore was extremely feminine and sweet to set off her cameo complexion and, excellent figure."

"The Queen bows to current fashion trends," said the suburban-bred Miss Davies.

only as she adapts her clothes to the oriental influence, now rampaging its way through the U.S."

JOY DAVIES

An example of this was the Japanese cherry coat worn by her Majesty on her departure from Victoria to Terrace yesterday.

The coat, very full-sleeved had a definite mandarin collar. Miss Davies commented that Her Majesty has chosen many floral prints for her Canadian tour with the emphasis on no particular color.

Her hats have been mainly floral chapeaux in misty shades to match her ensemble.

Miss Davies' principal recollection of the tour was a brief, personal interview.

She was presented at a press

There's NEW BEAUTY as well as New Vision

SUN GLASSES For every occasion and costume New Arrivals Latest Styles

BROKEN LENSES AND FRAMES REPLACED WHILE YOU WAIT

Won't you drop in with your prescription and try on our lovely new frames with no obligation whatever? You are sure to find one that flatters you.

MAYCOCK OPTICAL DISPENSARY LTD.

ONE PURPOSE: TO SERVE YOU WELL!

Ground Floor 1257 BROAD ST. JOHNSON Phone EV 4-7651

Skirl of Pipes Welcome Note At Lawn Party

The skirl of the bagpipes was the welcoming note at the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society garden party yesterday.

Held in the grounds of the Redwood Motel, 141 Gorge Road, this marked the centenary of the society.

Conveners were in period dress. The high spot of the occasion was an old-fashioned dress parade, some of the costumes originals, some copies. One original outfit was satin—a beautiful black dress trimmed with lace and the model carried a black lace parasol. Stalls were under large umrellas and canopies as protection from the hot sun. Tea was served on the sloping lawns of the Dingle, an old colonial home, which lent an authentic note to this centennial celebration.

Representing the Canadian Scottish Echo Co. was Richard Tyler of Victoria. A dozen members of the Canadian Scottish band led by bandmaster F. E. Knight played the Black Watch Polka and other military airs.

A fair crowd listened to the music and watched the entertainments provided by Gerry Inglis and his accordion band and a troupe of trained dogs.

Approximately $400 was made which money will go towards society funds.

OLD-STYLE BRIDGES

Covered bridges are still being built occasionally in the New England states; one at Sheffield, Mass., was dedicated in 1953.

IF YOU FAIL TO UNDERSTAND WORDS YOU HEAR...

You must have said to yourself, "I'm hard-of-hearing." Do you realize that this condition is quite common—and usually is due to NERVE DEAFNESS? Find out how you may be able to relieve this condition and hear again and sounds clearly again. Write for free booklet, NERVE DEAFNESS. No obligation.

Acousticon Hearing Aids From $69.50

ACOUSTICON Your Golden Circle of Sound OF VICTORIA

Phone EV 2-4524

Suite 102, 745 Yates St.

Enjoy a Bright New Living for Your Home • Slipcovers • Blankets • Drapes Beautifully Dry Cleaned and Pressed by THE PAGE CLEANER 2329 DOUGLAS

Hudson's Bay Company INCORPORATED 27th MAY 1870

Design for Easy Summer Living

Hair styles for sun-filled, fun-filled days—with the shape cut in for cool comfort, chic and easy care.

To insure around-the-clock good grooming with little care—we recommend a soft, like-natural permanent wave.

Phone EV 5-1311 for your appointment

HBC Beauty Salon, Fashion Floor, 2nd

Use Your Charge Account

Shop Monday 9 a.m. to 5.30 p.m.

Hair-Raising Route Losing Its Terrors

BOSTON BAR, B.C. (CP)—The old Canyon Road, one of the most treacherous bits of highway on the continent, has almost disappeared, replaced by a sleek $500,000-per-mile section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

To steel-nerved motorists the 100 miles of narrow mountain shelves, hairpin curves and steep climbs linking Hope with Spence's Bridge in British Columbia, presented a challenge.

Changes in the deep gorges of the Fraser and Thompson Rivers came gradually but by September only 10 miles of the old Canyon Road will be left. The new highway is 44 feet wide with concrete guard rails on the curves made of 10-foot sections weighing a ton apiece. There are two tunnels, each 34 feet wide and lined with cement.

COSTS COMPARED
The tunnels cost $1,500 a running foot contrasted with $1,200 a mile called for nearly a century ago in the contract for the original Cariboo Road in the interior.

Where grades exceed four per cent a third lane for slow traffic is added. Mountain sides are dynamited and the rubble used to fill dips and gullies.

At Tank Hill, on the climb to Jackass Mountain, 450,000 cubic yards was shifted.

HAIRPIN TURNS
On the old Canyon Road, Jackass Mountain was climbed in a series of hairpin turns. It was an unwritten rule that a motorist would not pass another stalled in the canyon. On most stretches nobody passed anyone who was moving either.

Two tunnels on the old road leaked water and in the spring chunks of rock came down with the water, caroming off car roofs. The tunnels are still there, but one will be destroyed and the other is to be abandoned and a wide, new one opened up beside it.

BIGGEST ANYWHERE?
Assistant Deputy Highways Minister Roy McLeod is proud of the new road. "It's the biggest road-building job under way anywhere in the western world at least, and probably in Russia also."

The amount of rock and gravel moved by the workers would build the biggest pyramid with material to spare.

Bing, Phil To Lead Parade

SEATTLE (Special)—The 10th anniversary edition of Seattle's colorful Seafair Grand Parade takes place Aug. 1, led by Bing Crosby and Phil Harris, as honorary grand marshals. Cities sending floats include Victoria and Vancouver, B.C.

Canadians Flocking To Bahamas

TORONTO (Special)—Canadian tourists are travelling to the Bahamas in swelling month by month. V. E. Chenea, of the Bahamas Tourist Development Board said here.

"Ten years ago we were getting 32,000 tourists a year," he said. "This year we expect to top the 200,000 mark. Of that total, about 12,500 will be Canadians, compared to 10,000 last year."

Mr. Chenea said there are 700 islands in the Bahamas group "and right now 90 per cent of the tourist business goes to New Providence on which the capital, Nassau, is located."

"There are 20 islands bigger than New Providence and all of them are suitable for development. There's just no limit in sight."

Another semi-tropical area attracting increasing numbers of Canadians is, of course, Florida, which competes strongly with the Bahamas for Canadian vacation attention.

Canadian residents rank second only in number to those of New York State as visitors to Florida.

A new hotel, at Hollywood-by-the-Sea, Fla., has been built by a former Canadian, Hal Gardner of Quebec City. He said the hotel was planned with Canadians in mind. "Who want something less garish than other tourists."

Carpet of Flowers

As it spreads spectacularly across the cobblestone streets of Genzano, Italy, a carpet of flowers has unrolled in floral splendor. Millions of petals were used to make these flower mosaics for an annual celebration that is climaxed by a religious procession over them.

Bonneville Power Link Planned by Pacific States

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The three Pacific Coast governors have agreed to launch a three-state power hook-up.

Governors Edmund G. Brown of California, Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, meeting here Thursday, adopted a three-

Vietnam Face French But Heart's Oriental

Her face is French; her heart, Oriental. That's Vietnam, an up-and-coming stop on many Pacific itineraries.

The broad, shady boulevards, sidewalk cafes, flower stalls and pink stucco architecture of Vietnam's capital city, Saigon, recall any number of towns on the French Riviera.

But look again, and you see Buddhist temples—and listen, and you'll hear a curious sound like dice being shaken. These are the fortune sticks by which Orientals decide everything from when to start a business to how to cure a cold.

For the Pacific, or 'round-the-world traveller, Vietnam is one of the most "different" countries imaginable. The country stretches for 1,500 miles along that part of the Pacific called the China Sea, and borders China on the North and Cambodia on the West.

For those adventurous enough to go off the beaten path, Vietnam offers big game safaris and trips to old imperial cities. From Ban-methuot, the country's summer capital and chief mountain resort you can hunt bear, wild boar, panthers, tigers, wild oxen, gaur or elephants.

GREYHOUND

SCENICRUISER

Return Fares from Seattle:
Portland	$ 6.70
San Francisco	34.95
Los Angeles	45.65
San Diego	49.70
Chicago	77.90
New York	122.90
Toronto	168.45
Montreal	124.95
Quebec	133.05

Go one way, return another. Add boat fares: Victoria to Seattle, C.P.R., $8.30; Victoria to Seattle, W.S.F., $9.35.

WILLIS TRAVEL SERVICE

1006 DOUGLAS EV 2-4712

HAWAII

Book Now!

Because...

Because of increased interest in Hawaii, Blaney's suggest you make air or boat and accommodation reservations immediately so as to avoid disappointment.

BLANEY'S

IS OFFICIAL INFORMATION RESERVATION AND TICKET OFFICE... for all air and steamship lines to Hawaii... all hotels and resorts, etc., on the islands. Ask for free folders.

BLANEY'S Travel Service 1006 Douglas St. EV 2-7254

World Travel

TAKE THAT DREAM TRIP NOW

We'll arrange all the details to suit your pocketbook or requirements. No trip is too small and remember, there's no charge for our service. Let us suggest an itinerary with costs for your trip... soon.

FEATHERSTONE TRAVEL SERVICE EV 2-4711

TICKETS Steamships Airlines Hotels Tours Rail Bus

734 YATES

Wayfarer's Diary

Ship Infested With Juveniles

Victoria actress, Vivienne Chadwick, continues her diary of impressions gained during her current world tour.

By VIVIANNE CHADWICK

Since Singapore the ship has been infested with juveniles. Buggies lurk in blind alleys off the corridors, and, with a roll of the ship, sneak silently up behind and clip one in the back of the knees.

Orange peel appears on the stairs, smashed biscuits on the deck, spilled ice cream in the chairs.

One baby, it seems, takes up more space on the promenade than four adults, involving as it does a spread blanket, the buggy, bags of toys and equipment, and two chairs and a sunning mattress to keep the creature, all too efficiently, from rolling overboard.

COMPLAINTS SIZZLE

The noise has become incredible, and complaints begin to sizzle in to an embittered purser's office. I, of course, have nothing to do with this. Not a thing. Only, remembering Marc Antony, I slyly praise with damning double-talk, hoping thereby further to incite my fellow men "to mutiny and rage."

Sure enough, a note is appended to our "Good Morning" sheet firmly requesting parents to employ a little discipline, and a disembodied voice over the P.A. system advises that the ship's personnel take a dim view of cops and robbers in the lounge, and commands on the dance deck. A modicum of peace descends.

WEATHER COOLS

All through the Red Sea, and now westbound through the Mediterranean, the days and nights have gradually cooled. The breathless humidity is gone. Where once we sailed an ocean empty to the horizon, now we are in busy shipping lanes, and scores of vessels share the seas with us.

The massive outline of Gibraltar, so familiar, so impressive, is thrilling to see. Not a dark rock, as I had somehow expected, but light granite. And not completely bare, but so well planted that only through glasses can one see the narrow little road winding upward through small trees.

OPEN BUGGIES

Again we anchor in the roadstead, and are served by launches to the jetty. Little open horsedrawn buggies wait us, and are well patronized, but I wander with my companions on foot through the great gates, past the military cantonment, into the heart of the town.

I love it. The narrow, steep streets are clean, hosed down every night. I'm told, though there is no water except from the rain, which is hoarded, millions of gallons, in vast tanks sunk deep into the heart of the rock. Perhaps sea water, natural or converted, is used for this — no one seemed to know.

A ride up almost to the top, past the handsome Rock Hotel, past an ancient Spanish fort, through avenues — very narrow — of greenery and flowers, enchants me. I hate to leave.

The Blue Water

Old Chart, Empty Whisky Bottle Tools for Coastal Navigation

By John Frederic Gibson

He was a young Canadian. In 1940, he had paid his own passage to Liverpool and had joined the Royal Navy. His name was Michael Gould, and he was to be one of my greatest friends for a short, hectic period of youth.

Michael had flown gold from the mountain mines to Santiago; he had flown for the Spanish Republicans, had been shot down and had been evacuated from Spain on a British destroyer. He had navigated his schooner from New England to the Caribbean, using an old chart and an empty whisky bottle.

COLOR BLIND

The Royal Navy discovered that Michael was color blind, and he was commissioned as a sub-lieutenant and made into a glorified desk clerk. He would stand behind his little grill, sardonic and temporarily in defeat.

Michael appears in this column, as you may have gathered, because of his navigational prowess. The purists might not approve of his methods, but he survived several voyages in his schooner in order to become a male receptionist in HMS King Alfred.

From time to time, the question is heard: "How can I navigate without having to buy compasses, parallel rulers, dividers, tables, range finders and electronic gadgets?"

LEAD LINE USEFUL

Well, of course, the really important voyages of discovery were made in the days of the quadrant, astrolabe and dip-needle. No one would suggest a return to that kind of thing. But maybe a lead line, which takes up very little space, could be useful on occasions.

Most people who wish to simplify navigation do not intend to go far afield; they do not want to clutter up their boats with valuable instruments; they do not want to go to school again. They have no wish to spend their weekends proving that their boat is half a mile off Discovery Island.

The chart and empty whisky bottle method of coastal navigation can only be used in clear weather, and it is only practical when there are islands nearby.

If you happen to be moving through the Gulf Islands on a bright morning you can proceed as follows:

Keep the chart handy so that you can identify each island that comes into view. Watch one small island which is not too far distant and make a note of the time when one end of it is in direct line with the end of another.

For instance, the right-hand edge of Darcy might be in line with the left-hand edge of Sydney Island at 1016. Now you draw a line through the two edges in question, extending in your direction and using the bottle as a ruler. Your boat must be on that line.

This can be repeated whenever islands overlap, and, with practice, can be as safe a method of coastal navigation as any other.

BRENTWOOD BAY B.C.

VICTORIA'S LEADING RESORT

Enjoy the warm hospitality and extensive recreation facilities of this outstanding resort, or reserve a table in our magnificent marine view dining room, for lunch, afternoon tea or dinner. A personal maid and every facility available for wedding receptions and banquets. Dining room seating capacity, 120. Recommended by A.A.A. and Duncan House. Phone GR 4-2282

SPAIN THIS YEAR?

Never carry more cash than you can afford to lose

TAKE AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVELERS CHEQUES

OBTAINABLE AT BANK BRANCHES AND OUR TICKET OFFICES EVERYWHERE

FAMILY PLAN FARES TO BRITAIN

* EFFECTIVE OCT. 15th THROUGH MARCH 31st
For Travel Between the Above Dates, the Economy Class Air Fares Are Substantially Reduced

* VICTORIA - LONDON $595.00 and Return

* VICTORIA - GLASGOW $568.00 and Return

* Each for Husband and Wife

* Proportionately Low Fares to All European Cities

NOW is the time to register for your Christmas and New Year Holiday in Europe

For Full Details and Further Information

GEORGE PAULIN (LTD.) TRAVEL SERVICE

1006 Government Street Phone EV 2-6168

A Round Trip and 10 Days in BRITAIN
for less than $625.00

For details write to
BRITISH TRAVEL ASSOCIATION, Dept. V6-65
90 ADELAIDE STREET WEST, TORONTO or consult your local travel office.
*By RAIL and SEA $625.00. By AIR $750.00 INCLUDING EXPENSES IN BRITAIN

PAULIN'S FOR SERVICE
1006 Government St.
EV 2-6168

BLANEY'S SELL THE TICKETS
100 Douglas
EV 2-7254

WILLIS TRAVEL SERVICE
Tickets - Reservations
1006 Douglas St. EV 2-4712

It Pays to Buy Nationally Advertised Products

TRAVEL ON A CAREFREE BUDGET! GET NEEDED CASH THROUGH THE WANT ADS

It's a fact! Classified ads are your key to action and profits! Whether you're buying or selling... REMEMBER,

A LOW-COST CLASSIFIED AD MEANS FASTER, BETTER BUYS FOR YOU

PHONE EV 3-4111

CLASSIFIED DEPT.

THE DAILY COLONIST

1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, 2042, 2043, 2044, 2045, 2046, 2047, 2048, 2049, 2050, 2051, 2052, 2053, 2054, 2055, 2056, 2057, 2058, 2059, 2060, 2061, 2062, 2063, 2064, 2065, 2066, 2067, 2068, 2069, 2070, 2071, 2072, 2073, 2074, 2075, 2076, 2077, 2078, 2079, 2080, 2081, 2082, 2083, 2084, 2085, 2086, 2087, 2088, 2089, 2090, 2091, 2092, 2093, 2094, 2095, 2096, 2097, 2098, 2099, 2100, 2101, 2102, 2103, 2104, 2105, 2106, 2107, 2108, 2109, 2110, 2111, 2112, 2113, 2114, 2115, 2116, 2117, 2118, 2119, 2120, 2121, 2122, 2123, 2124, 2125, 2126, 2127, 2128, 2129, 2130, 2131, 2132, 2133, 2134, 2135, 2136, 2137, 2138, 2139, 2140, 2141, 2142, 2143, 2144, 2145, 2146, 2147, 2148, 2149, 2150, 2151, 2152, 2153, 2154, 2155, 2156, 2157, 2158, 2159, 2160, 2161, 2162, 2163, 2164, 2165, 2166, 2167, 2168, 2169, 2170, 2171, 2172, 2173, 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177, 2178, 2179, 2180, 2181, 2182, 2183, 2184, 2185, 2186, 2187, 2188, 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 2196, 2197, 2198, 2199, 2200, 2201, 2202, 2203, 2204, 2205, 2206, 2207, 2208, 2209, 2210, 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215, 2216, 2217, 2218, 2219, 2220, 2221, 2222, 2223, 2224, 2225, 2226, 2227, 2228, 2229, 2230, 2231, 2232, 2233, 2234, 2235, 2236, 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240, 2241, 2242, 2243, 2244, 2245, 2246, 2247, 2248, 2249, 2250, 2251, 2252, 2253, 2254, 2255, 2256, 2257, 2258, 2259, 2260, 2261, 2262, 2263, 2264, 2265, 2266, 2267, 2268, 2269, 2270, 2271, 2272, 2273, 2274, 2275, 2276, 2277, 2278, 2279, 2280, 2281, 2282, 2283, 2284, 2285, 2286, 2287, 2288, 2289, 2290, 2291, 2292, 2293, 2294, 2295, 2296, 2297, 2298, 2299, 2300, 2301, 2302, 2303, 2304, 2305, 2306, 2307, 2308, 2309, 2310, 2311, 2312, 2313, 2314, 2315, 2316, 2317, 2318, 2319, 2320, 2321, 2322, 2323, 2324, 2325, 2326, 2327, 2328, 2329, 2330, 2331, 2332, 2333, 2334, 2335, 2336, 2337, 2338, 2339, 2340, 2341, 2342, 2343, 2344, 2345, 2346, 2347, 2348, 2349, 2350, 2351, 2352, 2353, 2354, 2355, 2356, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, 2361, 2362, 2363, 2364, 2365, 2366, 2367, 2368, 2369, 2370, 2371, 2372, 2373, 2374, 2375, 2376, 2377, 2378, 2379, 2380, 2381, 2382, 2383, 2384, 2385, 2386, 2387, 2388, 2389, 2390, 2391, 2392, 2393, 2394, 2395, 2396, 2397, 2398, 2399, 2400, 2401, 2402, 2403, 2404, 2405, 2406, 2407, 2408, 2409, 2410, 2411, 2412, 2413, 2414, 2415, 2416, 2417, 2418, 2419, 2420, 2421, 2422, 2423, 2424, 2425, 2426, 2427, 2428, 2429, 2430, 2431, 2432, 2433, 2434, 2435, 2436, 2437, 2438, 2439, 2440, 2441, 2442, 2443, 2444, 2445, 2446, 2447, 2448, 2449, 2450, 2451, 2452, 2453, 2454, 2455, 2456, 2457, 2458, 2459, 2460, 2461, 2462, 2463, 2464, 2465, 2466, 2467, 2468, 2469, 2470, 2471, 2472, 2473, 2474, 2475, 2476, 2477, 2478, 2479, 2480, 2481, 2482, 2483, 2484, 2485, 2486, 2487, 2488, 2489, 2490, 2491, 2492, 2493, 2494, 2495, 2496, 2497, 2498, 2499, 2500, 2501, 2502, 2503, 2504, 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2509, 2510, 2511, 2512, 2513, 2514, 2515, 2516, 2517, 2518, 2519, 2520, 2521, 2522, 2523, 2524, 2525, 2526, 2527, 2528, 2529, 2530, 2531, 2532, 2533, 2534, 2535, 2536, 2537, 2538, 2539, 2540, 2541, 2542, 2543, 2544, 2545, 2546, 2547, 2548, 2549, 2550, 2551, 2552, 2553, 2554, 2555, 2556, 2557, 2558, 2559, 2560, 2561, 2562, 2563, 2564, 2565, 2566, 2567, 2568, 2569, 2570, 2571, 2572, 2573, 2574, 2575, 2576, 2577, 2578, 2579, 2580, 2581, 2582, 2583, 2584, 2585, 2586, 2587, 2588, 2589, 2590, 2591, 2592, 2593, 2594, 2595, 2596, 2597, 2598, 2599, 2600, 2601, 2602, 2603, 2604, 2605, 2606, 2607, 2608, 2609, 2610, 2611, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2615, 2616, 2617, 2618, 2619, 2620, 2621, 2622, 2623, 2624, 2625, 2626, 2627, 2628, 2629, 2630, 2631, 2632, 2633, 2634, 2635, 2636, 2637, 2638, 2639, 2640, 2641, 2642, 2643, 2644, 2645, 2646, 2647, 2648, 2649, 2650, 2651, 2652, 2653, 2654, 2655, 2656, 2657, 2658, 2659, 2660, 2661, 2662, 2663, 2664, 2665, 2666, 2667, 2668, 2669, 2670, 2671, 2672, 2673, 2674, 2675, 2676, 2677, 2678, 2679, 26

SPEEDWAY MOTORS

Trades on the AMAZING Volkswagen

Weekend Special

50 Chev. Tudor Sedan. A wonderful buy only $295

X X X

SMALL CARS

53 Hillman Californian. Black with red leather. $595

52 Morris Minor. New paint job. New tires. $450

50 Vanguard Sedan. New paint. $195

G.M. PRODUCTS

54 Chev. Tudor Sedan. Top condition throughout. $1095

51 Chev. Sedan. A nice family car. $595

56 Cadillac Sedan de Ville. Full power, low mileage. $3495

FORD PRODUCTS

54 Lincoln Capri Sedan. Full power. Clean throughout. $1895

55 Ford "Fairlane" Sedan. Tutone, Radio. $1295

54 Ford "Automatic" Sedan. A wonderful buy. $1095

Also a Very Good Selection of Older Model Cars at Reduced Prices

X X X

SPEEDWAY MOTORS

YOUR Volkswagen DEALER

Open Evenings Till 9

951 Yates EV 5-2415

K-M MOTORS

(Bonded Dealer) 950 YATES

Studebaker Lark

The Economy Car of the Year. See it - Test Drive It Today. Sedan. Hardtop. Wagon. Now Available

USED CAR SPECIALS

59 OLDS Super 88 Hardtop. Fully equipped, all power. $4499

59 OLDS ROADSTER. Custom 1950. 6,000 miles. $2299

58 CONSUL De Luxe Sedan. Black with whitewalls. One owner as new. Why pay more than $1899

57 KARMAN GHIA Sports Coupe. Black with whitewalls and custom radio. Real $1899

57 SUNBEAM RAPIER. Electric overdrive, low mileage, top tone. Excellent condition. Clean. See today at $1699

56 HILLMAN TUTONE HARDTOP. A very smart model, very clean condition. Special $1099

Many More To Choose From

Open Nights, EV 5-2822

MAYNARD'S CAR AUCTIONS

Guar. Results or No Comm.

125 JOHNSON EV 4-1821

1958 LINCOLN CAPRI TWO-DOOR. Hardtop. Full power. Very clean. GR 5-2824

1958 DODGE REGENT SEDAN. Excellent condition. 4 new tires. Can be seen at 1238 Faithful Street. EV 5-2824

1958 BUICK CENTURY. 1958 CHEV 2-Door. Both perfect condition. Will sell or trade for cash. EV 5-2824

100 CARS FOR SALE

VICTORIA DODGE-DE SOTO LIMITED

DODGE CHRYSLER

Dodge and Chrysler

VICTORIA'S CHRYSLER

ALSO Sales, Parts

SPECIAL

58 De Soto

4-DOOR HARDTOP. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. NEW CAR GUARANTEE. SAVE $1,700 AT $4699

59 Dodge

REGENT 4-DOOR. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $2599

57 Dodge

REGENT 4-DOOR. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1849

57 Dodge

MAYFAIR V-8 SEDAN. CONDITION. AIR. AUTOMATIC. TUNING. $2199

56 Dodge

"ROYAL LANCER" 3-DOOR. HARDTOP. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. $2399

56 Ford

CUSTOM V-8 SEDAN. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1499

54 Cadillac

1-DOOR HARDTOP. RADIO. CUSTOM AIR-CONDITIONER. DUAL DE LUXE POWER EQUIPMENT. $2699

55 Buick

"SPECIAL" 2-DOOR. HARDTOP. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. AND AUTOMATIC. $1899

IMPORT CARS

59 Simca

2-DOOR STATION WAGON. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1999

56 Austin

SEDAN. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1299

54 Austin

SEDAN. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $899

LOW COST

55 Plymouth

1-DOOR. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1199

54 Ford

BULLHORN. CUSTOM RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. $1499

53 Dodge

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. OVER-DRIVE. ETC. $999

53 Meteor

TUDOR. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $999

52 Chrysler

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. $699

50 Ford

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. OVER-DRIVE. $599

48 Chev

SEDAN. HEATER. $299

48 Pontiac

TUDOR. RADIO. HEATER. $149

NO TIME UNTIL 6-MONTH 30-DAY

1061 YATES EV 4-7197

FOR THE BEST DEALS IN TOWN

100 CARS FOR SALE

VICTORIA DODGE-DE SOTO DEALER FOR

DE SOTO PLYMOUTH

Fargo Trucks

COMPLETE DEALER

SIMCA and Service

SALE

58 Dodge

REGENT V-8 SEDAN. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. WHITEWALLS. 6,000 MILES. $2399

57 Dodge

REGENT 4-DOOR. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1749

57 Plymouth

SAVOY V-8 TUDOR. HARDTOP. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. TUNING. WHITEWALLS. $2299

56 Dodge

ROYAL SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. $2199

56 Meteor

TUDOR. RANGE WAGON. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. $2199

55 Meteor

TUDOR. RANGE WAGON. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. $1449

55 De Soto

1-DOOR SEDAN. CUSTOM RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. DUAL DE LUXE POWER EQUIPMENT. $2099

55 Buick

"CENTURY" 4-DOOR. HARDTOP. FULL POWER EQUIPMENT. $1999

FAMILY CARS

54 Plymouth

SAVOY. CONDITION. AIR. TUNING. $1199

53 Ford

1-DOOR. HARDTOP. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. $1299

52 Ford

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. $699

51 Pontiac

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. $549

50 De Soto

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. $699

48 Dodge

SEDAN. HEATER. $299

51 Pontiac

SEDAN. RADIO. ETC. $299

PAYMENTS SEPTEMBER WARRANTY EXCHANGE

1061 YATES EV 4-7197

FOR THE BEST DEALS IN TOWN

100 CARS FOR SALE

M-E-R-L-I-N WEEKEND SPECIALS

55 CHEVROLET

Sedan, blue, heater, turn signals. $1390

55 PONTIAC

2-Dr. green, heater, turn signals. $1120

50 PONTIAC

Coupe, black, heater, turn signals. Nice condition. $390

59 PLYMOUTH

Fury HT (new) V-8, automatic. Save hundreds of dollars. $3690

55 DODGE

Royal, automatic, radio, P-steering, p brakes. Today's Best Buy. $1290

LOW PRICE SPECIALS

47 Studebaker

sedan. $290

50 Studebaker

sedan. $390

53 Austin A 30

$390

51 Dodge Sedan. Top condition. $690

48 Chev. Sedan $245

51 Ford Sedan $395

MERLIN MOTORS

Pandora and Quadra EV 2-2111-5

1958 PONTIAC 4-DOOR SEDAN. B.S. EV 2-2111

1958 HILLMAN CONVERTIBLE. Best offer. EV 2-1218

CRAB'S AUTO SALES. CLOSED SUNDAYS

1958 AUSTIN. GOOD CONDITION. $275. EV 4-7208

1958 HILLMAN. A-1 CONDITION. $765 or nearest offer. GR 5-3112

1958 METROIDEAU TRITONE. auto. R. all new. seat covers, etc. At new. EV 6-2580

AUSTIN A40. '48. 27,500 miles. Nice condition. $275. EV 3-3373

Easy-to-Translate Paris Design - So Simple, So Striking, So Chic

PRINTED PATTERN M 185

Société des Modistes de France

The excitement of Paris is curved into every line of this blade-slim sheath that comes to you directly from the Société des Modistes de France. It has the clear-cut elegance American women love - and the low-plunge neckline that caused a trans-Atlantic sensation. For you who are more demure and less daring, our Printed Pattern includes an alternate version of the neckline. Although it's marvelously simple to sew, the French talent is very evident in the smart shaping of the shoulder, the adroit seaming of the bodice that rounds softly above a narrow midriff. Choose linen, faille, crepe, cotton, satin with braid or bias trim for your own exclusive translation of this Paris Original.

Printed Pattern M185 is available in misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 dress requires three yards 35-inch fabric; contrast binding 1/2 yard.

Send $1.00 for Printed Pattern M185 to The Daily Colonist, Pattern Department, 60 Front Street W., Toronto Ont. Please print plainly your name, address with zone, style number and size.

1061 YATES EV 4-7197

FOR THE BEST DEALS IN TOWN

100 CARS FOR SALE

OLSON MOTORS

THE BIG SWITCH IS NOW MADE PUBLIC

OUR JOB IS TO CLEAR THE DECKS NEW AND USED TERRIFIC SAVINGS

PLYMOUTH SEDAN. Two-tone. Heater, defroster, turn signals. Top condition. $1999

CHEV SEDAN. All custom including radio. $2499

VANGUARD ESTATE CAR. Show room class. $2399

EDISON SEDAN. Automatic. Full 6-pass comfort. Every extra. $1999

DODGE SEDAN. Choice model throughout. Full custom equipment. $1899

PLYMOUTH RANCH WAGON. Automatic, radio, lots of extras. $2599

PLYMOUTH 2-DOOR. de luxe, all custom. $1499

HILLMAN HARDTOP. Smart 1950-1951. A little jewel. $1099

Only at Olson's you receive a one year guarantee in writing plus all the facilities to back it up. Forty years of respectable merchandising on Yates Street.

55 BUICK HARDTOP. Automatic, radio. Beautiful car. $1999

FORD SEDAN. Nice condition. Top performance. $1299

DODGE SEDAN. Caran de luxe. Many extras. $1399

METRO SEDAN. Assured performance. $1099

OLDS SEDAN. Automatic. New paint. $1399

VANGUARD SEDAN. Very well cared for. $799

CHEV SEDAN. Far above average. $799

AUSTIN SEDAN. Smart. Guaranteed. $699

VANGUARD SEDAN. Full big performance. $747

PLYMOUTH SEDAN. De-luxe family unit. $747

CHEV SEDAN. Well kept. $797

PONTIAC SEDAN. Guaranteed satisfaction. $897

OLSON MOTORS

Wide Open 9.30 p.m.

Genuine Factory-Installed Refrigerated Air-Conditioning

Offers invited on this fully air-conditioned, powered, and automatic 1958 CADILLAC COUPE DE VILLE. Low mileage and perfect. Small trade considered, prefer cash. Call Bill Brown GR 5-4271 or Plymouths. EV 5-9121

1958 METROIDEAU TRITONE. auto. R. all new. seat covers, etc. At new. EV 6-2580

AUSTIN A40. '48. 27,500 miles. Nice condition. $275. EV 3-3373

53 FORD

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. $699

52 FORD

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. $699

51 PONTIAC

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. $549

50 DE SOTO

SEDAN. RADIO. HEATER. AUTOMATIC. $699

48 DODGE

SEDAN. HEATER. $299

51 PONTIAC

SEDAN. RADIO. ETC. $299

PAYMENTS SEPTEMBER WARRANTY EXCHANGE

1061 YATES EV 4-7197

FOR THE BEST DEALS IN TOWN

100 CARS FOR SALE

TELMAC SMALL CARS

Exclusive Credit Arrangements

NO MONEY DOWN CREDIT TERMS AVAILABLE UP TO 36 MONTHS TO PAY

Budget-minded purchasers will find terms offered by Telmac that entirely eliminate the down-payment obstacle. Low, convenient monthly payments are all that is necessary for a fine Telmac small car, regardless of your immediate financial circumstances.

1958 VAUXHALL VICTOR SEDAN. Radio, heater, overdrive. V-8. 11,000 miles. $1,645

1958 OXFORD CITY WAGON. Excellent throughout. $1,345

1958 VOLKSWAGEN SEDAN. So, it's in condition. $1,245

1958 METRO CONVERTIBLE. Radio, heater, automatic. $1,000

1958 CONSUL SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 STANDARD SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 OXFORD CONVERTIBLE. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

1958 HILLMAN SEDAN. Radio, heater, automatic. $845

Announcement
Kit Manufacturing Co.
Is Pleased to Appear
Triangle Trailer Sales Ltd.
As their Vancouver Island dealer for Kit "Golden State" and "State-liner" mobile homes.

ON DISPLAY NOW
Is the model RV Stateliner for 1969, truly a de luxe 2-bedroom 19' wide mobile home. Features front porch, large living room, dining room, kitchen, bathroom, and bedroom. Full size refrigerator, electric stove, and built-in oven. Full size bath, shower, and toilet. Full size bed, dresser, and chest of drawers. Full size living room, sofa, and chair. Full size dining room, table, and chairs. Full size kitchen, sink, and stove. Full size bathroom, tub, and toilet. Full size bedroom, bed, and dresser. Full size living room, sofa, and chair. Full size dining room, table, and chairs. Full size kitchen, sink, and stove. Full size bathroom, tub, and toilet. Full size bedroom, bed, and dresser.

"KIT STATELINER"
Can be had in contemporary or provincial interior. Included in our price is an automatic water heater, which is optional. All for the low price of $7995

SEE NOW AT
TRIANGLE TRAILER SALES
1/2 mile north on Highway 1
GR 5-292, res. EV 4-646

LOOKING FOR A MOBILE HOME?
SEE THE VERY BEST IN QUALITY AND PRICE
NEW ROLLOHOMES

Now in stock, 42'x12' 2-bedroom mobile home, 13 cu. ft. fridge and freezer, built-in oven, sink, and full size bath. This one is a must to see. 42'x12' with front kitchen, carpeted living room, copper and stainless steel kitchen, 2-bedroom with 12'x12' bathroom, raised roof.

All "Dream Homes" are ROLLOHOME USED
42'x12' Glendale (1956) 2-bedroom perfect condition. Priced to sell. EV 4-646, res. EV 4-646.

TOTE-EM TRAILER SALES
8 Miles North on Highway No. 1
EV 4-646, res. EV 4-646.

TRIANGLE TRAILER SALES LTD.
Vancouver Island Dealer
LEISUREHOMES, NASHUA
Mobile homes 10' and 12' wide. New and used.
Also stocking 21' Vacation Trailers.
1/2 mile north on Highway 1
Phone GR 5-292; res. EV 4-646.

HERE NOW
15' SIESTA TRAILERS
Full 12' inside. Sleeps 6
R. W. DAWSON LTD.
EV 3-647, 317 Douglas St.

HOUSE TRAILER AND PATIO
eatings, Jeanne Bros. EV 5-731.

112 CARS AND TRUCKS WANTED
SMALL CARS
Purchased for Cash or Gold or Commission 5%
TELMAC MOTOR MARKET, 844 Port
CARS WANTED FOR CASH AT ENSIGN MOTORS
3017 Quadra EV 5-613

WANTED
Cash for Cars at
QUADRA AUTO SALES
811 Yates St. Phone EV 5-987

CASH FOR CARS AT ART'S
BURNBURN & HARRIS EV 5-988

115 MOVING AND HAULING
THE HERTZ IDEA
Cut Moving Costs 1/2
Clean, modern trucks - all fuelled and insured by Hertz. You drive them. No parking tickets or no longer. Double, triple, quadruple.

HERTZ RENT-A-CAR
801 Douglas, EV 4-421, EV 4-511

YOU-DRIVE TRUCKS
Pickups, vans, 1 and 2-ton moving vans with ramps and rear doors. Frigate, dolly, and car. Double, triple, quadruple. Only personal delivery license required.

AVIS RENTS ALL
Types of Cars and Trucks
800 Douglas St. EV 5-3131

MOVING, PACKING, LOCAL long distance. Reasonable rates. Day or night. EV 2-664.

116 HOTELS
Ritz Hotel, 710 Fort St.
FURNISHED APARTMENTS AND ROOMS - EV 5-919
Elevator Service Permanent Transient

BEVERLEY HOTEL
In city centre. Hot water, rates. Transient and permanent guests. 721 Yates. Phone EV 4-611.

THE GLENHILL, 608 DOUGLAS
A residential hotel providing every comfort for the discerning guest. EV 4-616.

117 COTTAGES AND CAMPSITES
FOR RENT - FURNISHED 3-BEDROOM house on warm site beach. 2 1/2 miles south of Parksville. Available Aug. 1st. 1200 Dallas. EV 5-382.

COTTAGE, SHAWINIGAN LAKE
Furnished and private. Call 830. 1200 Dallas. EV 5-382.

HOUSE TRAILER FOR RENT
at Parksville, July 25th, August 2nd and on. EV 5-238.

118 VACATION GUIDE AND SUMMER RESORTS
MODERN CABINS, NICK'S ISLAND
View Beach Resort. GR 4-161.

120 ROOM AND BOARD
SHAWINIGAN LAKE
Board and room. Ladies and gentlemen. Weekly or monthly. Reasonable rates. Call 830. 1200 Dallas. EV 5-382.

AVAILABLE TO WORKING MEN
A complete home life. Reasonable rates. Call 830. 1200 Dallas. EV 5-382.

ROOM AND BOARD NEAR
Parliament Buildings. EV 4-446.

120 ROOM AND BOARD

EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATION, young men only. All conveniences. 15 rooms. From $10.00 weekly. 1200 Dallas. EV 5-382.

PRIVATE HOME WITH WATERFRONT view, in best home, for elderly lady. EV 4-616.

WILL BOARD MOTHER AND CHILD or single girl. Equim. EV 5-691.

GOOD MEALS, HOME PRIVILEGES, TV, single or double. Phone EV 5-691.

EXCELLENT ROOM AND BOARD, good location. Attractive home. Parking. TV. EV 4-446.

PLEASANT UPSTAIRS ROOM with board and care. Near bus. EV 4-616.

ROOM AND BOARD FOR 1 OR 2. Private bath and entrance. Twin beds. EV 5-382.

PRIVATE HOME FOR WORKING men. 1215 Locust, Esquimalt. Ph. EV 5-691.

VIEW APARTMENTS, 1046 VIEW ST. 1 block from city centre. Available Aug. 1st. EV 4-616.

COMFORTABLE ROOM AND BOARD. Central. Make. 826 Queens. EV 5-382.

NICE ROOM, GOOD BOARD. In private home. Phone EV 5-382.

ROOM AND BOARD FOR MEN. 1048 Princess. EV 5-382.

ROOM AND BOARD. WORKING young men. EV 4-616.

ROOM AND BOARD. EV 4-616.

121 ROOMS TO RENT
LOVELY MODERN ROOMS with fireplace, hot and cold water. Phone EV 5-613.

VISITORS! QUIET SLEEPING ROOM. 1215 Locust. EV 5-691.

VISITORS WELCOME! DAY, week, or month. 1215 Locust. EV 5-691.

COZY SLEEPING ROOM. TOURISTS. EV 5-691.

FOR 6 RETURN AND SMALL OUTLAY. USE CLASSIFIED ADS.

FURNISHED SLEEPING ROOM. Near bus. EV 5-691.

CLEAN SLEEPING ROOMS. All supplied. 826 Queens. EV 5-382.

SLEEPING ROOM. BREAKFAST optional. EV 4-616.

125 HOUSEKEEPING ROOMS TO RENT
AVAILABLE IN 1 WEEK, LARGE house fully furnished outside room. 826 Queens. EV 5-382.

NEAR BEACON HILL PARK. Newly furnished bed-sitting. Sink, stove, refrigerator, built-in oven. EV 5-691.

UNFURNISHED FLAT. Gentleman. 1215 Locust. EV 5-691.

ROOM. ELECTRIC COOKING. Near bus. EV 5-691.

ESQUIMALT NEAR BOLLERMAN. Large, large front bedroom. 1215 Locust. EV 5-691.

TOURISTS - NICE ROOMS. Or suites with fully equipped kitchen at the Oakcrest, 1215 Hillside. Ph. EV 5-691.

FURNISHED ROOM. SINK, CUPBOARD, electric cooler. Close in. Middle aged lady. Abitainers. Ph. EV 5-691.

129 FLATS AND APTS. TO RENT UNFURNISHED

BROWN BROS. RENTALS
1125 Blanshard St. EV 4-771
After hours, Mr. Brown, EV 4-312

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM. 1125-BLANSHARD ST. 2-BEDROOM.

129 FLATS AND APTS. TO RENT UNFURNISHED

REGENCY APTS.
FORT AND LEE STS.
ONE BLOCK FROM JUBILEE HOSPITAL

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

MODERN ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM SUITES WITH TWO-BEDROOM LIVING ROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN, BATH, AND BEDROOM. FULLY FURNISHED. EV 4-616.

129 FLATS AND APTS. TO RENT UNFURNISHED

OAK BAY
PANORAMIC SEA VIEWS
SPACIOUS KITCHENS
2-BEDROOM SUITES
1125 BLANSHARD ST. EV 4-771

THE ROYAL NEWPORT
1418-1420 NEWPORT AVENUE
EV 4-771

B.C. LAND RENTALS
613-615-617-619-621-623-625-627-629-631-633-635-637-639-641-643-645-647-649-651-653-655-657-659-661-663-665-667-669-671-673-675-677-679-681-683-685-687-689-691-693-695-697-699-701-703-705-707-709-711-713-715-717-719-721-723-725-727-729-731-733-735-737-739-741-743-745-747-749-751-753-755-757-759-761-763-765-767-769-771-773-775-777-779-781-783-785-787-789-791-793-795-797-799-801-803-805-807-809-811-813-815-817-819-821-823-825-827-829-831-833-835-837-839-841-843-845-847-849-851-853-855-857-859-861-863-865-867-869-871-873-875-877-879-881-883-885-887-889-891-893-895-897-899-901-903-905-907-909-911-913-915-917-919-921-923-925-927-929-931-933-935-937-939-941-943-945-947-949-951-953-955-957-959-961-963-965-967-969-971-973-975-977-979-981-983-985-987-989-991-993-995-997-999-1001-1003-1005-1007-1009-1011-1013-1015-1017-1019-1021-1023-1025-1027-1029-1031-1033-1035-1037-1039-1041-1043-1045-1047-1049-1051-1053-1055-1057-1059-1061-1063-1065-1067-1069-1071-1073-1075-1077-1079-1081-1083-1085-1087-1089-1091-1093-1095-1097-1099-1101-1103-1105-1107-1109-1111-1113-1115-1117-1119-1121-1123-1125-1127-1129-1131-1133-1135-1137-1139-1141-1143-1145-1147-1149-1151-1153-1155-1157-1159-1161-1163-1165-1167-1169-1171-1173-1175-1177-1179-1181-1183-1185-1187-1189-1191-1193-1195-1197-1199-1201-1203-1205-1207-1209-1211-1213-1215-1217-1219-1221-1223-1225-1227-1229-1231-1233-1235-1237-1239-1241-1243-1245-1247-1249-1251-1253-1255-1257-1259-1261-1263-1265-1267-1269-1271-1273-1275-1277-1279-1281-1283-1285-1287-1289-1291-1293-1295-1297-1299-1301-1303-1305-1307-1309-1311-1313-1315-1317-1319-1321-1323-1325-1327-1329-1331-1333-1335-1337-1339-1341-1343-1345-1347-1349-1351-1353-1355-1357-1359-1361-1363-1365-1367-1369-1371-1373-1375-1377-1379-1381-1383-1385-1387-1389-1391-1393-1395-1397-1399-1401-1403-1405-1407-1409-1411-1413-1415-1417-1419-1421-1423-1425-1427-1429-1431-1433-1435-1437-1439-1441-1443-1445-1447-1449-1451-1453-1455-1457-1459-1461-1463-1465-1467-1469-1471-1473-1475-1477-1479-1481-1483-1485-1487-1489-1491-1493-1495-1497-1499-1501-1503-1505-1507-1509-1511-1513-1515-1517-1519-1521-1523-1525-1527-1529-1531-1533-1535-1537-1539-1541-1543-1545-1547-1549-1551-1553-1555-1557-1559-1561-1563-1565-1567-1569-1571-1573-1575-1577-1579-1581-1583-1585-1587-1589-1591-1593-1595-1597-1599-1601-1603-1605-1607-1609-1611-1613-1615-1617-1619-1621-1623-1625-1627-1629-1631-1633-1635-1637-1639-1641-1643-1645-1647-1649-1651-1653-1655-1657-1659-1661-1663-1665-1667-1669-1671-1673-1675-1677-1679-1681-1683-1685-1687-1689-1691-1693-1695-

Northwestern

SECURITIES OF VICTORIA LTD.
801 YATES AT BROAD EV 5-4761

OPEN HOUSE
TUESDAY, JULY 21
2-5 AND 7-9 P.M.
1271 MONTEREY AVE.

All properties have SOME-THING in them. Some have properties have MOST things in them. This property has
ALL things in it.
1. LOCATION: Best in the area.
2. SECLUSION: You said it.
3. CONSTRUCTION: A 1-
1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
4. FINANCING: The most favourable terms in the area.
5. PRICE: This house could
be sold for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"27 ACRES"
ULTRA-MODERN 4-BEDROOM home, 1 BATHROOM, O.O.M.
KITCHEN, built-in refrigerator, freezer. This house could be replaced for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MINIATURE ESTATE"
Oak woodland estate of 1 acre overlooking the sea. Luxurious home with 2 bedrooms that would be the heart of a household. Beautiful garden with lawn, shrubs, and trees.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DEEP-FREEZE SPECIAL"
Stock your deep freeze and save money the year round.
This house has a built-in refrigerator, built-in freezer, and a built-in electric range.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"TRADE OR SELL"
Here is a fine older 1-1/2 story home with about 1 acre of property. Suitable for a family home or revenue property. Call for details.
Only $13,950. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"DO NOT OBTAIN"
You find an owner-built house of superior construction, fully insulated, in spotless condition. Call for details.
Only $12,200. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"$1000 DOWN"
One thousand dollars buys you a 1-1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft.
house. Call for details. Only $11,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"EQUITY EXCHANGE PLAN"
Why put up with an unsuitable home? The Equity Exchange Plan is designed to release your "equity" from your present property and use it to buy a new home. Call for details. Only $11,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"TO YOUR BENEFIT"
Close to a parking lot,
1-1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WHAT HAPPENED"
THIS HOME IS STILL ON THE MARKET. HAVE YOU
SEEN IT YET? LET'S GO
TODAY. 2 bedrooms, 1 bath, lovely large kitchen, living room with fireplace, central heating. Call for details.
Only $11,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with 1-1/2 bathrooms, call for details. Only $11,500. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"BARGAIN SPECIAL"
2 bedrooms, 2nd and 3rd
bathrooms, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

Northwestern

SECURITIES OF VICTORIA LTD.
801 YATES AT BROAD EV 5-4761

"THIS HOUSE"
On Cook Street, close to town,
is a home with many interesting possibilities.
1. LOCATION: Best in the
area.
2. SECLUSION: You said it.
3. CONSTRUCTION: A 1-
1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
4. FINANCING: The most
favourable terms in the area.
5. PRICE: This house could
be sold for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"HOME FOR TWO"
A perfect smaller home for a couple. This is a 1-1/2 story house with 1 bedroom and 1
bathroom. Call for details.
Only $7,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"1440 GLADSTONE AVE"
Want a large 6-room house
with 2 bathrooms, 1440 sq. ft.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"I AM SORRY"
I could not accommodate all the
folks at my open house on Eastside. However, I have two more homes
in that area. Both have a rundown exterior but they are very desirable. Call for details. Only
$15,000. Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DESPERATE"
$10,000 down, $50 per month.
This is a 1-1/2 story house with
1 bedroom and 1 bathroom. Call for details. Only $10,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"ESQUIMALT"
3 bedrooms, 1 bathroom, 1000
sq. ft. house. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient
location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"CABROBAY"
See View Lot
Not many new homes left
in this area. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STRETCH VALUES"
4 rms., full basement, drive-in garage. New full furnace, spare room. Fully insulated. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"SEE 1059 PENTRELEW P.L.C."
If you like the exterior please
call Cliff Stretch EV 5-4761 and
he will show you the interior
and take your offer.

"LUXURY HOME"
ROCKLAND AREA. 3 bedrooms,
living room, dining room, kitchen,
bath, and a full basement. Call
for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WATERFRONT 2000 SQUARE FEET"
An exclusive listing
Enjoying one of the finest locations
in the city and assured complete
privacy, we offer this estate-type home. Designed by an architect,
this home is a masterpiece of modern architecture. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with 1-1/2 bathrooms, call for details. Only $11,500. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"BARGAIN SPECIAL"
2 bedrooms, 2nd and 3rd
bathrooms, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

PEMBERTON HOLMES, Ltd

ESTABLISHED 1887
1002 GOVERNMENT EV 4-1216

"YOUR OWN PRIVATE BEACH"
600' SEA FRONTAGE ON THE ISLAND'S WARMEST WATERS -
SAATCHI INLET.
The terms of sale of this property are such that you can have your own private beach. The house is a characteristic of the island's architecture. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"HIGH QUADRA NEXT TO THE GOLF COURSE"
This attractive bungalow has a high location with a commanding view of the golf course. The house is a character of the island's architecture. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"1440 GLADSTONE AVE"
Want a large 6-room house
with 2 bathrooms, 1440 sq. ft.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"I AM SORRY"
I could not accommodate all the
folks at my open house on Eastside. However, I have two more homes
in that area. Both have a rundown exterior but they are very desirable. Call for details. Only
$15,000. Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DESPERATE"
$10,000 down, $50 per month.
This is a 1-1/2 story house with
1 bedroom and 1 bathroom. Call for details. Only $10,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"ESQUIMALT"
3 bedrooms, 1 bathroom, 1000
sq. ft. house. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient
location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"CABROBAY"
See View Lot
Not many new homes left
in this area. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STRETCH VALUES"
4 rms., full basement, drive-in garage. New full furnace, spare room. Fully insulated. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"SEE 1059 PENTRELEW P.L.C."
If you like the exterior please
call Cliff Stretch EV 5-4761 and
he will show you the interior
and take your offer.

"LUXURY HOME"
ROCKLAND AREA. 3 bedrooms,
living room, dining room, kitchen,
bath, and a full basement. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WATERFRONT 2000 SQUARE FEET"
An exclusive listing
Enjoying one of the finest locations
in the city and assured complete
privacy, we offer this estate-type
home. Designed by an architect,
this home is a masterpiece of
modern architecture. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with 1-1/2 bathrooms, call for details. Only $11,500. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"BARGAIN SPECIAL"
2 bedrooms, 2nd and 3rd
bathrooms, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

150 HOUSES FOR SALE

SECURITIES OF VICTORIA LTD.
801 YATES AT BROAD EV 5-4761

"THIS HOUSE"
On Cook Street, close to town,
is a home with many interesting possibilities.
1. LOCATION: Best in the
area.
2. SECLUSION: You said it.
3. CONSTRUCTION: A 1-
1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
4. FINANCING: The most
favourable terms in the area.
5. PRICE: This house could
be sold for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"HOME FOR TWO"
A perfect smaller home for a couple. This is a 1-1/2 story house with 1 bedroom and 1
bathroom. Call for details.
Only $7,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"1440 GLADSTONE AVE"
Want a large 6-room house
with 2 bathrooms, 1440 sq. ft.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"I AM SORRY"
I could not accommodate all the
folks at my open house on Eastside. However, I have two more homes
in that area. Both have a rundown exterior but they are very desirable. Call for details. Only
$15,000. Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DESPERATE"
$10,000 down, $50 per month.
This is a 1-1/2 story house with
1 bedroom and 1 bathroom. Call for details. Only $10,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"ESQUIMALT"
3 bedrooms, 1 bathroom, 1000
sq. ft. house. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient
location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"CABROBAY"
See View Lot
Not many new homes left
in this area. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STRETCH VALUES"
4 rms., full basement, drive-in garage. New full furnace, spare room. Fully insulated. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"SEE 1059 PENTRELEW P.L.C."
If you like the exterior please
call Cliff Stretch EV 5-4761 and
he will show you the interior
and take your offer.

"LUXURY HOME"
ROCKLAND AREA. 3 bedrooms,
living room, dining room, kitchen,
bath, and a full basement. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WATERFRONT 2000 SQUARE FEET"
An exclusive listing
Enjoying one of the finest locations
in the city and assured complete
privacy, we offer this estate-type
home. Designed by an architect,
this home is a masterpiece of
modern architecture. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with 1-1/2 bathrooms, call for details. Only $11,500. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"BARGAIN SPECIAL"
2 bedrooms, 2nd and 3rd
bathrooms, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

150 HOUSES FOR SALE

SECURITIES OF VICTORIA LTD.
801 YATES AT BROAD EV 5-4761

"THIS HOUSE"
On Cook Street, close to town,
is a home with many interesting possibilities.
1. LOCATION: Best in the
area.
2. SECLUSION: You said it.
3. CONSTRUCTION: A 1-
1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
4. FINANCING: The most
favourable terms in the area.
5. PRICE: This house could
be sold for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"HOME FOR TWO"
A perfect smaller home for a couple. This is a 1-1/2 story house with 1 bedroom and 1
bathroom. Call for details.
Only $7,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"1440 GLADSTONE AVE"
Want a large 6-room house
with 2 bathrooms, 1440 sq. ft.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"I AM SORRY"
I could not accommodate all the
folks at my open house on Eastside. However, I have two more homes
in that area. Both have a rundown exterior but they are very desirable. Call for details. Only
$15,000. Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DESPERATE"
$10,000 down, $50 per month.
This is a 1-1/2 story house with
1 bedroom and 1 bathroom. Call for details. Only $10,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"ESQUIMALT"
3 bedrooms, 1 bathroom, 1000
sq. ft. house. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient
location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"CABROBAY"
See View Lot
Not many new homes left
in this area. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STRETCH VALUES"
4 rms., full basement, drive-in garage. New full furnace, spare room. Fully insulated. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"SEE 1059 PENTRELEW P.L.C."
If you like the exterior please
call Cliff Stretch EV 5-4761 and
he will show you the interior
and take your offer.

"LUXURY HOME"
ROCKLAND AREA. 3 bedrooms,
living room, dining room, kitchen,
bath, and a full basement. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WATERFRONT 2000 SQUARE FEET"
An exclusive listing
Enjoying one of the finest locations
in the city and assured complete
privacy, we offer this estate-type
home. Designed by an architect,
this home is a masterpiece of
modern architecture. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with 1-1/2 bathrooms, call for details. Only $11,500. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"BARGAIN SPECIAL"
2 bedrooms, 2nd and 3rd
bathrooms, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

150 HOUSES FOR SALE

SECURITIES OF VICTORIA LTD.
801 YATES AT BROAD EV 5-4761

"THIS HOUSE"
On Cook Street, close to town,
is a home with many interesting possibilities.
1. LOCATION: Best in the
area.
2. SECLUSION: You said it.
3. CONSTRUCTION: A 1-
1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
4. FINANCING: The most favourable terms in the area.
5. PRICE: This house could
be sold for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"HOME FOR TWO"
A perfect smaller home for a couple. This is a 1-1/2 story house with 1 bedroom and 1
bathroom. Call for details.
Only $7,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"1440 GLADSTONE AVE"
Want a large 6-room house
with 2 bathrooms, 1440 sq. ft.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"I AM SORRY"
I could not accommodate all the
folks at my open house on Eastside. However, I have two more homes
in that area. Both have a rundown exterior but they are very desirable. Call for details. Only
$15,000. Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DESPERATE"
$10,000 down, $50 per month.
This is a 1-1/2 story house with
1 bedroom and 1 bathroom. Call for details. Only $10,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"ESQUIMALT"
3 bedrooms, 1 bathroom, 1000
sq. ft. house. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient
location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"CABROBAY"
See View Lot
Not many new homes left
in this area. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STRETCH VALUES"
4 rms., full basement, drive-in garage. New full furnace, spare room. Fully insulated. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"SEE 1059 PENTRELEW P.L.C."
If you like the exterior please
call Cliff Stretch EV 5-4761 and
he will show you the interior
and take your offer.

"LUXURY HOME"
ROCKLAND AREA. 3 bedrooms,
living room, dining room, kitchen,
bath, and a full basement. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WATERFRONT 2000 SQUARE FEET"
An exclusive listing
Enjoying one of the finest locations
in the city and assured complete
privacy, we offer this estate-type
home. Designed by an architect,
this home is a masterpiece of
modern architecture. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with 1-1/2 bathrooms, call for details. Only $11,500. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"BARGAIN SPECIAL"
2 bedrooms, 2nd and 3rd
bathrooms, 1000 sq. ft. house.
Call for details. Only $11,500.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

150 HOUSES FOR SALE

SECURITIES OF VICTORIA LTD.
801 YATES AT BROAD EV 5-4761

"THIS HOUSE"
On Cook Street, close to town,
is a home with many interesting possibilities.
1. LOCATION: Best in the
area.
2. SECLUSION: You said it.
3. CONSTRUCTION: A 1-
1/2 story, 1000 sq. ft. house.
4. FINANCING: The most favourable terms in the area.
5. PRICE: This house could
be sold for $10,000 today.
Only $7,500. Call for details.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"HOME FOR TWO"
A perfect smaller home for a couple. This is a 1-1/2 story house with 1 bedroom and 1
bathroom. Call for details.
Only $7,500. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"1440 GLADSTONE AVE"
Want a large 6-room house
with 2 bathrooms, 1440 sq. ft.
Call for details. Only $15,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"I AM SORRY"
I could not accommodate all the
folks at my open house on Eastside. However, I have two more homes
in that area. Both have a rundown exterior but they are very desirable. Call for details. Only
$15,000. Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"DESPERATE"
$10,000 down, $50 per month.
This is a 1-1/2 story house with
1 bedroom and 1 bathroom. Call for details. Only $10,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"ESQUIMALT"
3 bedrooms, 1 bathroom, 1000
sq. ft. house. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STOP LOOKING AND LISTEN"
Older-type home in good,
livable condition. Convenient
location. Full price $14,000.
Call for details. Only $14,000.
Call MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"CABROBAY"
See View Lot
Not many new homes left
in this area. Call for details.
Only $15,000. Call MRS. NIXON,
EV 5-4761.

"STRETCH VALUES"
4 rms., full basement, drive-in garage. New full furnace, spare room. Fully insulated. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"SEE 1059 PENTRELEW P.L.C."
If you like the exterior please
call Cliff Stretch EV 5-4761 and
he will show you the interior
and take your offer.

"LUXURY HOME"
ROCKLAND AREA. 3 bedrooms,
living room, dining room, kitchen,
bath, and a full basement. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"WATERFRONT 2000 SQUARE FEET"
An exclusive listing
Enjoying one of the finest locations
in the city and assured complete
privacy, we offer this estate-type
home. Designed by an architect,
this home is a masterpiece of
modern architecture. Call for details. Only $15,000. Call
MRS. NIXON, EV 5-4761.

"MUST SELL BARGAIN"
If you are looking for an immaculate 1-1/2 story home
with

Canada's Atomic Program Called 'Pretty Small Effort'

WASHINGTON (CP) — A former member of the five-man United States Atomic Energy Commission feels that Canada's atomic energy program "is a pretty small effort."

"I think they could have done a better job," said Dr. Willard Libby in testimony before the joint congressional committee on atomic energy.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
In the Matter of the Estate of Mildred Edith Lewis Williams, late of Victoria, British Columbia, who died at Victoria, B.C., on the 26th day of May, 1959.

CREDITORS and others having claims against the above Estate are required to send full particulars of such claims to The Canada Permanent Trust Company, 714 Fort Street (P.O. Box 1229), Victoria, B.C., on or before the 26th day of August, 1959, after which date the estate's assets will be distributed, having regard only to claims of which the executors shall have received notice.

DATED at Victoria, British Columbia, this 26th day of June, 1959.

THE CANADA PERMANENT TRUST COMPANY,
714 Fort Street (P.O. Box 1229),
Victoria, B.C.

By their Solicitors:
Cameron & Cameron,
311 Royal Street Place,
Victoria, B.C.

LAND REGISTRY ACT
Section 161
In the matter of TEMPLE STAN-
NAGE BOYLE and FLORENCE STAN-NAGE BOYLE, Certificate of Title 25272-1, and Lot 26, Block "A," Section 22, Victoria District, Plan 1959.

Proof having been filed in my office of the loss of said Certificate, I hereby give notice of my intention, at the expiration of one calendar month from the first publication of this notice, to issue a new Certificate of Title in lieu of such lost Certificate.

Any person having information with reference to such lost Certificate is requested to communicate with the undersigned.

Dated this 16th day of June, 1959, at the Land Registry Office, Victoria, B.C.

J. V. DICASTRI,
Registrar,
Victoria Land
Registration District.

"Companies Act"
SIDNEY LUMBER LIMITED
NOTICE is hereby given that, pursuant to Section 223 of the "Companies Act," a meeting of the creditors of Sidney Lumber Limited (In Voluntary Liquidation) will be held at Room 808, 1405 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C., at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, on Wednesday, 25th July, 1959.

Dated this 16th day of July, 1959.

F. S. WATT, C.A., Liquidator.

School District No. 62 (Sooke)
Offers, in the form of sealed tenders, are invited for the purchase of the following school sites owned by the Board of School Trustees of School District No. 62 (Sooke):

Goldstream Site:
Parcel "A" of Section 27, Goldstream District, 5 acre more or less. There are no buildings on this property.

Other School Sites:
Lot 1, Plan 2682, Otter District, containing 1 acre more or less, is the old Otter Point school site and a building approximately 24 feet by 36 feet is on the property.

"Purchase of Property"
Tenders, marked "Purchase of Property" and to be forwarded to the undersigned and will close at 5:00 p.m. on August 11, 1959.

The highest of any tender not necessarily accepted.

L. W. WHEELDON,
Secretary-Treasurer,
School District No. 62 (Sooke),
2223 Sooke Road,
Victoria, B.C.

LUNDS
Fine
AUCTION
TUESDAY, 7.30 P.M.
One-Owner
DE LUKE CAR
Instructed by Mr. B. Bowden
1957 DODGE
CUSTOM ROYAL
Fully power equipped including window cranks, exhausts, etc. Only 6,800 original miles.
On view from 9 a.m. Monday

EXPENSIVE FURNISHINGS
DE LUKE APPLIANCES
From Ten Mile Point and Uplands homes.
French Provincial
Love Seat and Chair
(Cost over $400)
Chesterfield Suites, Occasional Tables, Table Lamps,
Victorian
Occasional Chairs
16-Piece Jacobean Style
Oak Dining Suite
Complete with small attractive
Welsh Dresser, 8 Cane-back
and Seated Chairs, (2 Carvers)
and Drop-leaf Table.
Two Duncan Phyfe Style
Dinette Suites
"Mr. & Mrs." Bedroom Suite
Twin and Single Continental
Beds, Walnut Bedroom Suites,
Chests of Drawers, Dressers,
etc.
Fine Quality.
Victorian Alexander Carpet
25'x11.6 - Green - Made in Scotland
Other Rugs
TV Sets
Six New and Late Model
Refrigerators
Two "Domestic" Anart. Refrigerators, Appliance Electric Ranges, Garbage Burners (one
with oil), etc.
Adding Machine
(Cost over $200)
Electric Guitar
Banjo, Drums, as new Vacuum
Cleaners, Bells of New Inland
Line, new Door Locks, Fishing
Rod, 7x30 and 10x35 Binoculars, China, Glass, etc.
This attractive sale on view
from 9:00 a.m. Monday

LUNDS
Fine
AUCTION
TUESDAY, 7.30 P.M.
One-Owner
DE LUKE CAR
Instructed by Mr. B. Bowden
1957 DODGE
CUSTOM ROYAL
Fully power equipped including window cranks, exhausts, etc. Only 6,800 original miles.
On view from 9 a.m. Monday

EXPENSIVE FURNISHINGS
DE LUKE APPLIANCES
From Ten Mile Point and Uplands homes.
French Provincial
Love Seat and Chair
(Cost over $400)
Chesterfield Suites, Occasional Tables, Table Lamps,
Victorian
Occasional Chairs
16-Piece Jacobean Style
Oak Dining Suite
Complete with small attractive
Welsh Dresser, 8 Cane-back
and Seated Chairs, (2 Carvers)
and Drop-leaf Table.
Two Duncan Phyfe Style
Dinette Suites
"Mr. & Mrs." Bedroom Suite
Twin and Single Continental
Beds, Walnut Bedroom Suites,
Chests of Drawers, Dressers,
etc.
Fine Quality.
Victorian Alexander Carpet
25'x11.6 - Green - Made in Scotland
Other Rugs
TV Sets
Six New and Late Model
Refrigerators
Two "Domestic" Anart. Refrigerators, Appliance Electric Ranges, Garbage Burners (one
with oil), etc.
Adding Machine
(Cost over $200)
Electric Guitar
Banjo, Drums, as new Vacuum
Cleaners, Bells of New Inland
Line, new Door Locks, Fishing
Rod, 7x30 and 10x35 Binoculars, China, Glass, etc.
This attractive sale on view
from 9:00 a.m. Monday

LUNDS
Fine
AUCTION
TUESDAY, 7.30 P.M.
One-Owner
DE LUKE CAR
Instructed by Mr. B. Bowden
1957 DODGE
CUSTOM ROYAL
Fully power equipped including window cranks, exhausts, etc. Only 6,800 original miles.
On view from 9 a.m. Monday

Dr. Libby resigned recently as commission member. President Eisenhower has nominated Canadian-born John Williams, the commission's research director, to succeed him.

Libby said in his testimony: "The situation is roughly this. They, the Canadians, are trying to develop a heavy water moderated natural uranium type of power reactor. They are really quite in the early stages of that and just now talking about building a prototype and so on."

"It is a pretty small effort, frankly. I think it is a good quality effort. We are joining with them now and trying to co-operate in the heavy water work."

Dr. Libby's testimony, included in a committee's report of hearings held last month, followed criticism of Canada's military atomic effort by committee member Senator Henry Dworshak, Idaho Republican.

EXCHANGE FACTS
The committee was studying seven U.S. nuclear pacts with Canada and other North Atlantic partners to allow the U.S. to transfer to these countries certain non-weapon nuclear information and equipment.

Senator Dworshak said that the U.S. had purchased hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of Canadian uranium and wondered whether Canada was putting some of these earnings into military atomic development.

"It seems very peculiar to me if Canada has been dragging her feet intentionally," he said.

Canadian Order Made Viscount Air Success Story

WEYBRIDGE, England (CP) — The mile-long production lines which have turned out more than 400 Viscount airliners are easing to a halt. The Viscount, as far as advance orders are concerned, has become obsolete.

When production of the four-engine, turbo-prop airliner stops with the 416th plane it will put the finishing touches on the greatest success story in Britain's long and varied history of civil aviation.

But the aircraft itself is by no means finished. The Viscount, front-line plane for 41 airlines in 33 countries, will be around for many years yet. Fifty of the aircraft are in service with Trans-Canada Airlines.

PURE JET
The Viscount story goes back to 1944 when Vickers-Armstrong Ltd. first equipped the airplane with straight jet engines. But before the aircraft flew, Rolls-Royce Ltd. developed its turbo-prop Dart engine and the Viscount was redesigned around these new power plants. In July, 1948, the first Viscount 600 took to the air.

At that time, prospects of selling the 32-passenger aircraft looked bleak.

UNDERESTIMATED
Then it was found that Rolls-Royce had underestimated the power of its Dart engine by 40 per cent. This enabled Vickers-Armstrong to design a bigger Viscount without changing engines. In 1950, the Viscount 700, capable of carrying 44 passengers, was in the air.

Orders soon trickled in. Air France wanted 12, Aer Lingus four and Trans-Australia six. But the most important order, for 15, came from Trans-Canada.

"TCA said they would take the Viscount only if about 80 modifications were made," recalls a company spokesman. "If we accepted this order it meant 300,000 design man hours to modify the aircraft—more than went into the original design."

The company accepted the order.

When the manufacturers finished their modifications—cockpit changes, cabin redesigning, structural alterations and American instrumentation, it required little additional work to give the plane a U.S. certificate of airworthiness. That's why Capital Airlines of Washington stepped in and placed an order for 60.

"If we hadn't got that first TCA order we might never have got into the American market," says the spokesman. The modifications made the aircraft popular with other airlines which previously operated American planes.

When the manufacturers finished their modifications—cockpit changes, cabin redesigning, structural alterations and American instrumentation, it required little additional work to give the plane a U.S. certificate of airworthiness. That's why Capital Airlines of Washington stepped in and placed an order for 60.

"If we hadn't got that first TCA order we might never have got into the American market," says the spokesman. The modifications made the aircraft popular with other airlines which previously operated American planes.

MAYNARD & SONS
NO AUCTIONS THIS WEEK
Watch for particulars of forthcoming Sales, including the interesting contents of a Beach Drive Home.

Well-Kept FURNISHINGS ETC.
BOATS, CARS, ETC.
Now Being Received for an Interesting Auction in Our Showroom
WED., JULY 29

AN EVENT OF EXTREME IMPORTANCE TO ALL VICTORIANS
ANNE HATHAWAY'S COTTAGE
(An exact replica of the world-famous 11-Room Farm Cottage in Stratford, England, including the Furnishings.)

Now Open to the Public
On the grounds of the Old England Inn, 429 Lonsdon St., Esquimalt.

NOTE: We are proud to have assisted with the Antique Furnishings. We would also say that only Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lane would have taken on this tremendous task and seen it through to completion. (Time required, 5 years). Mr. Lane is still looking for one or two specific items.

MAYNARD & SONS
AUCTIONEERS
SINCE 1892
733 Johnson St. EV 4-1621

of hearings held last month, followed criticism of Canada's military atomic effort by committee member Senator Henry Dworshak, Idaho Republican.

EXCHANGE FACTS
The committee was studying seven U.S. nuclear pacts with Canada and other North Atlantic partners to allow the U.S. to transfer to these countries certain non-weapon nuclear information and equipment.

Senator Dworshak said that the U.S. had purchased hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of Canadian uranium and wondered whether Canada was putting some of these earnings into military atomic development.

"It seems very peculiar to me if Canada has been dragging her feet intentionally," he said.

Canadian Order Made Viscount Air Success Story

WEYBRIDGE, England (CP) — The mile-long production lines which have turned out more than 400 Viscount airliners are easing to a halt. The Viscount, as far as advance orders are concerned, has become obsolete.

When production of the four-engine, turbo-prop airliner stops with the 416th plane it will put the finishing touches on the greatest success story in Britain's long and varied history of civil aviation.

But the aircraft itself is by no means finished. The Viscount, front-line plane for 41 airlines in 33 countries, will be around for many years yet. Fifty of the aircraft are in service with Trans-Canada Airlines.

PURE JET
The Viscount story goes back to 1944 when Vickers-Armstrong Ltd. first equipped the airplane with straight jet engines. But before the aircraft flew, Rolls-Royce Ltd. developed its turbo-prop Dart engine and the Viscount was redesigned around these new power plants. In July, 1948, the first Viscount 600 took to the air.

At that time, prospects of selling the 32-passenger aircraft looked bleak.

UNDERESTIMATED
Then it was found that Rolls-Royce had underestimated the power of its Dart engine by 40 per cent. This enabled Vickers-Armstrong to design a bigger Viscount without changing engines. In 1950, the Viscount 700, capable of carrying 44 passengers, was in the air.

Orders soon trickled in. Air France wanted 12, Aer Lingus four and Trans-Australia six. But the most important order, for 15, came from Trans-Canada.

"TCA said they would take the Viscount only if about 80 modifications were made," recalls a company spokesman. "If we accepted this order it meant 300,000 design man hours to modify the aircraft—more than went into the original design."

The company accepted the order.

When the manufacturers finished their modifications—cockpit changes, cabin redesigning, structural alterations and American instrumentation, it required little additional work to give the plane a U.S. certificate of airworthiness. That's why Capital Airlines of Washington stepped in and placed an order for 60.

"If we hadn't got that first TCA order we might never have got into the American market," says the spokesman. The modifications made the aircraft popular with other airlines which previously operated American planes.

When the manufacturers finished their modifications—cockpit changes, cabin redesigning, structural alterations and American instrumentation, it required little additional work to give the plane a U.S. certificate of airworthiness. That's why Capital Airlines of Washington stepped in and placed an order for 60.

"If we hadn't got that first TCA order we might never have got into the American market," says the spokesman. The modifications made the aircraft popular with other airlines which previously operated American planes.

MAYNARD & SONS
NO AUCTIONS THIS WEEK
Watch for particulars of forthcoming Sales, including the interesting contents of a Beach Drive Home.

Well-Kept FURNISHINGS ETC.
BOATS, CARS, ETC.
Now Being Received for an Interesting Auction in Our Showroom
WED., JULY 29

AN EVENT OF EXTREME IMPORTANCE TO ALL VICTORIANS
ANNE HATHAWAY'S COTTAGE
(An exact replica of the world-famous 11-Room Farm Cottage in Stratford, England, including the Furnishings.)

Now Open to the Public
On the grounds of the Old England Inn, 429 Lonsdon St., Esquimalt.

NOTE: We are proud to have assisted with the Antique Furnishings. We would also say that only Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lane would have taken on this tremendous task and seen it through to completion. (Time required, 5 years). Mr. Lane is still looking for one or two specific items.

MAYNARD & SONS
AUCTIONEERS
SINCE 1892
733 Johnson St. EV 4-1621

Fallen Constable Buried with Full Police Honors
Buried with full police honors yesterday was city motorcycle constable Earle M. Doyle, fatally injured in a collision last Sunday. Mayor Percy Scurrell led police and civic representatives. Rev. H. D. Johnstone officiated. Uniformed policemen flanked the

Queen, Canadians 'Happy Together'
LONDON (Reuters) — The Times views the current royal tour of Canada as a joyful manifestation of mutual regard between a sovereign and her people.

"The Queen and her Canadian people are happy together," the London daily says.

"What may seem monotonous when read from afar—especially in condensed newspapers—is a succession of great moments for different communities distributed across the continent, each made up largely of people who scarcely expect to see their sovereign more than once in a lifetime."

"If art is the expression of man's joy in his labor, the Queen is an artist in monarchy. Canadians are proud of her, and she lets them see that she is proud of them."

'Double Indemnity' Beating
Did Boss Plot Death Of His Salesman?

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Four men were jailed Friday as police continued investigation of an alleged plot to kill a salesman for a share in proceeds of a life insurance policy his company had taken out.

The salesman, George G. Larsgard, 33, was attacked July 9 in an unfinished apartment building.

ATTACK ADMITTED
Police identified the four arrested men as:

Richard Harding, 24; Robert V. Vandever, 45; William Hancock, 44, and Russell J. Tree, 38.

Police said Harding, Hancock and Vandever had signed statements admitting their part in the attack. All four were being held without charge.

Larsgard was severely beaten with a pistol butt, his throat was cut and he was tossed down a stairwell after being lured to an unfinished apartment house under pretext of being offered the rental business.

WIFE IN CAR
Larsgard left his wife and three children in their car. When Mrs. Larsgard saw the men run from the building, she investigated and found her husband, dazed and bloody, in the rear stairwell. She stopped a passing motorist who helped her take him to a hospital.

Detectives learned from the victim that one of his assailants looked like Harding, who formerly worked for Tree.

Mrs. Larsgard disclosed that Hennepin Investment Company, one of Tree's firms, had taken out an insurance policy on her husband's life in March. The policy was for $25,000, two-thirds payable to the company, one-third to her. The policy also carried a double indemnity clause for accidental death.

Charleston 84 Feet Up
High-Rigger's Jig All-Sooke Bonus

Danny Sailor, famous high rigger from North Surrey, B.C., gave an added bonus to the crowd at AlfSooke Day yesterday when he put on a special act that including doing the Charleston at the top of an 84-foot pole.

After scaling the tree, he danced on the top, stood on his head and pretended to dive off into a tub of water. He finished the act by throwing out his hat and beating it to the ground.

Results of the logging events follow:

Log rolling: Rodney Sullivan of Sooke; log floating: Ardel Wickham of Sooke; log lifting: Mervin Brooks of Sooke; log lifting final: Ardel Wickham of Sooke.

Tree topping: Elmer Smith of Milnes Landing; ladies' nail driving: L. H. Fleming of Royal Oak; main logging: quarry timber: Hugh McKenzie of Victoria; ladies' tug-of-war: Otter Point team; log rolling up ramp: Dennis Smith of Sooke; men's tug-of-war: Sooke team.

Log bucking: Alan Woodrow of Courtenay; power saw contest: Fraser McKenzie of Cumberland; novice high rigger: Don Bax of Duncan; main high rigger: Danny Sailor of North Surrey.

Baby show results: Best baby in the show was seven-month-old Frederick Gary Cookes, 2688 Tillamook Road, Best Sooke baby was 17-month-old Kenneth Charles Hill. Best under six months was Janet Elaine Raymond, 2815 Alhambra Road, Colts Butte of Victoria won the horse shoe pitching contest.

Winners in the Tumbler were: Mrs. E. J. Williams, Victoria, who won a movie camera, projector and screen; Mrs. Althea Selles, Sooke, who won a de luxe barbeque, lawn umbrella and table and chairs; and Mrs. E. K. Potts, Sooke, who won three pieces of matched log gear.

ARCTIC OUTPOST
The Vardo fortress in Norway's Arctic province of Finnmark celebrated its 650th anniversary in 1959.

Teamsters to Invade U.S. Election Scene
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — James R. Hoffa says the Teamsters Union will make wide use of radio, television and the mails in the 1960 election campaign "to let the American working man know just where all the politicians stand."

The teamsters president said on an eventual Miami visit that city directories throughout the country will be combed to compile a mailing list of 10,000,000 persons.

"The rest of the people we'll reach by television and radio," he said.

Asked about the union's choice of candidates, Hoffa said it is too soon to say.

"The only one we know who seems to be a candidate is Jack Kennedy (Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat). I'm against him because he's anti-union and anti-working people."

They'll Still Be Digging Century from Now

Queen, Canadians 'Happy Together'
LONDON (Reuters) — The Times views the current royal tour of Canada as a joyful manifestation of mutual regard between a sovereign and her people.

"The Queen and her Canadian people are happy together," the London daily says.

"What may seem monotonous when read from afar—especially in condensed newspapers—is a succession of great moments for different communities distributed across the continent, each made up largely of people who scarcely expect to see their sovereign more than once in a lifetime."

"If art is the expression of man's joy in his labor, the Queen is an artist in monarchy. Canadians are proud of her, and she lets them see that she is proud of them."

'Double Indemnity' Beating
Did Boss Plot Death Of His Salesman?

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Four men were jailed Friday as police continued investigation of an alleged plot to kill a salesman for a share in proceeds of a life insurance policy his company had taken out.

The salesman, George G. Larsgard, 33, was attacked July 9 in an unfinished apartment building.

ATTACK ADMITTED
Police identified the four arrested men as:

Richard Harding, 24; Robert V. Vandever, 45; William Hancock, 44, and Russell J. Tree, 38.

Police said Harding, Hancock and Vandever had signed statements admitting their part in the attack. All four were being held without charge.

Larsgard was severely beaten with a pistol butt, his throat was cut and he was tossed down a stairwell after being lured to an unfinished

apartment house under pretext of being offered the rental business.

WIFE IN CAR
Larsgard left his wife and three children in their car. When Mrs. Larsgard saw the men run from the building, she investigated and found her husband, dazed and bloody, in the rear stairwell. She stopped a passing motorist who helped her take him to a hospital.

Detectives learned from the victim that one of his assailants looked like Harding, who formerly worked for Tree.

Mrs. Larsgard disclosed that Hennepin Investment Company, one of Tree's firms, had taken out an insurance policy on her husband's life in March. The policy was for $25,000, two-thirds payable to the company, one-third to her. The policy also carried a double indemnity clause for accidental death.

Charleston 84 Feet Up
High-Rigger's Jig All-Sooke Bonus

Danny Sailor, famous high rigger from North Surrey, B.C., gave an added bonus to the crowd at AlfSooke Day yesterday when he put on a special act that including doing the Charleston at the top of an 84-foot pole.

After scaling the tree, he danced on the top, stood on his head and pretended to dive off into a tub of water. He finished the act by throwing out his hat and beating it to the ground.

Results of the logging events follow:

Log rolling: Rodney Sullivan of Sooke; log floating: Ardel Wickham of Sooke; log lifting: Mervin Brooks of Sooke; log lifting final: Ardel Wickham of Sooke.

Tree topping: Elmer Smith of Milnes Landing; ladies' nail driving: L. H. Fleming of Royal Oak; main logging: quarry timber: Hugh McKenzie of Victoria; ladies' tug-of-war: Otter Point team; log rolling up ramp: Dennis Smith of Sooke; men's tug-of-war: Sooke team.

Log bucking: Alan Woodrow of Courtenay; power saw contest: Fraser McKenzie of Cumberland; novice high rigger: Don Bax of Duncan; main high rigger: Danny Sailor of North Surrey.

Baby show results: Best baby in the show was seven-month-old Frederick Gary Cookes, 2688 Tillamook Road, Best Sooke baby was 17-month-old Kenneth Charles Hill. Best under six months was Janet Elaine Raymond, 2815 Alhambra Road, Colts Butte of Victoria won the horse shoe pitching contest.

Winners in the Tumbler were: Mrs. E. J. Williams, Victoria, who won a movie camera, projector and screen; Mrs. Althea Selles, Sooke, who won a de luxe barbeque, lawn umbrella and table and chairs; and Mrs. E. K. Potts, Sooke, who won three pieces of matched log gear.

ARCTIC OUTPOST
The Vardo fortress in Norway's Arctic province of Finnmark celebrated its 650th anniversary in 1959.

Teamsters to Invade U.S. Election Scene
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — James R. Hoffa says the Teamsters Union will make wide use of radio, television and the mails in the 1960 election campaign "to let the American working man know just where all the politicians stand."

The teamsters president said on an eventual Miami visit that city directories throughout the country will be combed to compile a mailing list of 10,000,000 persons.

"The rest of the people we'll reach by television and radio," he said.

Asked about the union's choice of candidates, Hoffa said it is too soon to say.

"The only one we know who seems to be a candidate is Jack Kennedy (Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat). I'm against him because he's anti-union and anti-working people."

They'll Still Be Digging Century from Now

The Car Corner
Healey with Hairy Chest More Desirable Than Ever

By J. T. JONES
The Austin-Healey sports car, ever since its introduction in 1952, has been a wonderful car to drive, and a stout competitor in various kinds of motor sports, but it has always had a handicap.

Its engine size left it square in the middle of the toughest class of all, the under-three-litre.

It was giving away nearly half a litre to almost every other type it had to run against.

British Motor Corporation has at last seen fit to give it all the displacement it's entitled to, and the result, from reports I've seen so far, is a happy one.

DIFFERENT CASTINGS
What they've done to the six-cylinder BMC engine is bore it a little less than 1/4 inch—which required different block castings, but no other announced changes.

Running at 9.03 to 1 compression ratio (not at all high by modern domestic standards) it develops 124 horsepower at a modest 4,600 rpm, against the previous 117 horses.

The big difference—and it gives the key to the whole difference between this car and its earlier version—is the torque output, up from 149 pounds/feet to 175, or 17 per cent.

What this means to the driver is more push under all conditions, which means the car will be easier and more exciting to drive.

The nice feature about boring out an engine is that it gives more power with no more wear and no more weight.

For this reason, the new Austin-Healey will handle just as well (and it's always been one of the very best) and ride just as well (it's rated high that way, too).

I have seen this new model praised as having many of the likeable characteristics of the early Jaguar XK-120 sports cars—lots of muscle plus comfort.

This brings us to something I've long felt about these two cars. The Healey did its work with a finesse which the Jag relied on brute force. Now, by combining the finesse with a bit more hair on its chest, the Healey should be more desirable than ever.

DISC BRAKES
Another thing that's been added to the new Healey is a pair of disc brakes at the front. Even an old-fashioned guy like I can see that discs are the coming thing. Eventually, I suppose, all cars will have them, as performances get hotter and bodies more all-enveloping.

As matters stand, drum brakes have been developed to a fine art, while discs are just getting over their early teething troubles. No question about it though, when it comes to stopping a ton of machinery

Newest of Many
Polygamous Cult Converts Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Since David Livingstone brought Christianity to Central Africa more than 100 years ago, churches of every race have sought to convert African tribesmen.

The newest cult is called the Church of Israel and the mainstays of the cult's appeal is polygamy.

Headed by a tall, handsome African clad in bishop's garb and clerical collar, the Church of Israel is converting hundreds of primitive Sanayi tribesmen.

The Sanayi, 100,000-strong branch of the famed Matabele nation, live in the scrub-covered hills and flat bush country of central Southern Rhodesia.

STRANGE TALES
Strange tales have begun to come from the area. They tell of ceremonies involving "dancing prayers" and the sacrificial slaughter of cattle—of men with five and six wives each.

The man behind the polygamist cult is "bishop" Chomak Makoni, who was for 35 years an African missionary experts, Dr. Pahor Labib of Cairo's Coptic Museum, believes it is possible that Egypt's tombs and monuments also may contain some documents written by another apostle, St. Mark, who is said to have established the Coptic church in Egypt.

It is now 80 years since Britain's Sir Flinders Petrie set the pattern for modern Egyptology with his early Pharaonic discoveries, but the ancient land of the Nile has still not relinquished all its historic secrets.

One of Egypt's leading

Fallen Constable Buried with Full Police Honors
Buried with full police honors yesterday was city motorcycle constable Earle M. Doyle, fatally injured in a collision last Sunday. Mayor Percy Scurrell led police and civic representatives. Rev. H. D. Johnstone officiated. Uniformed policemen flanked the

The Car Corner
Healey with Hairy Chest More Desirable Than Ever

By J. T. JONES
The Austin-Healey sports car, ever since its introduction in 1952, has been a wonderful car to drive, and a stout competitor in various kinds of motor sports, but it has always had a handicap.

Its engine size left it square in the middle of the toughest class of all, the under-three-litre.

It was giving away nearly half a litre to almost every other type it had to run against.

British Motor Corporation has at last seen fit to give it all the displacement it's entitled to, and the result, from reports I've seen so far, is a happy one.

DIFFERENT CASTINGS
What they've done to the six-cylinder BMC engine is bore it a little less than 1/4 inch—which required different block castings, but no other announced changes.

Running at 9.03 to 1 compression ratio (not at all high by modern domestic standards) it develops 124 horsepower at a modest 4,600 rpm, against the previous 117 horses.

The big difference—and it gives the key to the whole difference between this car and its earlier version—is the torque output, up from 149 pounds/feet to 175, or 17 per cent.

What this means to the driver is more push under all conditions, which means the car will be easier and more exciting to drive.

The nice feature about boring out an engine is that it gives more power with no more wear and no more weight.

For this reason, the new Austin-Healey will handle just as well (and it's always been one of the very best) and ride just as well (it's rated high that way, too).

I have seen this new model praised as having many of the likeable characteristics of the early Jaguar XK-120 sports cars—lots of muscle plus comfort.

This brings us to something I've long felt about these two cars. The Healey did its work with a finesse which the Jag relied on brute force. Now, by combining the finesse with a bit more hair on its chest, the Healey should be more desirable than ever.

DISC BRAKES
Another thing that's been added to the new Healey is a pair of disc brakes at the front. Even an old-fashioned guy like I can see that discs are the coming thing. Eventually, I suppose, all cars will have them, as performances get hotter and bodies more all-enveloping.

As matters stand, drum brakes have been developed to a fine art, while discs are just getting over their early teething troubles. No question about it though, when it comes to stopping a ton of machinery

Newest of Many
Polygamous Cult Converts Natives

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Since David Livingstone brought Christianity to Central Africa more than 100 years ago, churches of every race have sought to convert African tribesmen.

The newest cult is called the Church of Israel and the mainstays of the cult's appeal is polygamy.

Headed by a tall, handsome African clad in bishop's garb and clerical collar, the Church of Israel is converting hundreds of primitive Sanayi tribesmen.

The Sanayi, 100,000-strong branch of the famed Matabele nation, live in the scrub-covered hills and flat bush country of central Southern Rhodesia.

STRANGE TALES
Strange tales have begun to come from the area. They tell of ceremonies involving "dancing prayers" and the sacrificial slaughter of cattle—of men with five and six wives each.

The man behind the polygamist cult is "bishop" Chomak Makoni, who was for 35 years an African missionary experts, Dr. Pahor Labib of Cairo's Coptic Museum, believes it is possible that Egypt's tombs and monuments also may contain some documents written by another apostle, St. Mark, who is said to have established the Coptic church in Egypt.

It is now 80 years since Britain's Sir Flinders Petrie set the pattern for modern Egyptology with his early Pharaonic discoveries, but the ancient land of the Nile has still not relinquished all its historic secrets.

One of Egypt's leading

Call on Harvey
For
"COURTEOUS AND EFFECTIVE REAL ESTATE SERVICE" at EV 5-6741
Northwestern Securities of Victoria Ltd.
631 Yates — at Broad

Greater Nanaimo Sewerage and Drainage District
Sanitary Sewerage System
Supply of Pipes for Contract No. 3
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

1. Sealed tenders in separate envelopes will be received until 2 o'clock p.m. Pacific Daylight Saving Time, Monday, the 18th day of August, 1959, by the Greater Nanaimo Sewerage and Drainage Board for the supply of the following, in accordance with the specifications:

Lot 1: Asbestos Cement Pressure Pipe

Diameter	Length
6"	670 Feet
8"	2,000 Feet
10"	1,300 Feet

Lot 2: Alternatives of:
Concrete or Vitrified Clay or

THE COAT-OF-ARMS OF GREAT BRITAIN

Starting Monday, July 20th

Hudson's Bay Company

IMPORT WEEK!

at the BAY...

featuring

Great Britain

and the Five Great Gifts Reflected in All Its Products

- The Gift of Earth and Heaven—the exactly right, dampish grey climate that is best for producing wool products!
- The Gift of History—many hundreds of years of experience in the manufacture and distribution of fine quality goods!
- The Gift of Genius—pains-taking hand craftsmanship that no machine can match in the best of British Quality!
- The Gift of Freedom—an eager readiness to experiment with new machines and methods; an urgent search for new ideas and more scientific knowledge to make inherent instinct even better!
- The Gift of Adventure—since the time of the first Elizabeth, Britons have been adventurers in many fields and the manufacture of fine merchandise is one of the foremost!

36-inch Hand-Screened High-Fashion Cotton Prints

Drip-dry, crease-resistant silk-like finish, yard 1⁰⁰, 1⁵⁰ and 2⁰⁰

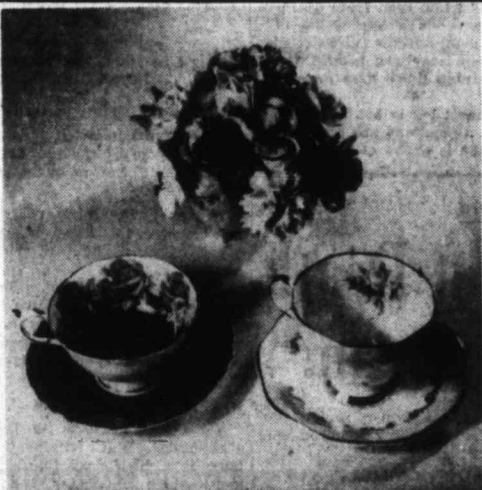

54-inch Scottish Tweeds and Mohair Loop Fabrics

Dress and suit weights in plain shades of blue, yellow apricot, pink, long-wearing and crease-resistant. Yard 6⁰⁰

54-in. Crease-Resistant Wool Coatings

Light and heavier weights for skirts, suits, coats, jackets. Long-wearing wool in plains, novelties, tweeds and checks in browns, beiges, greys, pastels and white. Yard 4⁰⁰, 5⁰⁰, 6⁰⁰ and 8⁰⁰

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, fabrics, 2nd floor

English Bone China Florals

Beautiful life-like flower arrangement in famous English bone china—choose pink, green or white bowls filled with attractive china flowers.

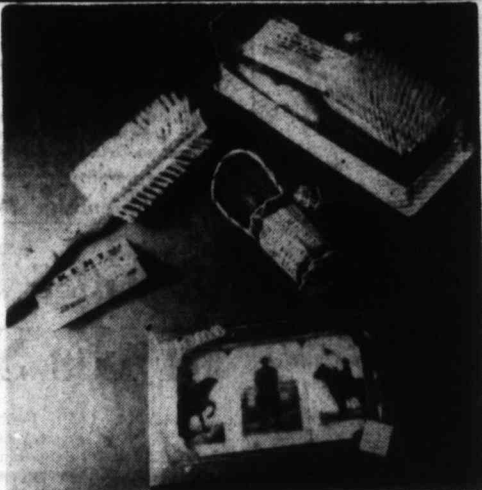

1⁵⁰ to 28⁵⁰

Favorite English Bone China Cups and Saucers

300 designs by the world's foremost makers—tall and low shapes with floral designs and gold trims.

Each $1 to 12⁵⁰

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, china, 3rd floor

English Devon Violet Fragrance

Very popular, comes in fancy pottery jar in 1²⁵ colorful gift package.

Anona Picture Toilet Soap

3 cakes in a box, each with a Mountie on top that stays for the normal life of the soap. Good for delicate skins. Box $1

Kent's World-Renowned Brushes

Best British make, pure bristles. Ladies' brushes at 8.50, 9.50 and 14.50. Men's club brushes at 10.50, 14.50 and 11.95. Men's military brushes at 13.50 and 18.95 pair.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, cosmetics, main

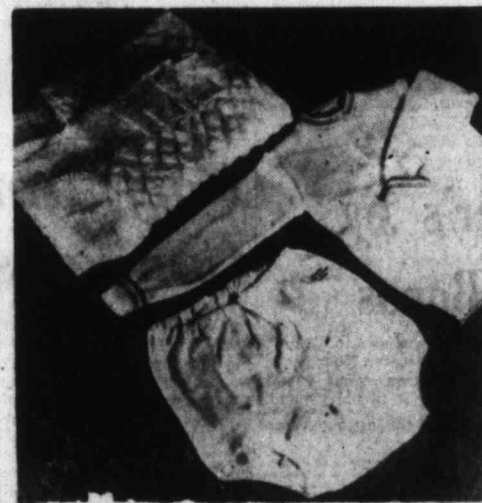

English "Puff Ball" Baby Wool—Washable 3-ply wool. Available in white, pink, sky, peach, coral, canary, banana, Nile and bright rose. oz. 39⁰⁰

Fine English "Cobweb"—2-ply pure wool for fine sweaters, stoles, shawls. Hand washable. Comes in white, royal, yellow, black, brown, grey, turquoise, green, emerald, olive, pink, sky blue. 1/2 oz. 29⁰⁰

Lavender "Crisp Crepe"—Pure wool crepe of highest quality—for suits, dresses, evening blouses, etc. Colors include blues, pinks, yellows, greens, reds, browns, mauve, turquoise. oz. 55⁰⁰

Faton and Baldwin's "Diana"—Popular 3-ply yarn—shrink-resistant and colorfast—for sweaters, socks and all knitting. Available in over 30 colors and mixes. 1-oz. skein 42⁰⁰

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, wools, main floor

Children's Wool Sweaters—100% wool, sizes 2 to 3x with long sleeves, round neck—some trimmed. Colors white, pink, blue.

Pullovers 2⁰⁰ Cardigans 3⁰⁰

Baby Shawls from Scotland—Novelty knit in fine wool and rayon. Size 36"x36", in 2⁰⁰ to 6⁰⁰ white. Large wrapping size.

Toddler's Suits—Washable, no-iron interlock cottons in red and white, blue and white, green and white. 2-piece suit—striped short-sleeved shirt buttoned at shoulder and solid color cross-over strap pants. Sizes 2, 3, 3x. 2⁰⁰

Children's Pajamas—Polo style for boys and girls. Sizes 4-6 in turquoise, pink, blue, maize. Pair 1⁰⁰

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, children's wear, 3rd floor

Women's Walking Shoes

Three styles: 1. Mudguard with crepe soles. 2. Plain vamp, natural crepe wedge soles and heels. 3. Lightweight oxford with foam soles. Soft, buttery calf, fine British craftsmanship, long-wearing. Sizes 5-10, A-A-B collectively, 11⁰⁰ and 12⁰⁰ in brown and tan.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, women's shoes, 2nd floor

Mohair Stoles—100% pure mohair, 18"x68". Hand-woven in luxurious shades of blue, black, white, rose or aqua. Washable. 7.95, 9.95 and 15.95

English Handbags—Genuine luxon cream colored leather—keep clean with a damp cloth. Styled and made by master craftsmen.

1. Voyager—travel purse $25

2. Large satchel, zippers and change purse 42.50

3. Triple zipper bag $35

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, handbags and dress accessories, main

Hand Knit Bulky Sweaters

With attractive novelty stitch, classic neckline and covered buttons. Soft but long-wearing. 15⁰⁰ fine weave, easy to care for, sizes 36-40, white.

Novelty 100% Lambswool Sweaters, Styled by Glenmac

Choose from many styles in long-wearing wool. Popular colors—beige, brown, blue, red, pink. Sizes 36-42.

Cardigans 14⁰⁰ Pullovers 12⁰⁰

Other Cardigans 13.95; Pullovers 9.95

Cashmere Sweaters by Fringle of Scotland

Full fashioned, luxuriously soft classic cardigans and matching pullovers. Easy to care for. Sizes 36-42. Beige, red, charcoal, black, white, blue.

Cardigans 22⁰⁰ Pullovers 16⁰⁰

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, sportswear, 2nd floor

More British Imports from Departments throughout the Bay

Souvenir Toffee—1/2 lb. of delicious Horner's toffee packaged in tin with the Queen and Prince. 85⁰⁰ Each

Fine English Toffee—Creamy rich old English recipe. Picture tin by Riley's. 45⁰⁰ to 2⁰⁰ Thomas' Horner's, Sharps

We gift wrap and mail to any point in Canada, postal charge for U.S.A.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, candy, main floor

Stuffed Toys from England and Scotland—Stuffed cuddly animals and musical balls. 98⁰⁰ to 1⁰⁰

Washable, colorful plush.

Teddy bears—2⁰⁰

brown and yellow.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, children's wear, 3rd floor

54" Printed Angora and Wool Material—Beautiful rose design in yellow, rose, blue, orange or white ribbed ground. Ideal for sweat dresses, skirts, separates. 7⁰⁰

Exclusive to H.B.C. Yard 1

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY, piece goods, 2nd floor

Watch the Bay's Ads all this week for exciting

IMPORT WEEK

Items featuring most of the countries of Europe, where traditions of fine workmanship produce goods of exceptional quality at very reasonable prices

- Shop Monday, 9 a.m. to 5.30 p.m.
- Dial EV 5-1311

Nikita Dodges Riot Birthplace

POZNAN, Poland (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev yesterday shunned the scene of the birthplace of Poland's bloody 1956 "bread and freedom" revolution.

Instead he sent part of his entourage to the Cegielski Locomotive Works and himself visited nearby collective farms.

Queen Waves Goodbye

Farewell to Vancouver Island is waved by Queen Elizabeth at Patricia Bay Airport yesterday morning as Prince Philip smiles goodbye just before royal couple entered plane taking them to Terrace and the Yukon. Ceremonies and fond waves of assembled crowd marked the departure after happy two-day visit on the Island. See story, page 14. — (Photo by Howard Malo.)

Queen Is Run Down From Rigors of Tour

Queen Talks to Bennett

B.C. High Point Of Royal Tour

Premier Bennett had a private audience with the Queen at Government House Saturday before Her Majesty's departure for the north and she told him she was "most pleased" with her visit to British Columbia. Disclosing this in an interview, the premier said the Queen and Prince Philip both presented him with signed photographs.

"I think this (the B.C. visit) was the highlight of her trip," the premier said. "She was most pleased too with the government's personal gifts and with its action in earmarking $1,500,000 as royal visit bonuses for pensioners and other needy persons."

Leopard Slashes Boy Who Opened Its Cage

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A half-grown leopard clawed a seven-year-old Richland boy at the Cole Brothers' circus here Saturday. Richland police said Kenneth Baird crawled under a rope into a prohibited area and lifted a corner of the sliding door of the leopard's cage. As the boy was peering in, the animal lashed out and clawed him in the face. He was taken to a Richland hospital, where he was bandaged up but in good condition Saturday night.

A four-year-old girl, Wilma Westdale, poked her finger into a monkey's cage at the same circus and got it bitten. She was treated at the hospital and released.

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth's doctor last night confirmed speculation that she was tired after the first month of her 45-day Canadian tour.

The unexpected medical bulletin followed several days of reports that the Queen was physically ground down by the rigors of her journey across Canada.

OTHERWISE WELL

The unforeseen bulletin was issued by Surgeon-Captain D. Steele-Perkins, the Queen's doctor, who had accompanied her from Britain to Newfoundland and across Canada into the far north on a scheduled 15,000-mile tour that will not end until Aug. 1 in Halifax. Capt. Steele-Perkins told newsmen who questioned him that the Queen was run down and that she was "tired but otherwise well."

YUKON CAPITAL

The Queen and Prince Philip arrived in the capital of the Yukon yesterday to begin a 2½-day visit to the Arctic.

During a visit to the MacBride Museum in Whitehorse, Mrs. W. D. MacBride told the Queen she hoped that Her Majesty would have a relaxed and restful visit to Whitehorse, because her trip obviously was a strenuous one. Replied the Queen: "There has been a lot of travelling."

Pavilion

Four Die As Plane Crashes

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Two men and their wives, on a fishing trip in the British Columbia interior, were killed Saturday afternoon when their light aircraft plunged into a railway station at Pavilion, 70 miles west of here.

They were identified as Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Morrison, of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor, of Surrey.

The Seabee aircraft was demolished but the Pacific Great Eastern Railway station did not catch fire.

C. E. Williams of Vancouver, co-owner of the aircraft with Mr. Morrison, said it was recently overhauled and described it as being "in perfect condition." He speculated that it may have been caught in a down-draft.

Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Taylor were sisters.

Mr. Williams said the two couples had flown to a logging camp near Lillooet to do some fishing Saturday morning.

He described Mr. Morrison as a "first-class pilot" and said he had spent two years with the Royal Canadian Air Force over enemy lines during the Second World War.

"It was the only plane we had and I guess it's the last one," Mr. Williams said.

He said it was the first time he had known Mr. Morrison to have ever encountered trouble with an aircraft.

The RCAF Rescue Co-ordination Centre in Vancouver said the pilot had not filed a flight plan.

Don't Miss

No Speed Ticket
—Just Talking
(Names, Page 2)

Debate on CBC
Blazes Again
(Page 3)

Delinquent Cure:
Nudist Camps
(Page 7)

Anything to Help
Another Boatman
(Page 8)

King Fisherman
(Page 11)

A Real University
—That's Our Need
(Page 13)

	Page
Comics	8
Financial News	13
Radio Notes	8
Radio Programs	22
Social	16, 17, 18
Sport	16, 11, 12
Television	21
Theatres	6, 7
Blindings	9
Travel	19

Tragic Sequel to All-Sooke Day

One man died and another was injured in this mangled sports car which broke in half during accident beside Sooke Road last night. Occupants were returning from All-Sooke

Day when car left road, struck a power pole and landed in gully. Driver's seat is below foliage showing through hole in chassis.—(Photo by William Boucher.)

Small Car Breaks In Two

The young Victoria driver of a borrowed sports car was killed and his male passenger seriously injured when their car returning from All-Sooke Day crashed into a power pole and was broken almost in two. Dead is Leonard Bruce Kalk, about 22, of 2537 Prior. In St. Joseph's Hospital last night was Chris Morgan, also about 22, of 406 Quebec.

FRIEND FOLLOWING

A friend who was following behind in another car and was planning to go to a dance later with young Kalk, was one of the first on the accident scene about 7.30 p.m. on the Sooke Road, about 50 feet south of the Humpback Road intersection.

Witnesses said the 1959 red sports car broke in half after apparently leaving the left side of the road on a right-hand curve, crashing into the power pole and flying 40 feet through the air, ending up in a six-foot gully.

Driver and passenger were lifted from the scrapheap wreckage of the small car and rushed over the twisting Sooke Road by Langford ambulance to hospital.

The driver was pronounced dead on arrival. Hospital authorities said Morgan was in satisfactory condition with multiple cuts.

Neighbors said the demolished, month-old sports car belonged to Bruce Kalk's sister, Mrs. Eunice McIsaac of Victoria, and that he had left his own 1954 large-sedan parked in front of the Prior Street residence where he lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph B. Kalk.

The parents and the sister were out of the city last night. One neighbor said, "If he had taken his own car, he'd still be alive."

SEEN AT SOOKE

The friend of the two men, who declined to give his name, said he had seen them at Sooke earlier in the day and that he had made arrangements to go to a dance last night with Bruce Kalk.

"I was on my way into town to meet him," said the friend, "when I came around a bend on Sooke Road and got the shock of my life."

"It was so unexpected. I saw the wreck and I recognized the car. I pulled off the road and stopped."

He said that portion of the road was "bumpy."

"I knew the road like the back of my hand. I imagine that was his trouble—he didn't know the road."

Vancouver TV

Three Seek Station

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three groups in Greater Vancouver plan to apply for licences to operate a private television station.

Spokesmen for radio stations CKWX, Vancouver; CKNW, New Westminster, and CKLG, North Vancouver, said their companies have definite plans to apply for licences.

In addition, Vancouver advertising man W. E. (Bill) Bellman and a group of lawyers have indicated intentions of applying for a licence. One of the lawyers, H. Lyle Jentley, has announced formation of Pacific Television Company, Ltd., with authorized capital of $1,500,000 and land to set up a station.

Plans were announced Saturday following Revenue Minister Nowlan's announcement in the Commons Saturday that private television will be permitted to compete with the CBC in major Canadian cities.

There are two channels available for private stations in the Vancouver area.

Slice of Far North B.C. Price for Road?

By R. L. JONES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Premier Bennett has proposed to the federal government that British Columbia be given part of the Northwest Territories in return for full provincial maintenance of the 600-mile Alaska Highway.

The deal would involve that part of the territories lying north of B.C.'s northern border

west of the 120th meridian, which includes the power-rich and oil-rich Mackenzie River basin.

The extra territory could make British Columbia the largest province in Canada.

The premier disclosed in an exclusive interview that he had made the suggestion to Defence Minister Pearkes, who was not available for comment. Mr. Bennett said he found the federal minister "very interested."

It was indicated that the defence minister will take the matter up with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the federal cabinet.

TAKE OVER ROAD

Premier Bennett also disclosed that B.C. is going to take over the first 100 miles of the Canadian section of the 1,500-mile Alaska Highway after the federal government completes paving the section from Mile 0 at Dawson Creek northward this year.

He indicated that it was this agreement to take over maintenance of the 100-mile stretch which resulted in his suggestion that B.C. take over maintenance of the whole of the 600-odd miles of the highway in British Columbia in a swap for a slice of the federally-supervised Northwest Territories.

NOT YUKON

"But I want to make it clear," he said, "that the Yukon Territory is not involved in my proposal. And I would want to take the matter up with my cabinet later if the federal government shows a definite interest."

It has been estimated that maintenance of the Canadian section of the road costs the federal treasury something like $17,000,000 a year.

Premier Bennett indicated that if a deal were made, B.C. would "eventually" pave the whole highway to Trans-Canada Highway standards.

Mr. Bennett noted that his plan would give B.C. "the whole Mackenzie basin," packed with power and petroleum possibilities and with an Arctic coastline.

Sat 13 Hours Straight

Parliament Prorogues

OTTAWA (UPI) — The second session of the 24th Parliament was prorogued shortly after midnight following 13 straight hours of sitting in order to clean up all remaining business.

Chief Supreme Court Justice Patrick Kerwin—acting in place of Governor General Vincent Massey—brought the session to a close with the traditional Speech from the Throne.

The speech—drafted by the government—reiterated Canada's hope that a summit meeting will be held to settle the Berlin and German problems, nuclear tests and a general disarmament.

The session ended one hundred and twenty-seven days after it started, about seventy-five members stuck out the day-long sitting and were on hand for the throne speech in the red senate chamber.

The MPs—with the business of the House cleaned up—broke into song while they awaited the arrival of the gentleman usher of the black rod to summon them to the senate.

Transport minister George Hees led the singing—with Newfoundland Liberal James Tucker supplying the music with a comb and a piece of tissue paper—as the members ran through Alouette, Home On the Range, I Got Sixpence and a number of other old favorites to the delight of the handful of spectators seated in the public galleries.

Needy Share Loaves, Fishes

More than 800 loaves of bread, 200 pounds of fresh peas and 100 pounds of fresh fish were split among 150 needy families yesterday at the monthly stall day of the Surplus Food Stall.

Convener Mrs. E. E. Harper said, "Everybody got something, but we had to use everything. We didn't have one potato left."

The peas were a bulk donation, as was the fish, the latter donated by the Saanich Anglers' Association.

The next stall day will be Aug. 15.

Delinquency

Action Soon Or Trouble, City Told

Vancouver—supposedly a hotbed of juvenile delinquency—at present sends only half as many delinquents per thousand of population to corrective institutions as does Victoria.

MRS. BLYTHE PLIMLEY

Seen In Passing

Mrs. Blythe Plimley puzzling over her shopping list . . . (A retired housewife, she lives at 1137 Hillside and enjoys visiting her two married daughters, Bill and Doreen Barlow, both in Victoria. Her leisure hours are spent gardening and relaxing) . . . Bill Resall explaining to wife, Win, who Gabby is . . . Gayle Dunnett returning with the Victoria Bluebird majorettes from White Rock . . . Don Bacon on his way to All-Sooke Day . . . George Cronby celebrating his wedding anniversary . . . Ted Matthews giving some good counsel.

Charter Bus Entry

Tourists' Departure Sparks Study Here

A study of the law covering entry of charter buses to Canada is being made by George

Playroom Fire Ousts Family

Fire broke out in a utility playroom in a Saanich house early yesterday morning, causing moderate damage and forcing the occupants outside until firemen cleared smoke from the building.

Firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barron 3130 Qu'Appelle, about 2:15 a.m. and returned to their stationhouse at 3:25 a.m.

I. Warren for the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

It follows the incident last week in which a group of U.S. tourists left Victoria in a huff after learning that a technicality prevents charter buses from following regular sight-seeing routes.

"There are two sides to every question," Mr. Warren said last night. "It is my own opinion that once a charter bus is admitted to B.C. it should be allowed to travel over any road."

"But, I might point out, Victoria Chamber of Commerce goodwill mission was prevented from taking a charter bus into the U.S. recently. So we are looking into the whole matter to see what is the law."

Bouncing Babes, Athletic Axmen, Luscious Lasses Sooke Day Specials

Chubby and lean, smiling and in tears, placid and tempestuous, silent and voluble, this array of appealing babies made judging of All-Sooke Day baby contest yesterday a difficult task. Record crowd attended celebrations.

Twenty years a faller in B.C. woods and now a highways department road foreman for Port Renfrew, 36-year-old Elmer Stolth won All-Sooke Day tree-chopping contest and looks lovingly at keenly-honed blade which helped him do the job in best time of day.

Pretty 23-year-old Marie Young, 834 Devon Street, made good time pounding home first three of five spikes in All-Sooke Day women's nail-driving contest but flagged towards end and was hardly able to finish.—(Colonist photos.)

Revved-Up Racer Sets Pigeon Mark

A revved-up racing pigeon landed in Victoria last night and claimed a new speed record for the run between this city and Edmonton.

The bird, owned by Charles Woolley of 2895 Inlet Drive covered the 557 miles in 24 hours and 39 minutes, 18 hours less than the previous record.

The pigeon was one of eight belonging to Victoria Racing Pigeon Club members to start the flight on Friday.

Double Try Today

Strait Swimmers Meet in Middle?

Two burly veterans of long-distance swimming may meet today in the middle of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Doug Rivette of Victoria and Jim Woods of Orlando, Florida, will both start their swims in the early morning—Doug from Victoria and Jim from Port Angeles.

Rivette, a three-time loser so far, expects to "make a much better showing" on his fourth attempt. He leaves Victoria's breakwater at 5 a.m.

Woods, a novice in Strait swimming here, holds the record on the Lake Ontario swim. He will leave Ediz Hook at 8:23 Victoria time.

Jim said he "felt good" last night "with the exception of a little cold from the training in this icy water."

"If all the breaks are with me I hope to take 10 hours. If the weather stays like this we ought to have a fairly good chance."

He hopes to catch a tide off Race Rocks about 11:30 that will sweep him in towards Victoria.

Doug Rivette also hopes to catch a tide, about four to five miles off Albert Head. This should take him around Race Rocks, where he will try to pick up a tide sweeping down the strait from Salt Spring Island.

Another strait veteran, Ben Laughren will accompany Jim Woods as coach. His navigator will be David McMillan.

Radio station CKDA will cover the Woods swim for its duration. They will broadcast every half-hour starting at 7:25 a.m.

DOUG RIVETTE

JIM WOODS

Smallest 'Farm Fair' Draws Mobs to Sooke

All Usual Events Seen by 10,000

Canada's smallest "agricultural fair" yesterday drew 10,000 to the banks of the Sooke River.

The occasion was the 23rd consecutive staging of All-Sooke Day—an annual celebration which started out as a neighborhood get-together and grew to international fame.

This year, presence of five goats, three calves, a rooster, two rabbits and a collection of house plants made it an agricultural fair for the first time.

The transformation came, according to Sooke Community Association president John Wilson, when police served notice that a raffle conducted in connection with All-Sooke Day events was illegal.

To legalize it the sponsoring association collected the modest array of livestock and flowers—plus a handful of carrots thrown in for good measure—and made it an agricultural fair.

New status of the major Vancouver Island attraction was not allowed to intrude on the normal course of events which consisted of children's sports, loggers' competitions and the justly renowned beef and salmon barbecues, plus generous dollops of clam chowder.

In fact the association president had some trouble locating the exhibits, which had been carefully tucked away where they were unlikely to interfere with the day's festivities—or the general rush to buy raffle tickets.

Drew Record Crowd

By last night as the Sooke festival drew to a close a crowd believed by some old-timers to be a record had downed 140 gallons of clam chowder, eaten all but a few tag ends of 450 pounds of prime barbecued beef and completely demolished 1,800 pounds of barbecued spring salmon.

A program of children's sports got the day off to a flying start after an official opening address by Herbert Bruch, M.L.A., Esquimalt.

Vancouver Island title events for loggers took up most of the afternoon and early evening and drew thousands of loudly cheering spectators.

Between events the crowd of Sooke visitors and residents staked "claims" worth as much as $25, staked at coconuts, played bingo and strolled through the tree-shaded setting on the West bank of the Sooke River.

Although attendance at the event goes up almost every year, an official said, net returns, which go to maintain the Sooke Community Hall and improve the All-Sooke Day grounds, grow slimmer.

This year for the first time the association was forced to buy the salmon—some $1,200 worth—which in the past has been donated.

But the association's fame is spreading as fast as attendance figures are going up.

Mr. Wilson said the sponsoring group is getting more and more requests to cater to conventions with their famous chowder and barbecue recipes.

"Later this year they want us to stage a barbecue at University of British Columbia," he said.

Vacant Shack Burns At Colwood Corner

An unoccupied, two-room shack at Colwood Corner burned to the ground about 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

Firemen said that the blaze had such a hold on the 12-foot by 12-foot structure with shingle siding and roof that they were unable to save it.

Local St. Ann's Sister Promoted To Leadership of B.C., Alaska, Yukon

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Sister Mary Angelus, St. Joseph's Hospital has nearly completed plans for its new wing, which it is hoped will be started next year.

New Superior of St. Joseph's is Sister Mary Anne Celesta, who was 16 years in St. Joseph's business office and who for the last year has been administrator of St. Martin's Hospital at Oliver.

As Provincial Superior, Sister Mary Angelus succeeds Sister Mary Luca, who now goes as Superior administrator to St. Ann's Hospital in Juneau, Alaska.

During Mother Luca's six-year term as Provincial Superior, the order of St. Ann grew considerably in British Columbia; St. Patrick's School attached to Our Lady of Lourdes parish in Oak Bay; St. James' school at Vernon; Immaculate Conception school in Vancouver; a high and grade school at Little Flower Academy in Vancouver; an eight-room addition to St. Ann's Academy in Victoria and additions to the Sisters' hospitals in Juneau and Smithers.

It was Mother Luca who planned and brought to fruition last year the celebrations marking the 100th anniversary of the arrival in Victoria in June 1858 of the first four Sisters of St. Ann.

The Sisterhood, under Mother Luca, also purchased Glenairly, at East Sooke, as a vacation resort for the sisters.

SISTER SUPERIOR MARY ANGELUS

... leaving administration of St. Joseph's Hospital

The Islander

DAILY COLONIST MAGAZINE

SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1959

ELLEN NEEL, Kwakiutl carver from Alert Bay, is one of Canada's most famous Indian artists. She is pictured here with some Kwakiutl masks, part of the rich heritage of arts, legends and handicrafts that belongs to the Northwest Coast Indian culture. Ellen and her husband, Ted, have a studio and store near White Rock, B.C.—Islander photo by Ryan Studio.

In this Issue:

CATTLE EMPIRE IN B.C.

Pages 14-15

★ ★

TWO ROPES, TWO BULLETS

A Cecil Clark

Adventure

Pages 8-9

★ ★

VICTORIA'S BOER WAR VETERANS

By C. B. Fisher

Pages 4-5

DEDICATION BY CITY SOUGHT

By Vera Scott

ONE of the most beautiful spots on Vancouver Island, under the protective wing of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association, backed by garden, service and business clubs, is Thetis Lake Park. Comprising 1,400 acres of wild land six miles from Victoria, it is one of the few natural "green areas" remaining in the vicinity and owned by the city.

This park is colored by small lakes and streams, and it is dotted with cedar bottoms, fir forest and mossy rock outcrop. Specialized plants of wide variety, representative birds, fish and small animals—including raccoon, deer and mink—thrive in their natural habitat.

In the early days before the area from Beacon Hill Park through Uplands, Cadboro Bay and Gordon Head was built up, arbutus, Garry oak and native plants were abundant, but as the city grew they were gradually destroyed and only a few remnants of the virgin stands now remain.

In Thetis Park one can still find many unspoiled groves and under their sheltering canopy are found blue camas, chocolate lily, Easter lily, calypso, sea bluish, 16 varieties of orchid, and many other flowers.

Scientists conducting an ecological survey of the sanctuary reported that "there is no comparable area in British Columbia where so many varieties and species of wild plants can be found all in one place."

Even in winter this natural area is beautiful, and on rare occasions when the sun shines after snow has fallen, it dazzles the eyes and sets one dreaming of brush and palette to Save Thetis Lake!

Contrast in color and the shape of nature at Thetis Park can rarely be duplicated in any part of Canada's loveliest province.

capture the scintillating loveliness of a wilderness in white.

One of the main objects of the Thetis group is to "protect the native plants, restore those species that have been lost, and adjust those species now out of balance."

Trails have been constructed and signs point the way to visitors to beauty spots and points of interest.

"In establishing one of the first nature sanctuaries in the Dominion of Canada," observes Dr. Adam Szczawinski, curator of botany at the provincial museum, "Victorians can be proud of leading the way to a national program of wilderness conservation. The rapid growth of forest industries, and the mushroom expansion of rural housing have made conservation practice not only necessary but urgent.

"The value of such a beauty spot as Thetis is apparent. Dedication of the whole area by the City of Victoria should be seriously considered so that logging, dumping of refuse, grazing, indiscriminate picking of flowers and removal of plants will be barred.

"Nature groups and youth organizations are aware of the value of undisturbed country. But the full value of Thetis cannot be established until steps are taken to maintain and protect the area. Dedicating of Thetis as a nature sanctuary would not necessitate city council undertaking any immediate development of the area. Present expenses can be defrayed by membership fees, grants and endowments."

The creation of sanctuaries for the safeguarding of wild life was first introduced into Switzerland by a small band of flower lovers who saw the mountain flora of the Alps being destroyed by tourists and dealers in rock garden plants. An association headed by Henry Correvon, world famed for his writings, was started in 1883. Inspired by this enterprise, England, France, Austria and Italy created similar sanctuaries. The idea spread to the United States and Canada.

Today the importance of nature accessible sanctuaries, and setting aside of natural green areas is recognized. The time will come when they will probably be unobtainable if

Concluded on Page 3

PLACID, this is Thetis Lake which gives its name to the whole park area. But there are other lakes and streams in this wonderful wilderness. All are fragments of an unforgettable picture.
—Photo by Adam Szczawinski.

At St. Jose

ST. JOSEPH'S only one of with a full-time department.

As a matter one of the first when it was es ago, it was a sn operation.

Perhaps "insignifi although the hospital selves.

As a matter of significant developmen have been recognized e ordinarily useful adjur so keen that considera outweighed it.

So the photograph in a bathroom.

Now, still not ver is concerned, it occup the old children's wa partment covers an e 20 classifications, main cal color slides.

The purposes of p multiple. Pictures sup in the study of dise instruction—of doctor everyone on the hospi

One of the score in the hospital's pho legal." It provides to support claims in c been found invaluable from time to time.

Before the work expanded to its pres custom to photograph times the picture was or so of birth. Pare couples. There's even who particularly wis "because they'll take

But so many of up to a big load.

The photographs Who is the photo

IT IS LESLIE S 22 years in the busi He came to Ca

Joseph's six years b much in the way of but now works with f an excellent darkroo phernalia necessary files.

These already inc color; 1,800 gross spe slides; 8,000 black an an enormous field; normalities, deformiti tern slides.

Mr. Spencer ha much of his own equ too expensive to bu For this is a compe quirements are alwa improving.

No one needs to photographer. Patien anyone to whom th available.

This index is a b plex system, with as for cross-index in som

Photographs gre may not be quite cor ties have maintained. 10,000 words." But something is not don preserve them.

We do not have fa for an example of v pens when indiscrimi ing of green areas t A few years ago V was surrounded by this description whi sold to industry and projects. Today thou dollars are being spe claim them for parid

But areas destroye dustry, by housing

At St. Joseph's Hospital, a New Department

Started by

A Man in a Bathroom

LESLIE SPENCER
... one-man department.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL is the only one on Vancouver Island with a full-time medical photography department.

As a matter of fact it possessed one of the first in B.C., although, when it was established nine years ago, it was a small and insignificant operation.

Perhaps "insignificant" isn't the right word, although the hospital authorities used it themselves.

As a matter of fact it was an extremely significant development, for while the need might have been recognized earlier, desire for this extraordinarily useful adjunct to hospital work became so keen that considerations of economy no longer outweighed it.

So the photography department was set up in a bathroom.

Now, still not very impressive as far as size is concerned, it occupies three small rooms in the old children's ward. Small in area, the department covers an enormous field, more than 20 classifications, mainly in pathological and clinical color slides.

The purposes of photography in medicine are multiple. Pictures supplement case records, assist in the study of disease, and are invaluable in instruction—of doctors, internes and nurses, and everyone on the hospital staff.

One of the score and more of classifications in the hospital's photography files is "medical-legal." It provides "before and after" pictures to support claims in court action, and these have been found invaluable in support of evidence from time to time.

Before the work of the one-man staff expanded to its present dimensions, it was the custom to photograph every baby delivered. Sometimes the picture was taken within just an hour or so of birth. Parents were delighted to have copies. There's even the story of one mother who particularly wished for confinement there "because they'll take a picture of the baby."

But so many of these small bundles added up to a big load.

The photography department had to desist. Who is the photographic department?

IT IS LESLIE SPENCER, English-born, and 22 years in the business.

He came to Canada 10 years ago, to St. Joseph's six years back. He didn't have very much in the way of equipment at the beginning, but now works with four cameras, three enlargers, an excellent darkroom, and all the other paraphernalia necessary to the competent filling of files.

These already include 1,500 surgical slides, in color; 1,800 gross specimen or post mortem color slides; 8,000 black and white negatives covering an enormous field; 1,300 clinical slides of abnormalities, deformities and such; and 1,200 lantern slides.

Mr. Spencer has devised and constructed much of his own equipment either because it was too expensive to buy or simply not available. For this is a comparatively new field, and requirements are always changing and equipment improving.

No one needs to be shy of this particular photographer. Patients cannot be identified by anyone to whom the hospital's index is not available.

This index is a big job in itself. It is a complex system, with as many as five cards needed for cross-index in some cases.

Photographs greatly simplify instruction. It may not be quite correct to say, as some authorities have maintained, that "one picture is worth 10,000 words." But when it comes to showing nurses in training a correct sterile set-up, or how to put bed patients in traction, or pop a baby in a bath, photographs are invaluable.

They play an increasingly important part in the medical field.

STUDENT'S EYE VIEW of surgery in progress in St. Joseph's operating theatre. The lighting throws the operation into dramatic emphasis. In the shadowy background gleam instruments and trays, surrounding the surgeons and nurses. The photograph, by Mr. Spencer, is typical of many that are used for instruction at St. Joseph's.

Continued from Page 2 SAVE THETIS LAKE

something is not done now to preserve them.

We do not have far to look for an example of what happens when indiscriminate selling of green areas backfires. A few years ago Vancouver was surrounded by areas of this description which were sold to industry and housing projects. Today thousands of dollars are being spent to reclaim them for parklands.

But areas destroyed by industry, by housing projects, cabins and motels, hunters who decimate game, vandals out on a destructive spree, can never be restored. The original nourishment supplied to the land by native plants that endlessly return to the soil that which they have taken, is lost forever.

Henry David Thoreau, philosopher and naturalist, wrote, "I would not have every acre of the earth cultivated; part will be waste; but the greater meadow and forest, not only serving immediate use, but preparing a mould against a distant future by the annual decay of the vegetation it supports."

The development and maintenance of Thetis Park is not only for our generation, but for generations to come when perhaps city life will have grown more rushing and drab than at the present time, and "green areas" will be oases of peace and quiet.

On its way to university status, Victoria College is interested in the development of Thetis as a nature sanctuary. "The educational value of such an area is enormous, from the point of view of ecological and plant association studies, of conservation practice and the more obvious content subjects of field biological courses."

Featuring Victoria gardens, the New York Times stresses the beauties of Victoria as a garden city, known throughout America as the "plant mecca" of this continent. And, a leading, Swedish botanist visiting this province a short time ago, declared, "Nature is B.C.'s best resource."

Perhaps Victoria can never be a leading industrial centre, but through such far-reaching and imaginative ventures as Thetis Lake Park, it can, and should be Canada's most beautiful city.

Daily Colonist 3
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1959

SOUTH AFRICA: Churchill Called It 'The

OLD FIGHTING MEN

By
C. B. FISHER

CHURCHILL CALLED IT the last gentleman's war. But Churchill didn't have to face volley after volley of lead, in the dead of night, at point blank range.

South Africa, part of the Dark Continent! Once there, never to be forgotten! The Great Boer War, the veldt, Modder River, Paardeberg, Kroonstad, Pretoria, the relief of Ladysmith, Reddersburg, Bloemfontein, Magersfontein. They were just part of it.

History to most of us; a distant campaign to others. But to a few in Victoria a living memory, a never-to-be-forgotten venture into the jaws of death.

Eastern South Africa, 1899. The Boers wanted certain grievances settled, a path to the sea. Kruger and his clan challenged the might of the British Empire in a showdown war. Hostility that had been brewing for years, broke out into a running campaign under a searing sun.

The Boers built up initial successes as the Empire automatically rallied. Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India sent token forces. The Boers were tough, brave, indestructible. They knew their country as no one else could. Their scouts were fast, on home grounds, in a terrain strange to the British.

Into this land poured hundreds of thousands of troops from Victoria and Vancouver, from Wales and Ireland, from Calgary, Ottawa and London.

This is the story of four veterans, a quartet of tough, old campaigners, who can look back on that distant war, and the fighting with their comrades in arms. Today they are retired in Victoria—all 80 years and beyond—all rich in memory.

ARTHUR EDWARD THOMAS is an old Welsh soldier. He was born at Rexham, North Wales, and lives at the Royal Olympic Hotel.

At the age of 18 years he joined the Coldstream Guards. A little later he went to Gibraltar for nine months, then landed in Capetown in 1899.

"I've seen some awful things, mister. It was tramp, tramp across the veldt. In the morning you would see a clump of trees that looked about 20 miles away. It turned out to be at least 40. The food was terrible. Handful of flour to make puddings. The transports couldn't keep up with us. Got pyorrhea and lost all my teeth. Too much jam. More personal hardships in some ways than my four years' in France. I couldn't shave, had no clothing and bad water.

"The Boers were good soldiers up to a point. You'd see a bunch on a knoll. You'd fire and they would fire back. You would attack. But they would mount their ponies and disappear."

"Our troops captured several Boers who had killed the crew of a train. After a court martial in the open they were sentenced to death.

"You'll be in the firing party," my commanding officer ordered.

"Fifteen men from the Grenadier Guards, the Coldstream Guards and the Black Watch formed a firing line. The prisoners were placed in three chairs and tied. One shouted and prayed, the other two remained stoical. We were young and inexperienced then, and it was a shaky volley. Kaffirs came up and buried them.

"There was a lighter side to things. I was out hunting while we were building blockhouses between engagements. I shot three rabbits then stumbled on an eight-foot black python. I killed it and brought it back to camp. A couple of Kaffirs thought it was still alive and took off. Two days later they returned. Convinced it was dead, they skinned it, and I kept the hide for some time.

"North towards Rhodesia the lions roared and the rivers were filled with crocodiles. You had to watch it. It was no gentleman's war."

T. A. "SCOTTIE" CRESSWELL, of the Field Apartments, is one of Victoria's best-known veterans; an ardent soldier in war, outspoken, and a sportsman in peace.

He was born into the British Army, his father being bandmaster with the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry for 42 years. On his mother's side he was a Gilligan of fighting Irish stock. At 14 he joined his father's regiment doing boys' service for four years. Interested in field and track events he captured the walking championship of the six northern counties, covering 41 miles in 7 hours 30 seconds.

He shipped to India for two years' fighting in the Khyber Pass and other legendary places. From there he went to the Island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean, later landing with the first British regiments at Capetown.

He was in battles at Magersfontein, Paardeberg and many others, including the relief of Ladysmith.

PRIVATE DAVID LIVINGSTONE McKEAND, later Major McKeand, MC, and still later known as the Silver Fox of the Arctic, now living at 821 Newport Avenue, Oak Bay, is from an old Scottish military family.

He sailed in the Sardinia from Quebec with the Royal Canadians, a battalion of 1,000 men divided into eight companies of 125 each. Sergeant James Scott of the Fifth Garrison Artillery, and a member of the James Bay Rowing Club, was in Company A with Private McKeand. It was his enthusiastic talk on rowing up the old Gorge that later bought McKeand, himself an ardent sculler, to visit Victoria after the war, to be so impressed that he established his home here after his retirement from his native Ontario.

The Royal Canadians were truly a green regiment, untouched by war, untried by battle—the "kid" regiment you might call them. Beside the Imperials they were striplings, but ready to prove themselves men.

The Sardinia landed at Capetown on Nov. 30, 1899, and after a 48-hour stay, the regiment entrained to Deaar. They moved to Kimberley, fought a few light encounters, then were stationed at Belmont until February of 1900. Here they were brigaded with the Gordon Highlanders and the Shropshire Light Horse under the command of General Smith-Dorian. They marched from there to Paardeberg.

The Canadians, walking all night, reached the Modder River in the morning and waded, neck deep, across the coffee-colored stream. Mounting the far bank they reconnoitered, at a mile away, the approaches and the strongly entrenched rifle pits and bunkers of the Boers in a heavy clump of trees. They were met with a horribly deadly hail of bullets, the whistling ring of the Mauser rifle and carbines, and the explosive crack of shell. The Royals replied and from behind them, across the river, the booming and the rip of the quick-firing Maxims rained devastation on the Boer stronghold.

The Canucks, now only 1,500 yards from the Boers, were held there for an hour by the deadly fire. Then in a lull they moved slowly, crawling to the 700-yard mark.

Men died at every foot.

Sergeant Scott of Victoria lay mortally wounded. Stretcher bearers were fair game for the Boers. Any small clump of trees hid death, for it was instantly riddled with shell. Only gigantic ant hills—yesterday cursed, today life-savers—offered protection. The Canadians lay down, Indian fashion, for hours, as explosive enemy fire knocked chunks of earth out of the solid humps.

Meanwhile a single Boer, with unmatched gallantry, climbed a tree. Fastening himself with his belt, he fired down left and right at the hidden Canadians. Every sharp-shooter of the Royals blasted away at the sniper, and still he stayed in the tree. Could it be a dummy to draw away fire? Later, when the ground was cleared, he was found, his belt still around him, riddled with a dozen bullets.

A heavy rain, icy cold, drenched the crouching men; then a torrid sun baked them. There had been no breakfast and the barking guns gave them no peace. Towards evening two companies of British troops crossed the river. Col. Aldeworth, of the Cornwalls, was now senior officer. His orders were to charge.

"Fix bayonets!" the colonel's voice rang out. "Five pounds to the first man in their trenches!"

The Boer rifle pits became a living mass of fire. It would have been a miracle to have moved safely even 200 yards ahead. Col. Aldeworth lay dead seconds after his gallant direction.

Bugler Williams blew a second death charge. Only the bravest went ahead and they in remnants.

Night descended black. The charge had been a failure. The Canucks moved back, under cover of darkness, dragging their dead and wounded behind them.

Next day Father O'Leary, the padre, conducted last rites at the hastily-prepared grave sites.

In their stronghold, under the leadership of the famed General Cronje, the Boers held tight. The deep pom-pom of their heavier guns incited terror along the river banks as they flayed not only the Canadians but every other regiment that surrounded them. De Wet, the greatest of the Boer leaders, was clobbering away at the British flanks, doing his best, with what forces he had at his disposal, to make them withdraw, and so give Cronje a chance to evacuate.

De Wet sent his best scout, the famed Dannie Theron, through the British lines with a verbal message to Cronje to fight his way out. Theron, his clothes and skin ripped, delivered the message and returned. De Wet waited in vain. The stubborn Cronje refused to budge.

A couple of nights later the Canadians moved in at 2.20 a.m. under Captain Blanshard of Victoria. All was quiet to within 80 yards of the objective. Then the Boers fired volley after volley. The centre and left of the Royal Canadians retreated but the right flank fought its way into some abandoned trenches 60 yards from the enemy, from which they poured a steady fire on the beleaguered burghers.

The sun rose. Suddenly a man on a horse with a white flag moved forward. The last charge of the Royal Canadians had been the straw that broke the camel's back.

BEHIND THE LINES supplies had to be carted in and horses and mules did a good deal of the hauling. A fair percentage of the troops were mounted, calling for tens of thousands of fast ponies.

ARTHUR H. SUTTON, now living at 2512 Douglas Street, as a young man, saw an ad in the Montreal Star calling for 50 men to look after a shipment of 1,000 horses to the front. He landed at Port Elizabeth, and after the horses were on their way, joined the South African Light Horse as a trooper.

"It's a big country from Capetown to Johannesburg," he recalls. "We hadn't been in the lines long when one of the worst hail storms I have ever experienced broke. Canada has nothing like them. Fourteen hundred horses, tethered for the night, broke loose in terror. Several ponies were killed in the stampede and five Kaffirs were trampled to death. Later we packed our helmets with grass, to soften a fall, and went after them. It took us a week to round up what we could and hit the trail again.

"Canadian horses pegged out pretty fast. In fact they died like fleas. Our horses never got enough to eat. Couldn't take the grass out there. Water was always a problem.

"One scorching day I had four in tow as we approached the Val River. They raced for the water and I couldn't hold them back. Instead of coming to an easy stop they braked like a fast-moving car. It threw me into the river over the animal's head, just like going through the windshield of an auto.

"The Boers had the best horses for Africa. They were born to the grass of the veldt and were acclimatized. But our ponies were not the only ones to suffer. Our British rations were lousy. We were with the Imperial Yeomanry, and all we got was a little bit of jam and hard biscuits most of the time. Great jam eaters those Imperials. We got seven shillings and sixpence a day, far more than the Imperials, and it caused bad feeling between us. We didn't know a thing about soldiering!

Last
CA

"We herded 3,000 but couldn't get them all into one slaughter the whole I was awful for weeks. There was a little played crown and an were paid in gold and He did a wise thing hometown bank. "I was in severe amongst the lucky or PRIVATE McKE Paardeberg with the ture of Bloemfontein in 30 days on half r De Wet in further e The Gordon High the Royals all throu the Canadians tyro attitude changed so the veldt, the High and after heavy fig of arms. When the went out and cheer then on the cement o The Canucks mar siderably reduced fro marched, the best column's centre so could join in easily. deep into Boer territo tiful.

At the victory n Transvaal capitol, L took the salute from

The Last Gentlemen's War . . .

THEY CALLED IT HELLISH

"We herded 3,000 sheep up to the Val River but couldn't get them across. Rather than let them fall into enemy hands we had Kaffirs slaughter the whole lot on the banks. The stench was awful for weeks later.

"There was a little recreation at night. We played crown and anchor games and banker. We were paid in gold and one little Yankee won £1,000. He did a wise thing. He wired it back to his hometown bank.

"I was in several encounters, but I was amongst the lucky ones."

PRIVATE McKEAND, fighting through Paardeberg with the Royals, went on to the capture of Bloemfontein. Later marching 300 miles in 30 days on half rations, the Royals contacted De Wet in further encounters.

The Gordon Highlanders, who had been with the Royals all through the war, still considered the Canadians tyros. After Paardeberg their attitude changed somewhat. Now, further into the veldt, the Highlanders were in a tight spot, and after heavy fighting, executed a heroic feat of arms. When the Scots came back the Royals went out and cheered them as they passed. From then on the cement of friendship was unbreakable.

The Canucks marched further, their ranks considerably reduced from the original 1,000. As they marched, the best singers were placed in the column's centre so that the boys at either end could join in easily. Northwards, as they entered deep into Boer territory, the country became beautiful.

At the victory march past at Pretoria, the Transvaal capital, Lord Kitchener and Roberts took the salute from the square. A little band from the Imperial Derbyshire Regiment played "Where Are the Boys of the Old Brigade?" and "The Maple Leaf Forever" as the Royals, eyes right, swung past.

SOME OF THE MEN "who fought and won" . . . A. H. Sutton, T. A. "Scottie" Creswell, Major D. L. McKeand, MC, and Arthur E. Thomas, from left to right. With the flag under which they served so gallantly, these four Victorians are pictured in the grounds of the McKeand home.—Islander photo by H. C. Wilcox.

There were pleasant memories for Private McKeand in Africa; champagne with Sir Conan Doyle at his hospital in Pretoria; a visit to Kruger's home; fetters and parcels from Canada, and a great admiration for the British soldier in Africa.

Towards the end of the war two of the eight companies stayed on at patrol duty on a railroad. Later they embarked on the Marwardian Castle for London and the Kensington Barracks. They were given new uniforms and reviewed by Queen Victoria and Princess Alice at Windsor Castle. The Royals presented arms, gave three cheers and marched past four times. Every night carriages drew up and took the boys to the music halls. The best company singers went up stage and the audience joined in. Under the bed, one day, was a case of Scotch for every Royal.

Later in Canada Private McKeand went back to banking as a branch manager, then when the First World War broke out, he enlisted early, becoming a major and winning the Military Cross and other decorations. A wound almost finished him in 1915, at Ypres.

Back in Canada he became the first Canadian pension paymaster and later assistant director of the Northwest Territories and the Western Arctic Patrol. The Eskimos called him the Silver Fox of the Arctic.

"Scottie" Creswell, after South Africa, went back into the trenches of the First Great War. At the retreat from Mons and at Passchendaele he lost five brothers, was wounded twice himself. Later in Victoria he was a successful all-around sportsman and manager of political campaigns.

Arthur Sutton's sense of humor and versatility keep him in excellent health. He is a top-flight checker player.

"I get all I can out of life. Rain doesn't stop me. I am down at the club each day. I can't throw a game of checkers. I have to look around for fresh competition," he says.

After the veldt he worked for 18 years as an engineer for the Canadian National Railways. Across the prairies, one night, he yelled at a couple of transients riding in the coal car behind. A few seconds later a big American came into the cab.

"My word, Arthur, I am glad to see you. The last time I heard your voice was at Bloemfontein, 15 years ago," he roared.

"I was never so surprised in my life," the veteran confessed. "The last time I saw him was at the Boer War. It's a small world."

Arthur Thomas continued his military career in the First Great War. Today, retired in Victoria, after many years with the engineering staff of the Vancouver School Board, he retains the firmness of jaw, the ruggedness of an old soldier.

Daily Colonist 5
SUNDAY, JULY 12, 1909

Better Than Caesar's

"SUMMERTIME and the living is easy" . . . that must have been written by a man. Easy indeed! berries to jam, roses to spray, weeds to pull and the garden chairs to be painted. Even so, summer is a lovely time . . . lots of fruit, delectable new vegetables, outdoor meals and blazing sunsets.

Summer meals are certainly easier than in Grandma's time . . . no big, black, wood-burning stoves to heat our kitchen to the boiling point. How Grandmother would have loved our gleaming refrigerators, those truly magic appliances that perform so many chilly miracles. Next to my ever-lovin' husband, the love of my life is my refrigerator.

There are eras in cooking and this period of time might be called the age of refrigeration. Today's recipe books may give future generations a clue to our way of life. Archaeologists of the year 2500 may dig into the ruins of our 1959 world and decide that the people in this civilization lived in an ice age. Headlines would proclaim that these semi-civilized people lived on frozen food. A 1959 cook book dug from the ruins would confirm the ice age idea . . . "open a package of frozen rolls . . . open two tins of frozen soup . . . take four turkey dinners from the freezer . . ."

Many recipes talk about frozen vegetables, frozen fruit, ice box cookies, ice cream and frozen pies. All this may seem strange to people in the year 2500 . . . in that far-off day meals, complete with parsley, may be compressed into pills. Whatever the future holds in the way of eating I am well content with the "now".

CERTAINLY refrigeration has changed our way of eating from Grandmother's day. It has taken the season out of seasonal food. It has given us pill convenience but with taste and looks to tempt the most finicky eater. And best of all it has given us food at our finger tips.

Everyone does not have a deep freeze but most of us do have a freezing compartment in our refrigerator. This is a thing I would hate to be without and I am always wishing mine was bigger. However, it is surprising how much food you can pack into even a 30-pound unit. The trick is to freeze things in square containers.

To freeze food trim and square in plastic bags, place the bag in a straight-sided pan during freezing. The squared shapes will stack compactly.

You are meals ahead when you freeze . . . from crusty chicken to golden biscuits and lemon pie. You can have a meal ready in 45 minutes.

To prepare the chicken . . . toss the chicken pieces in unsalted flour, fry slowly in a skillet in hot fat. Brown on all sides. Drain on paper towelling. Cool thoroughly, wrap and freeze. Make and bake your biscuits according to your favorite recipe, cool, pack in a milk carton, seal and freeze. I cut my biscuits square to fit the carton. For the rest of the main course you can use commercially-frozen French fries and the vegetable of your choice.

And here is the dessert . . . a lemon cream pie that freezes beautifully.

THIS PIE is said to be a specialty of Bess Truman, a former White House hostess. Lemon cream filling . . . beat until frothy three egg whites, gradually add one-half cup sugar. Beat until stiff and glossy. Without washing the beater, beat the three egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Fold into the egg white mixture. In a separate bowl beat one cup whipping cream, add three teaspoons finely grated lemon peel and one-third cup lemon juice. Fold into the egg mixture. Now butter heavily a 9x9-inch square pan, sprinkle with fine graham cracker crumbs. Press them well up the sides. Pour in the lemon cream filling. Sprinkle the top with more crumbs. For bottom and top you will need about three-quarters cup crumbs. Wrap in foil and freeze.

To serve, unfreeze to desired consistency and cut in squares.

IF YOU HAVE a deep freeze and lots of room, main course dinners can be frozen individually on foil plates or food assembled on one large shallow tray. When frozen this way they can be taken from the oven just an hour before dinner.

Daily Colonist
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1959

Frozen Miracles

Spicy Raisin-Nut Ice Cream
... This is a tempting treat

Lift the foil to season, replace foil and put in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for 45 or 50 minutes. Presto! dinner is ready!

Frozen assets in your meal bank are a fine thing . . . you might have hamburger patties, brown-and-serve rolls and corn on the cob all ready to go for one meal. Or browned pork chops, sweet potatoes rolled in brown sugar, and green peas. Or build a meal around individual meat loaves. If you are freezing a meal for your skillet, or Dutch oven, freeze it on the trivet or a round of cardboard (the right size for the pot) covered with foil. Then the meal will fit the utensil when you take it from the freezer.

A friend tells me that she keeps several sizes of square pans for freezing food in blocks. For instance when making a casserole my friend doubles the quantity. She pours one-half into a loaf tin and freezes it. When frozen it is turned out in a solid block and wrapped snugly in foil or freezer paper to go back in the freezer against the day unexpected company knocks at her door.

She does soup, baked beans or stew in this way. This same person also makes several batches of cookies at a time. She freezes them flat on cookie sheets. When frozen she packs them into ice cream or milk cartons. Each carton holds an assortment of brownies, peanut butter crisps, butterscotch or shortbread cookies. Because they were frozen separately they do not stick together

Muriel Wilson gets so many letters she cannot possibly answer them all. Save yourself and the "Thought for Food" author time by telephoning her at GR 9-4256.

MURIEL WILSON'S 'Thought for Food'

In the carton. My friend is always ready for "cow-boy and Indian raiders" or someone dropping in at teatime.

Doughnuts can be made ahead, frozen and stored in the same way.

Because I am always getting requests for my Lazy Lady doughnut recipe I will repeat it. Although these can be made ahead and frozen like the cookies, I find it simpler just to refrigerate the dough and make up the little doughnuts as needed. This lazy method of drop doughnuts eliminates any rolling and cutting out. Just drop teaspoons of dough into hot fat. While the kettle is boiling for tea you can fry a dozen or so of these, crispy on the outside, doughnut balls. Here is the recipe . . .

Into a bowl sift three cups all-purpose flour, add three-quarters cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons double-acting baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. To the dry ingredients add two beaten eggs, four tablespoons salad oil and a teaspoon of vanilla. Add enough milk to make a stiff dough (one-half to three-quarters cup). Flour varies so that there may be a little difference in the amount of milk needed. The dough stiffens slightly after being refrigerated. The fat should be heated to 375 degrees. At this temperature the little balls will cook in four or five minutes. I use a pound of lard in a small sautepan which cooks eight at a time. It is not necessary to keep the dough frozen, simply cover the bowl and it will keep for several weeks just in the refrigerator.

SINCE THE FIRST epicure spilled fruit juice on snow and savored its subtle pleasures, man has sought new ways to capture his pet flavors in icy crystals. The first frozen desserts were simple sherbets. Caesar was said to have teams of relay runners whose sole duty was to rush Alpine snow, flavored by different essences, to his town banquet table. Many a Roman gourmand cooled his discriminating palate with soothing frosted syrups in those days.

After the fall of Rome, fine eating went into an eclipse. In 1533 a "good neighbor" policy married Catherine de Medici to Henry the Second of France. Italian Catherine brought with her a retinue of cooks with their sherbet recipes. A dual chef invented ice cream but it wasn't until years later that ice cream made its appearance in the New World.

With fine ice cream available at every corner store I suppose few people make their own. Although I am one of the ice cream manufacturers' best customers (I love the stuff), I like to try making a trayful occasionally, especially if the recipe intrigues me.

Spicy Raisin-Nut Ice Cream looked like something different . . . I couldn't wait to try it. Just why spices are not used more often in ice cream, I've often wondered. This recipe starts with plain vanilla custard which takes on sparkle when nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon are added. The cold gives them a sort of muted pungency. To this medley of flavors are added nuts for texture interest and raisins for sheer delight.

For a real taste treat do try Spicy Raisin-Nut Ice Cream . . . Scald two-and-a-half cups milk. In the top of a double boiler mix three-quarters cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, two tablespoons cornstarch, one-half teaspoon each of cloves and nutmeg, one teaspoon cinnamon and one cup chopped seedless raisins. Add the milk and mix thoroughly. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour slowly over two beaten eggs, blend well, then cool.

Now whip two cups cream and fold into the raisin mixture. Add one teaspoon vanilla and one-half cup chopped nuts. This amount will fill two freezer trays. Remove from trays and beat once during freezing.

When I decided to try this recipe I had no whipping cream in the house so I used evaporated milk. When chilled it whips beautifully. I halved the recipe which made four very generous helpings. It was really good.

And here is a suggestion for the children . . . make Yumsicles for them. Dissolve summer drink powder and add three-quarters cup sugar. Pour into empty six-ounce juice tins. When frozen to a mush stick in a wooden meat skewer. Freeze, then unroll, wrap and store in the freezer compartment of your refrigerator.

New Canadian

La

IF YOU can imagine the Royal Canadian as a wartime story The Ice Wall All B is it.

The saga of HM missioned icebreaker voyage from Sorel, to Halifax, through archipelago to Esquimaux through the Pan and land-lubbers alike Lt.-Cmdr. T. A. I watchkeeper aboard a suspenseful story battling vast stretches familiar and untested

One passage: "On approaching Strait, the first icebergs blobs on the racers had increased shrouded days dragg "The glaciers on birthplaces of these it wasn't unusual to time on the fluoresce all within a radius q always the uneasy q in the ship's track ha is not infallible . . .

The famed RCMP wooden craft of 1971 during the Second W to circumnavigate Ne All Between is the st

Bc
A

Royal F

A new paperbound of The Royal Family Berton's lively portraits members of the Ho Windsor from Vi Elizabeth II, has just landed in Canada by M & Stewart.

The book by the columnist, author of t winning volumes Kios The Mysterious North, both bouquets and on first publication curiously enough, aris the same reason. This crispness and candor which Berton portra

Come

Dora Hood's book, Door (Ryerson) is the ful and informative her 26 years as a sec bookseller in Toronto

In her first years ness she "determined main objective shoul supplying of out-of-p rare Canadian work customers ranged ro world, United States l Australian historians, erment of India, an

Labrador Epic Colorful Prose

IF YOU can imagine a peace-time story about the Royal Canadian Navy being as enthralling as a wartime struggle against enemy forces, The Ice Wall All Between (Longmans, Green) is it.

The saga of HMCS Labrador, a newly-commissioned icebreaker, in her 18,000-mile, 97-day voyage from Sorel, Que., where she was built, to Halifax, through Canada's icebound Arctic archipelago to Esquimaux, B.C., and back to Halifax through the Panama Canal, is for ex-sailors and land-lubbers alike.

Lt.-Cmdr. T. A. Irvine, a hydrographer and watchkeeper aboard the Labrador, has written a suspenseful story of 200 men and 20 officers battling vast stretches of Arctic ice in an unfamiliar and untested ship.

One passage:

"On approaching the northern end of Davis Strait, the first icebergs had appeared as menacing blobs on the radar screens and their numbers had increased alarmingly as the fog-shrouded days dragged slowly by."

"The glaciers on the Greenland coast are the birthplaces of these dangers to navigation and it wasn't unusual to count over 50 bergs at a time on the fluorescent face of the radar tube, all within a radius of 20 miles . . . There was always the uneasy question whether all icebergs in the ship's track had been accounted for. Radar is not infallible."

The famed RCMP vessel St. Roch, a little wooden craft of 197 tons and only 104 feet long, during the Second World War became the first to circumnavigate North America. The Ice Wall All Between is the story of the second such trip, this time made in 1954 by the 5,000-ton Labrador, 270 feet long, and carrying two helicopters for observation, scientific equipment, landing craft and the latest in navigation aids.

Liberally sprinkled through the book are humorous incidents involving the ship and her varied crew. One of the best concerns a British freighter taken aback with the sight of the big blunt-nosed icebreaker in tropical waters. Signalled the freighter: "I'm in the Caribbean: Where are you?"

AUTHOR and photographer have combined talents to present a picture of 20th century Canada in Canada in Color (Clark Irwin). The book contains 32 color photographs by George Hunter, one of Canada's leading industrial photographers, and text by writer Leslie Roberts.

The pictures, chosen from among hundreds taken on assignments in almost every region of the country, including the North, depict the land, its people and its resources. Mr. Hunter, who specializes in aerial photography, has been able to present many familiar scenes in a new and refreshing viewpoint by shooting from the air.

About half the pictures in this book are aerials, some taken wide range—Toronto's modern Fred Gardiner Expressway with its crowded traffic, a lone caterpillar-train crossing Arctic snows, ocean freighters leaving a St. Lawrence Seaway lock, and a tug plying the blue waters of the Athabasca River in the Northwest Territories.

Probably one of the most difficult pictures to produce in the collection from a technical standpoint is that showing the converter aisle inside the International Nickel Company's smelter at Sudbury, Ont., where a combination of smoky sunlight filtering through high overhead skylights, flames from the furnaces and a bank of 36 high-powered flashbulbs created difficult problems in exposure and color balance.

In the accompanying text, Mr. Roberts gives a brief history of Canada's development and, in addition, provides almost a full page of descriptive text to accompany each of Mr. Hunter's photographs.

LESLE RUTH HOWARD, daughter of the British actor, the late Leslie Howard, believes the airplane in which her father lost his life was shot down by the Germans during the Second World War because they believed Winston Churchill was a passenger.

Howard was aboard a British commercial airliner en route from Lisbon to England in June, 1943, when six German fighters attacked it. It sank in the Bay of Biscay. Churchill at the time was returning to London from a Big Three meeting at Algiers.

Miss Howard expresses her opinion in A Quite Remarkable Father, a biography of the actor (Longmans, Green).

She depicts Howard as an actor who relied on technique rather than emotion in his performances. She said he was a hypochondriac but a devoted and indulgent father.

The book spans his career from his birth as Leslie Howard Stainer in 1893 through his role as actor, director and producer to his death at the age of 50. The author now is married to Robert Dale-Harris and lives in Toronto.

Books— and Authors

Royal Family Portrait

A new paperback edition of The Royal Family, Pierre Berton's lively portrait of the members of the House of Windsor from Victoria to Elizabeth II, has just been released in Canada by McClelland & Stewart.

The book by the popular columnist, author of the award-winning volumes Klondike and The Mysterious North, received both bouquets and brickbats on first publication — both, curiously enough, arising from the same reason. This was the crispness and candor with which Berton portrayed the sovereign and her family as human beings — with human virtues and faults — instead of the symbolic figures to which the public has been accustomed.

Still one of the "frankest royal stories ever told" The Royal Family is particularly timely in again affording its engaging picture of the Queen as a flesh and blood person without the "iron mask of royalty" to those who see her in Canada in the next few weeks only as a distant figure in the royal car or on the television screen.

Come in 'The Side Door'

Dora Hood's book, The Side Door (Ryerson) is the delightful and informative story of her 26 years as a second-hand bookseller in Toronto.

In her first years of business she "determined that my main objective should be the supplying of out-of-print and rare Canadian works." Her customers ranged round the world, United States libraries, Australian historians, the government of India, and an increasing number of Canadian collectors.

In the preparation of her own catalogues and in the search for rare Canadian books and pamphlets, Mrs. Hood made a close and unending study of catalogues and bibliographies. To the reference books she consulted must now be added The Side Door, a book of unusual value to collectors of Canadians.

The Side Door is as much a book about people as about

No Match for Kipling

KESSEL'S JUNGLE UNCONVINCING

IN SO FAR as Joseph Kessel's novel, "The Lion" (Knopf, Inc.) is about a little girl and a lion, it is a good story and a very well-constructed one. In so far as it describes an African game reserve, the lives of the animals who shelter on it, and the strange, proud Masai warriors who live on blood and milk, it is often startlingly informative about simple lives which arouse our curiosity and sympathy. But where "The Lion" is a novel about deep spiritual feelings it will, in some readers at least, arouse feelings of embarrassment and unease.

For the narrator, the intelligent Parisian, has gone to the game reserve in Kenya in order to escape from his civilized self, to get into tune with true participation mystique. At the waterhole, where he first meets the 12-year-old Patricia, he feels her to be "outside, indeed beyond the normal human pattern." And when, at last, Patricia introduces him to her lion, now wild but still amenable to his former owners, "everything appeared in a new light, a profoundly modified perspective." He can understand and sympathize with Patricia's neurotic, terrified mother, her great bull of a father, who has sublimated his hunting instincts in guardianship. But the child, with her "raw primitive need" for her lion, her jealousy of the lionesses and cubs, her knowledge of the animals' "master world," satisfies in him a need beyond human understanding.

JOSEPH KESSEL

Well, the search for an old Adam is a common one and today our mystics manques very frequently find their Noble

Savages in these terms: "these wild creatures drawing me to a primal happiness older than mankind itself." But I do not myself believe there was once a Golden Age when the lion lay down with the little child, and I am not sympathetic to creative energy that expends itself in these particular dreams.

It is interesting to compare The Lion with Kipling's Jungle Books, to wonder why the latter succeeds at all levels and the former only on the levels of story-construction and information. I think it has to do with self-consciousness. Mowgli never verbalized his emotions and never saw himself in the eyes of the beholders.

Mr. Kessel's narrator examines and theorizes over his every feeling, while Patricia, the child of nature, knows perfectly well what an extraordinary little girl she is to love and be loved by a lion. In less exalted language than Mr. Kessel would use, she is a little show-off, and I at least am not dissatisfied when her desire to display her ability to tame the untameable ends in tragedy.

The translation is well done by Peter Green.

Daily Colonist 7
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1959

They Shot Their Way to Gallows Death . . .

TWO ROPES, TWO BULLETS

Last week B.C. crime writer and historian Cecil Clark described the reckless exploits of Vancouver's six-man Hyslop gang of bank robbers, whose crimes included the killing of a young bank teller. Eighteen hours after the teller's death two of the gang, Earl Dunbar and Charles Russell are caught in a suburban dwelling and charged with murder. Their landlord, Fred Healey, is booked as an accessory.

Chicago police have been alerted for two others, Jack Lawler and David Anderson, while Vancouver police conduct an intensive week-long search for the leader, Jack "Red" Hyslop and his pal, G. F. "Blackie" Lawson. Finally police get an underworld tip that the two gunmen are changing from one secret hideout to another—to the east end Oaks Rooms. They'll switch quarters around 8 that night. The date is Jan. 22, 1936.

PART II

IT WAS TEEMING with rain that evening as squads of uniformed police and detectives, headed by Chief Const. W. W. Foster, CID Supt. Harold Darling and Det. Insp. Gordon Grant spread out just after 8 p.m. around the cheap and second-rate Oaks Rooms in the 700 block East Hastings.

Inside the building, in a second storey room at the end of a corridor, two haggard, nervous men sat in the dark with their thoughts. One was 23-year-old Jack Hyslop, the red-haired and freckle-faced gang leader, the other 30-year-old Blackie Lawson.

Elsewhere in the city they'd been cooped up for 168 hours in some secret hideout; hours of chain smoking, planning, arguing. Hours filled also with fear and foreboding. From radio newscasts they were continually reminded that they were focus of the greatest manhunt in Vancouver's history.

When they decided to change hideouts, one of them had used the 'phone. It was then some criminal "friend," Judas-like and anxious for police favor, had passed the word. They had their guns, but only ten rounds of ammunition.

They could get no more; they were too "hot." Like two tarred rats in a cellar, the other rats shunned them. Not from moral scruples, but fear. Fear the law would finger them.

So the pair had slipped furtively after dark into the Oaks Rooms, paid for a room, and now behind its locked door lay or sat on the bed smoking and debating their next move. Perhaps it was Hyslop who, with some sudden impatient impulse went over to the window and drew the curtain back an inch or two. Maybe he saw under the downpour outside figures here and there on the glistening sidewalk, or possibly spotted the occasional flicker of a police flashlight at the side of the building.

Maybe it was the incessant barking of that Alsatian dog chained up in an open woodshed in the nearby alley that gave them alarm. It barked because just out of its reach sat Det. Alan Hoare on a box, gun in hand, watching the foot of a long, wooden fire-escape.

PERHAPS IT WAS the import of these signs that made the pair seal their pact, an agreement,

Daily Colonist
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1936

The late DET. SGT. ALSTON T. HANN
... first at death door

by the way, that wasn't reached under the influence of drugs or liquor.

As Det. Sergt. Alston T. "Cap" Hann, burly Newfoundland-born member of the detective team of Pettit and Hann, was about to mount the stairway at the end of the corridor, two muffled pistol shots sounded in split second succession from the end of the building. Racing in the direction of the sound, Hann passed the out-thrust heads of one or two tenants, inquiring looks on their faces. With a sideways nod in the direction of Room 40, one remarked, "in there," as he passed, gun in hand. Next moment his knuckles were pounding on the panels.

"Open up in there. Police!" was his shouted command. But there was only silence—silence broken by the distant sound of a girl's laughter in some other part of the building.

Other detectives joined Hann who waited no longer, but crashed the door open with his shoulder.

The room was dark and filled with the acrid fumes of powder. With a quick flick of a light switch Hann saw his quarry, and the knot of detectives who crowded in after him saw why they were silent. The fugitives lay on the floor dead, their bodies at right angles to one another, their feet almost touching. Apparently they had stood facing one another in their last second of life, and both being left handed had fired a bullet through his left temple. They must have fired almost in unison. Hyslop's hand still grasped his .38 Smith & Wesson, and near Lawson's hand lay his .38 Iver Johnson. Both guns were fully loaded, except for one fired shell in each chamber.

Police eyes swept the scantily-furnished room to note a chair, a cheap bed and dresser and a wash stand. On the bed lay the tan-colored snap brim hat that Hyslop wore when he helped rob the Bank of Commerce on Powell Street; near it was a pair of horn-rimmed glasses, probably those used by Dunbar when he drove the getaway cabs. There were no other arms or ammunition in the room, and of the $4,300 the gang had stolen in the past month, all that was found on the dead men was $136.

IT WAS BY coincidence that that very afternoon Rod Lawson, Blackie's younger brother, had been picked up with another couple of hoods carrying a gun. Someone spoke of it in the room, and there was conjecture whether one day he'd meet Blackie's violent end.

Back at headquarters the two girl friends of

Lawson and Hyslop, Morton and Gorry, still held by the police after their surprise arrest in a west end flat, had now something additional to say.

It seems they had gone with Hyslop and Lawson in Fred Healey's car from the East 10th hideout, to another house of Healey's on East 11th. Leaving the two gunmen there, Healey and the girls returned for Russell and Dunbar but when they turned the block and saw police activity in front of the East 10th premises, Healey made a quick jog down a side street and returned to 11th Avenue. No charge was laid against the girls. They were turned loose.

At an inquest, a couple of days later, on the bodies of Hyslop and Lawson, they were positively identified as two of the men in the Powell Street bank holdup, when young Hobbs was shot. Hyslop was also identified as one of the men in the Royal Bank holdup on Commercial Drive in December, and he was also recognized as the man who held up the Stratford Hotel beer parlor a few days before that, relieving waiters and customers of $100.

THREE DAYS after the inquest came word of the last two members of the mob, 26-year-old Jimmie Lawler, and 20-year-old Dave Anderson. By 'phone and wire the CID had traced them from city to city eastward, until it was deduced they were heading for Chicago. When Lawler stepped up to the general delivery wicket in Chicago to ask for a letter, the man behind the wicket gave a signal, and in a matter of seconds a police gun was in Lawler's back, and police hands were rapidly searching him for weapons.

He led detectives to the hotel suite where a burly sergeant was in ahead of him to grab his partner, Davidson, before he could reach a gun. Two girls were in the room with Davidson.

Chief Foster's wire had said "armed, may be dangerous," and it wasn't needless advice. There was a loaded gun on the kitchen table, another in a dresser drawer.

By the end of a week or so both men were back in Vancouver to stand trial for the attempted armed robbery of Spurgeon's jewelry in New Westminster, for shooting with intent at a New Westminster policeman, and participation in the Royal Bank robbery in Vancouver.

It was April and spring when Dunbar and Russell engaged in their fight for life in the Vancouver assize court. Confederates in crime, they turned out to be enemies at law, for in the shadow of the gallows gang comradeship quickly dissipates.

There were 50 witnesses on hand for the trial, and A. B. McDonald and Norman Levin acted for the Crown. Representing Russell were T. F. Hurley and Harry Blowey, and Paul McD. Kerr and N. W. Spinks appeared for Dunbar.

Donald McNeill, now a Crown witness, told of lending his car to the men in the 10th Avenue house on the morning of the robbery; of not getting it back, and being told it was "too hot."

Mrs. Albert Lentz of 8th Avenue told of seeing it abandoned by two men half an hour after the robbery, men who headed toward 10th Avenue.

THE TRAGIC STORY of the shooting of young bank teller W. H. Hobbs was outlined, and L. P. Gordy, a longshoreman, who'd been eating in the Hamilton Cafe near the Powell Street bank, told how he watched the gunman come out; how Russell pocketed his gun on the pavement, then coolly lit a cigaret, passing the pack to a companion before they stepped into the getaway cab driven by Dunbar.

By witnesses in the bank Russell was identified as the man who fired the shot that killed young Hobbs, and in addition there was the ballistic evidence that linked his gun with the fatal shooting.

Finally Russell and Dunbar each took the stand in their separate defence.

Dunbar said he drove the getaway cars in two bank robberies under duress; the threat of a gun held by Hyslop (now conveniently dead) backed up by Lawson and Russell. He couldn't do anything else but comply, was his plea.

Smooth spoken and well dressed "Chuck" Rus-

JACK "RED"
... in the

sell flatly denied being of the robbery. He said, late because they or five days. The men pants of the premises out and did some shop and returned to the in time to hear the robbery. To those in expression of being self-doubtedly a man with mind.

Dunbar was the v he was near to collapse

IN HIS SUMMATION Aulay Morrison said things, that Russell's than proved; and of "compulsion is not a pulsion is of such a i cused a mere physical was out an hour, to "guilty," and Russell to death.

Fred Healey, the 41- who had furnished sa the murder, was found sory after the fact. A tice apparently found him 15 years!

Finally, there was from Scotland, the li door of the 10th Aven police raid. The cha visiting a friend." H as an accessory, but charge for lack of evi tice Morrison had a w the courtroom. As t dock, the Chief Justice

"Have you ever he "Yes, My Lord, I "He lived a very Chief Justice in his Nova Scotian tone, "a

... It Was a Short But Pain-Filled Road BULLETS FOR THE GANG

lorry, still held arrest in a west
ditional to say,
yslop and Law-
the East 10th
's on East 11th.
Healey and the nbar but when lice activity in Healey made a ad returned to id against the

s later, on the were positively
e Powell Street
as shot. Hyslop
e men in the al Drive in Deed as the man
beer parlor a alters and cus-

est came word
nob, 26-year-old
Dave Anderson.
d traced them
it was deduced
When Lawler
very wicket in nan behind the tter of seconds
ack, and police
n for weapons.
suite where a im to grab his
d reach a gun.
Davidson.
armed, may be s advice. There table, another

both men were ial for the atgeon's jewelry with intent at d participation
ncover.
in Dunbar and life in the Van-in crime, they w, for in the adanship quickly

nd for the trial,
an Levin acted
ssell were T. F.
Paul McD. Kerr
unbar.

n witness, told he 10th Avenue
ery; of not get-
"too hot."
e told of seeing hour after the d 10th Avenue.

he shooting of
was outlined,
an, who'd been ar the Powell
d the gunman his gun on the et, passing the stepped into the sell was identi-shot that killed

there was the gun with the

each took the way cars in two he threat of a remiently dead).
ill. He couldn't his plea. d "Chuck" Rus-

JACK "RED" HYSLOP
... in the dark, his end

sell flatly denied being in the bank at the time of the robbery. He said he got up late that morning, late because they'd been partying for four or five days. The men had gone, and only occupants of the premises were the girls. He went out and did some shopping in Commercial Drive and returned to the house about 12.30 p.m. just in time to hear the news broadcast about a bank robbery. To those in court, Russell gave the impression of being self-possessed at all times, undoubtedly a man with iron nerve and a quick mind.

Dunbar was the weaker type and at times he was near to collapse.

IN HIS SUMMATION to the jury Chief Justice Aulay Morrison remarked, among other things, that Russell's alibi was more suggested than proved; and of Dunbar's defence he said "compulsion is not a defence unless the compulsion is of such a nature as to make the accused a mere physical instrument." The jury was out an hour, to return with a verdict of "guilty," and Russell and Dunbar were sentenced to death.

Fred Healey, the 41-year-old ex-Winnipeg tailor who had furnished sanctuary for the gang after the murder, was found guilty of being an accessory after the fact. A situation the Chief Justice apparently found so repugnant that he gave him 15 years!

Finally, there was Walter Davis, not long out from Scotland, the little man who opened the door of the 10th Avenue house the night of the police raid. The character who said he "was visiting a friend." He, too, had been charged as an accessory, but the Crown withdrew the charge for lack of evidence. However, Chief Justice Morrison had a word for him before he left the courtroom. As he stood in the prisoner's dock, the Chief Justice asked him:

"Have you ever heard of Socrates?"

"Yes, My Lord, I have," came the answer.

"He lived a very long time ago," said the Chief Justice in his precise, somewhat clipped Nova Scotian tone, "and he made a practice of

Concluding Another True Police Adventure By CECIL CLARK

never looking into a tavern or getting himself mixed up with tumultuous or ill-mannered people."

He paused, then gravely went on:

"You look as if you deserve a better fate than to be standing in the dock in front of me. But," he added, "don't forget—it's only withdrawn! ... And if you don't watch your step you may be back here sooner than you think!"

LAWLER AND DAVIDSON, brought back from their Chicago jaunt, got ten years each for their part in the pre-Christmas raid on the Royal Bank in Vancouver. A month later they appeared again before Chief Justice Morrison, this time at the New Westminster assize, and got another ten years for their attempted armed robbery of Spurgeon's jewelry store. A youth called Godbold, driver of their getaway car, kept them company with a ten-year sentence.

Summer passed and then at 6.45 a.m. in the rain-laden chill of Nov. 6, Charles Russell was taken out of his Oakalla cell to line up on the scaffold with two Nicola Indians, Eneas and Richardson George, who had clubbed to death Dominion police constable F. G. Gilsborne on an Indian reserve two and half years previously.

Russell stepped unwaveringly on to the trap, smoking a cigarette, which he spat out before the rope was adjusted.

Major T. S. Stewart, of the Salvation Army, who had spent the night with him, stood beside him on the platform. When Russell dropped from sight, Major Stewart looked down in the cavity beside him and remarked:

"His soul is in Heaven. He was a fine boy," a sentiment open to debate by relatives of the young bank teller ruthlessly murdered.

Three weeks later, on November 27, Major Stewart accompanied Earl Dunbar to his 6 a.m. rendezvous with Canada's hangman.

Dunbar was the fifth man to die before the

GEORGE "BLACKIE" LAWSON
... stalked by fear

curtain finally rang down on the bloodstained career of the Hyslop gang.

All young fellows who started out as car stealing kids, and somehow chose to be done with life by the time they were 30—by two ropes, two bullets and two 20-year sentences!

THE STAMP PACKET

By R. M. Angus

INTERIM ISSUE DUE FROM NORFOLK ISLE

ACCORDING to the Australian news and information bureau, the following interim stamp issue will be released by Norfolk Island on July 6, pending completion of designs for the new definitive series. The interim stamps will be of the 3d. and 2s. denominations, in the 1947 Ball Bay design, reissued in green and deep blue respectively.

On Aug. 17, the 3d. and 2s. commemoratives of 1956 for the landing of the Pitcairn Islanders, will be withdrawn from sale at Norfolk Island and at philatelic sections of the postmaster-general's department.

The second stamp in the Australian flora series will be released on July 15. It will be the 3s. denomination and will depict the waratah flower in red. Designer is Margaret Stones. A Christmas Island (Australian territory in the Indian Ocean) registration envelope bearing an embossed 30c stamp was placed on sale on May 27.

★ ★ ★

The Crown agents report that orders have been placed by Barbados for aerogrammes bearing a reproduction in two colors of the current 12c stamp. Fiji has also ordered two new values of aerogrammes bearing an adaption of the current 1d. postage stamp (Annikoni portrait) but in the following values and colors: 6d. green, and 9d. magenta. Exact date of issue is not known. Postal envelopes in two colors, black and cobalt blue, bearing a reproduction of the current 3d. postage stamp, have been ordered by Nigeria.

The annual health stamp issue will be released by New Zealand on Sept. 16. It will consist of two values, 2d. plus 1d. and 3d. plus 1d. Designs will depict native birds. Miniature sheets of six stamps will be available in each denomination.

Daily Colonist 9
SUNDAY, JULY 10, 1949

Does It Take Artist to Appreciate Art?

Some Say Yes, Some Say No

By BERT BINNY

MARILYN STROUTS

SOME AUTHORITY—I can't for the very life of me remember who gave it as his opinion that, of all the arts, theatre was the only one which could be appreciated by an audience or by spectators who had no previous knowledge of the art itself.

This would be tantamount to saying that it required musicians to appreciate music, sculptors to see the virtues (or vices) in a statue and painters to discern the beauties in a picture.

On the other hand you could grab just anyone at all and hustle him off to the theatre and he would get something out of it.

Obviously, this is an opinion which requires examination, qualification and a lot of consideration and, even then, it could be wrangled over endlessly.

But no matter how true or untrue it is, it forms a delightful proposition to haul out of the hat and present unexpectedly to artists or actors or musicians.

I did just this to 15-year-old Marilyn Strouts whose talents and interests are centred on the graphic arts rather than music or the stage.

Marilyn carefully avoided committing herself either on music or on the stage but, on her own chosen subject of pictures and painting, she had an opinion.

"Without any training at all," she said, "people can get a general impression from art but not a detailed one."

"People," she added, with the air of one who has hit upon the solution to a knotty problem, "know what they like!"

Marilyn herself knows what she likes. What she may come to like in the future is another matter, but she recognizes that, too.

She doesn't, for instance, like modern sculpture. "But," says she, "maybe I don't know anything about it?" And this qualification looks like a partial victory anyway for the quoted authority.

Marilyn likes color, particularly water color. She likes "old masters," excepting van Gogh. She mentions Rembrandt and Michael Angelo, some van Dyke and the "Mona Lisa."

Marilyn's entry in a national competition for "Museum Week" posters in 1956 was judged the best in Victoria and fifth in all Canada and the contest produced 60 entries in Victoria alone.

A poster which she did for the Quartermasters' Club this year was third in competition.

"I don't like doing people," says she. "They all look alike!"

At this point Marilyn's mother remonstrated at this seemingly extravagant statement.

"They don't," she said. "They do when I've finished with them!" said Marilyn.

Miss Strouts has been studying art since 1954, first at the Art Gallery on Moss Street and then at the Norfolk Galleries. Now she is working on sculpture with Peggy Walton Packard.

Marilyn was art editor of Central Junior High School's "Centralia" as well as Grade 9 president on the Students' Council and president of her division.

One of her charcoal sketches, drawn at the schools' symphony concerts, was reproduced in The Colonist.

She is very interested in sports, particularly skating. In the annual Victoria Figure Skating Club show she was a Milkmaid in 1959, participated in the polka in 1958 and was a mountie in 1957. From this last performance she derived a special delight. Her father, R. W. Strouts, is a member of the force.

In 1958, partnered by Doug Jubb, Marilyn won the VFS junior dance competition and this year, with the same partner, she took the senior. Also this year, with Bryce Swetnam, she won the junior bronze dance contest.

She attends the summer school of skating at Kelowna, last year headed by Shirley Ingham.

Marilyn also likes swimming and track. She takes an active interest in all sports that come her way but time or the lack of it prevents her from appearing with rep teams.

You can't, after all, do everything.

SUNDAY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

- ACROSS
- 1 Endure
 - 5 Atmospheric disturbance
 - 10 Manila hemp
 - 15 Deceived
 - 20 A void (pl.)
 - 21 Country of Asia
 - 22 Part of foot (pl.)
 - 23 Growing out
 - 24 By
 - 25 99 (Rom. num.)
 - 26 Symbol for iridium
 - 27 Printer's measure
 - 28 Dried tubers of East Indian orchids
 - 29 Roman number
 - 30 Prefix: not
 - 31 Counsellor
 - 32 City of Rumania
 - 36 — Johnson, woman explorer
 - 37 To ape
 - 40 Primped
 - 42 Place much frequented
 - 44 Went before
 - 45 Finger
 - 47 Make lace edging
 - 48 Paid attention to
 - 49 Wing
 - 52 A gallant
 - 53 A duplicate
 - 54 White
 - 57 S. American wood used
 - 58 Yankee Indian
 - 59 To place
 - 62 Chaote
 - 63 Part of hand
 - 64 Man's nickname
 - 67 Part of Bible (ab.)
 - 69 Hour of day
 - 70 Anything showy
 - 71 Pronoun
 - 72 Babylonian deity
 - 73 Lifts spirits of
 - 76 Head covering
 - 77 Church officer
 - 78 Things in succession
 - 80 Oppose
 - 81 Pronoun
 - 82 Spends time being inactive
 - 83 U.S. soldier
 - 84 Faucet
 - 85 Symbol for tin
 - 87 City of Moab (Bib.)
 - 88 Den
 - 89 Ester of acetic acid
 - 92 Stupifies
 - 95 Syllable of scale
 - 96 Story
 - 100 Cylindrical
 - 102 Native of New Zealand
 - 104 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 105 Hypothetical
 - 106 Symbol for force
 - 107 Poem
 - 108 Great Lake
 - 109 U.S. soldier
 - 111 White
 - 112 Part of ship
 - 114 Warded off
 - 115 Cling with strong attachment
 - 117 Citrus fruit
 - 119 Fortunate (India)
 - 120 Perform
 - 121 Aeriform fluid
 - 122 Supports
 - 124 Table
 - 125 Miscellaneous collection
 - 127 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 128 Cuts in one stroke
 - 129 Feign sickness
 - 130 Genus of humming birds
 - 131 Implements
 - 132 Fruit (pl.)
 - 133 Pronoun
 - 142 Float
 - 144 Dross
 - 145 Symbol for silver
 - 146 Earth goddess
 - 147 Worms
 - 149 French for "and"
 - 150 Printer's measure
 - 152 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 153 The gods
 - 154 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 156 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 157 Priggle
 - 159 French composer
 - 161 Fortune tellers
 - 162 Biblical weeds
 - 163 Divert
 - 164 Catch in a gusset
 - 165 Den
 - 166 Ester of acetic acid
 - 167 Syllable of scale
 - 169 Cylindrical
 - 172 Native of New Zealand
 - 174 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 175 Hypothetical
 - 176 Symbol for force
 - 177 Poem
 - 178 Great Lake
 - 179 U.S. soldier
 - 181 White
 - 182 Part of ship
 - 184 Warded off
 - 185 Cling with strong attachment
 - 187 Citrus fruit
 - 189 Fortunate (India)
 - 190 Perform
 - 191 Aeriform fluid
 - 192 Supports
 - 194 Table
 - 195 Miscellaneous collection
 - 197 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 198 Cuts in one stroke
 - 199 Feign sickness
 - 200 Genus of humming birds
 - 201 Implements
 - 202 Fruit (pl.)
 - 203 Pronoun
 - 212 Float
 - 214 Dross
 - 215 Symbol for silver
 - 216 Earth goddess
 - 217 Worms
 - 219 French for "and"
 - 220 Printer's measure
 - 222 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 223 The gods
 - 224 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 226 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 227 Priggle
 - 229 French composer
 - 231 Fortune tellers
 - 232 Biblical weeds
 - 233 Divert
 - 234 Catch in a gusset
 - 235 Den
 - 236 Ester of acetic acid
 - 237 Syllable of scale
 - 239 Cylindrical
 - 242 Native of New Zealand
 - 244 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 245 Hypothetical
 - 246 Symbol for force
 - 247 Poem
 - 248 Great Lake
 - 249 U.S. soldier
 - 251 White
 - 252 Part of ship
 - 254 Warded off
 - 255 Cling with strong attachment
 - 257 Citrus fruit
 - 259 Fortunate (India)
 - 260 Perform
 - 261 Aeriform fluid
 - 262 Supports
 - 264 Table
 - 265 Miscellaneous collection
 - 267 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 268 Cuts in one stroke
 - 269 Feign sickness
 - 270 Genus of humming birds
 - 271 Implements
 - 272 Fruit (pl.)
 - 273 Pronoun
 - 282 Float
 - 284 Dross
 - 285 Symbol for silver
 - 286 Earth goddess
 - 287 Worms
 - 289 French for "and"
 - 290 Printer's measure
 - 292 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 293 The gods
 - 294 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 296 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 297 Priggle
 - 299 French composer
 - 301 Fortune tellers
 - 302 Biblical weeds
 - 303 Divert
 - 304 Catch in a gusset
 - 305 Den
 - 306 Ester of acetic acid
 - 307 Syllable of scale
 - 309 Cylindrical
 - 312 Native of New Zealand
 - 314 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 315 Hypothetical
 - 316 Symbol for force
 - 317 Poem
 - 318 Great Lake
 - 319 U.S. soldier
 - 321 White
 - 322 Part of ship
 - 324 Warded off
 - 325 Cling with strong attachment
 - 327 Citrus fruit
 - 329 Fortunate (India)
 - 330 Perform
 - 331 Aeriform fluid
 - 332 Supports
 - 334 Table
 - 335 Miscellaneous collection
 - 337 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 338 Cuts in one stroke
 - 339 Feign sickness
 - 340 Genus of humming birds
 - 341 Implements
 - 342 Fruit (pl.)
 - 343 Pronoun
 - 352 Float
 - 354 Dross
 - 355 Symbol for silver
 - 356 Earth goddess
 - 357 Worms
 - 359 French for "and"
 - 360 Printer's measure
 - 362 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 363 The gods
 - 364 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 366 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 367 Priggle
 - 369 French composer
 - 371 Fortune tellers
 - 372 Biblical weeds
 - 373 Divert
 - 374 Catch in a gusset
 - 375 Den
 - 376 Ester of acetic acid
 - 377 Syllable of scale
 - 379 Cylindrical
 - 382 Native of New Zealand
 - 384 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 385 Hypothetical
 - 386 Symbol for force
 - 387 Poem
 - 388 Great Lake
 - 389 U.S. soldier
 - 391 White
 - 392 Part of ship
 - 394 Warded off
 - 395 Cling with strong attachment
 - 397 Citrus fruit
 - 399 Fortunate (India)
 - 400 Perform
 - 401 Aeriform fluid
 - 402 Supports
 - 404 Table
 - 405 Miscellaneous collection
 - 407 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 408 Cuts in one stroke
 - 409 Feign sickness
 - 410 Genus of humming birds
 - 411 Implements
 - 412 Fruit (pl.)
 - 413 Pronoun
 - 422 Float
 - 424 Dross
 - 425 Symbol for silver
 - 426 Earth goddess
 - 427 Worms
 - 429 French for "and"
 - 430 Printer's measure
 - 432 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 433 The gods
 - 434 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 436 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 437 Priggle
 - 439 French composer
 - 441 Fortune tellers
 - 442 Biblical weeds
 - 443 Divert
 - 444 Catch in a gusset
 - 445 Den
 - 446 Ester of acetic acid
 - 447 Syllable of scale
 - 449 Cylindrical
 - 452 Native of New Zealand
 - 454 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 455 Hypothetical
 - 456 Symbol for force
 - 457 Poem
 - 458 Great Lake
 - 459 U.S. soldier
 - 461 White
 - 462 Part of ship
 - 464 Warded off
 - 465 Cling with strong attachment
 - 467 Citrus fruit
 - 469 Fortunate (India)
 - 470 Perform
 - 471 Aeriform fluid
 - 472 Supports
 - 474 Table
 - 475 Miscellaneous collection
 - 477 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 478 Cuts in one stroke
 - 479 Feign sickness
 - 480 Genus of humming birds
 - 481 Implements
 - 482 Fruit (pl.)
 - 483 Pronoun
 - 492 Float
 - 494 Dross
 - 495 Symbol for silver
 - 496 Earth goddess
 - 497 Worms
 - 499 French for "and"
 - 500 Printer's measure
 - 502 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 503 The gods
 - 504 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 506 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 507 Priggle
 - 509 French composer
 - 511 Fortune tellers
 - 512 Biblical weeds
 - 513 Divert
 - 514 Catch in a gusset
 - 515 Den
 - 516 Ester of acetic acid
 - 517 Syllable of scale
 - 519 Cylindrical
 - 522 Native of New Zealand
 - 524 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 525 Hypothetical
 - 526 Symbol for force
 - 527 Poem
 - 528 Great Lake
 - 529 U.S. soldier
 - 531 White
 - 532 Part of ship
 - 534 Warded off
 - 535 Cling with strong attachment
 - 537 Citrus fruit
 - 539 Fortunate (India)
 - 540 Perform
 - 541 Aeriform fluid
 - 542 Supports
 - 544 Table
 - 545 Miscellaneous collection
 - 547 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 548 Cuts in one stroke
 - 549 Feign sickness
 - 550 Genus of humming birds
 - 551 Implements
 - 552 Fruit (pl.)
 - 553 Pronoun
 - 562 Float
 - 564 Dross
 - 565 Symbol for silver
 - 566 Earth goddess
 - 567 Worms
 - 569 French for "and"
 - 570 Printer's measure
 - 572 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 573 The gods
 - 574 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 576 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 577 Priggle
 - 579 French composer
 - 581 Fortune tellers
 - 582 Biblical weeds
 - 583 Divert
 - 584 Catch in a gusset
 - 585 Den
 - 586 Ester of acetic acid
 - 587 Syllable of scale
 - 589 Cylindrical
 - 592 Native of New Zealand
 - 594 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 595 Hypothetical
 - 596 Symbol for force
 - 597 Poem
 - 598 Great Lake
 - 599 U.S. soldier
 - 601 White
 - 602 Part of ship
 - 604 Warded off
 - 605 Cling with strong attachment
 - 607 Citrus fruit
 - 609 Fortunate (India)
 - 610 Perform
 - 611 Aeriform fluid
 - 612 Supports
 - 614 Table
 - 615 Miscellaneous collection
 - 617 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 618 Cuts in one stroke
 - 619 Feign sickness
 - 620 Genus of humming birds
 - 621 Implements
 - 622 Fruit (pl.)
 - 623 Pronoun
 - 632 Float
 - 634 Dross
 - 635 Symbol for silver
 - 636 Earth goddess
 - 637 Worms
 - 639 French for "and"
 - 640 Printer's measure
 - 642 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 643 The gods
 - 644 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 646 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 647 Priggle
 - 649 French composer
 - 651 Fortune tellers
 - 652 Biblical weeds
 - 653 Divert
 - 654 Catch in a gusset
 - 655 Den
 - 656 Ester of acetic acid
 - 657 Syllable of scale
 - 659 Cylindrical
 - 662 Native of New Zealand
 - 664 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 665 Hypothetical
 - 666 Symbol for force
 - 667 Poem
 - 668 Great Lake
 - 669 U.S. soldier
 - 671 White
 - 672 Part of ship
 - 674 Warded off
 - 675 Cling with strong attachment
 - 677 Citrus fruit
 - 679 Fortunate (India)
 - 680 Perform
 - 681 Aeriform fluid
 - 682 Supports
 - 684 Table
 - 685 Miscellaneous collection
 - 687 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 688 Cuts in one stroke
 - 689 Feign sickness
 - 690 Genus of humming birds
 - 691 Implements
 - 692 Fruit (pl.)
 - 693 Pronoun
 - 702 Float
 - 704 Dross
 - 705 Symbol for silver
 - 706 Earth goddess
 - 707 Worms
 - 709 French for "and"
 - 710 Printer's measure
 - 712 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 713 The gods
 - 714 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 716 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 717 Priggle
 - 719 French composer
 - 721 Fortune tellers
 - 722 Biblical weeds
 - 723 Divert
 - 724 Catch in a gusset
 - 725 Den
 - 726 Ester of acetic acid
 - 727 Syllable of scale
 - 729 Cylindrical
 - 732 Native of New Zealand
 - 734 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 735 Hypothetical
 - 736 Symbol for force
 - 737 Poem
 - 738 Great Lake
 - 739 U.S. soldier
 - 741 White
 - 742 Part of ship
 - 744 Warded off
 - 745 Cling with strong attachment
 - 747 Citrus fruit
 - 749 Fortunate (India)
 - 750 Perform
 - 751 Aeriform fluid
 - 752 Supports
 - 754 Table
 - 755 Miscellaneous collection
 - 757 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 758 Cuts in one stroke
 - 759 Feign sickness
 - 760 Genus of humming birds
 - 761 Implements
 - 762 Fruit (pl.)
 - 763 Pronoun
 - 772 Float
 - 774 Dross
 - 775 Symbol for silver
 - 776 Earth goddess
 - 777 Worms
 - 779 French for "and"
 - 780 Printer's measure
 - 782 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 783 The gods
 - 784 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 786 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 787 Priggle
 - 789 French composer
 - 791 Fortune tellers
 - 792 Biblical weeds
 - 793 Divert
 - 794 Catch in a gusset
 - 795 Den
 - 796 Ester of acetic acid
 - 797 Syllable of scale
 - 799 Cylindrical
 - 802 Native of New Zealand
 - 804 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 805 Hypothetical
 - 806 Symbol for force
 - 807 Poem
 - 808 Great Lake
 - 809 U.S. soldier
 - 811 White
 - 812 Part of ship
 - 814 Warded off
 - 815 Cling with strong attachment
 - 817 Citrus fruit
 - 819 Fortunate (India)
 - 820 Perform
 - 821 Aeriform fluid
 - 822 Supports
 - 824 Table
 - 825 Miscellaneous collection
 - 827 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 828 Cuts in one stroke
 - 829 Feign sickness
 - 830 Genus of humming birds
 - 831 Implements
 - 832 Fruit (pl.)
 - 833 Pronoun
 - 842 Float
 - 844 Dross
 - 845 Symbol for silver
 - 846 Earth goddess
 - 847 Worms
 - 849 French for "and"
 - 850 Printer's measure
 - 852 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 853 The gods
 - 854 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 856 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 857 Priggle
 - 859 French composer
 - 861 Fortune tellers
 - 862 Biblical weeds
 - 863 Divert
 - 864 Catch in a gusset
 - 865 Den
 - 866 Ester of acetic acid
 - 867 Syllable of scale
 - 869 Cylindrical
 - 872 Native of New Zealand
 - 874 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 875 Hypothetical
 - 876 Symbol for force
 - 877 Poem
 - 878 Great Lake
 - 879 U.S. soldier
 - 881 White
 - 882 Part of ship
 - 884 Warded off
 - 885 Cling with strong attachment
 - 887 Citrus fruit
 - 889 Fortunate (India)
 - 890 Perform
 - 891 Aeriform fluid
 - 892 Supports
 - 894 Table
 - 895 Miscellaneous collection
 - 897 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 898 Cuts in one stroke
 - 899 Feign sickness
 - 900 Genus of humming birds
 - 901 Implements
 - 902 Fruit (pl.)
 - 903 Pronoun
 - 912 Float
 - 914 Dross
 - 915 Symbol for silver
 - 916 Earth goddess
 - 917 Worms
 - 919 French for "and"
 - 920 Printer's measure
 - 922 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 923 The gods
 - 924 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 926 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 927 Priggle
 - 929 French composer
 - 931 Fortune tellers
 - 932 Biblical weeds
 - 933 Divert
 - 934 Catch in a gusset
 - 935 Den
 - 936 Ester of acetic acid
 - 937 Syllable of scale
 - 939 Cylindrical
 - 942 Native of New Zealand
 - 944 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 945 Hypothetical
 - 946 Symbol for force
 - 947 Poem
 - 948 Great Lake
 - 949 U.S. soldier
 - 951 White
 - 952 Part of ship
 - 954 Warded off
 - 955 Cling with strong attachment
 - 957 Citrus fruit
 - 959 Fortunate (India)
 - 960 Perform
 - 961 Aeriform fluid
 - 962 Supports
 - 964 Table
 - 965 Miscellaneous collection
 - 967 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 968 Cuts in one stroke
 - 969 Feign sickness
 - 970 Genus of humming birds
 - 971 Implements
 - 972 Fruit (pl.)
 - 973 Pronoun
 - 982 Float
 - 984 Dross
 - 985 Symbol for silver
 - 986 Earth goddess
 - 987 Worms
 - 989 French for "and"
 - 990 Printer's measure
 - 992 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 993 The gods
 - 994 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 996 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 997 Priggle
 - 999 French composer
 - 1001 Fortune tellers
 - 1002 Biblical weeds
 - 1003 Divert
 - 1004 Catch in a gusset
 - 1005 Den
 - 1006 Ester of acetic acid
 - 1007 Syllable of scale
 - 1009 Cylindrical
 - 1012 Native of New Zealand
 - 1014 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 1015 Hypothetical
 - 1016 Symbol for force
 - 1017 Poem
 - 1018 Great Lake
 - 1019 U.S. soldier
 - 1021 White
 - 1022 Part of ship
 - 1024 Warded off
 - 1025 Cling with strong attachment
 - 1027 Citrus fruit
 - 1029 Fortunate (India)
 - 1030 Perform
 - 1031 Aeriform fluid
 - 1032 Supports
 - 1034 Table
 - 1035 Miscellaneous collection
 - 1037 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 1038 Cuts in one stroke
 - 1039 Feign sickness
 - 1040 Genus of humming birds
 - 1041 Implements
 - 1042 Fruit (pl.)
 - 1043 Pronoun
 - 1052 Float
 - 1054 Dross
 - 1055 Symbol for silver
 - 1056 Earth goddess
 - 1057 Worms
 - 1059 French for "and"
 - 1060 Printer's measure
 - 1062 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 1063 The gods
 - 1064 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 1066 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 1067 Priggle
 - 1069 French composer
 - 1071 Fortune tellers
 - 1072 Biblical weeds
 - 1073 Divert
 - 1074 Catch in a gusset
 - 1075 Den
 - 1076 Ester of acetic acid
 - 1077 Syllable of scale
 - 1079 Cylindrical
 - 1082 Native of New Zealand
 - 1084 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 1085 Hypothetical
 - 1086 Symbol for force
 - 1087 Poem
 - 1088 Great Lake
 - 1089 U.S. soldier
 - 1091 White
 - 1092 Part of ship
 - 1094 Warded off
 - 1095 Cling with strong attachment
 - 1097 Citrus fruit
 - 1099 Fortunate (India)
 - 1100 Perform
 - 1101 Aeriform fluid
 - 1102 Supports
 - 1104 Table
 - 1105 Miscellaneous collection
 - 1107 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 1108 Cuts in one stroke
 - 1109 Feign sickness
 - 1110 Genus of humming birds
 - 1111 Implements
 - 1112 Fruit (pl.)
 - 1113 Pronoun
 - 1122 Float
 - 1124 Dross
 - 1125 Symbol for silver
 - 1126 Earth goddess
 - 1127 Worms
 - 1129 French for "and"
 - 1130 Printer's measure
 - 1132 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 1133 The gods
 - 1134 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 1136 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 1137 Priggle
 - 1139 French composer
 - 1141 Fortune tellers
 - 1142 Biblical weeds
 - 1143 Divert
 - 1144 Catch in a gusset
 - 1145 Den
 - 1146 Ester of acetic acid
 - 1147 Syllable of scale
 - 1149 Cylindrical
 - 1152 Native of New Zealand
 - 1154 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 1155 Hypothetical
 - 1156 Symbol for force
 - 1157 Poem
 - 1158 Great Lake
 - 1159 U.S. soldier
 - 1161 White
 - 1162 Part of ship
 - 1164 Warded off
 - 1165 Cling with strong attachment
 - 1167 Citrus fruit
 - 1169 Fortunate (India)
 - 1170 Perform
 - 1171 Aeriform fluid
 - 1172 Supports
 - 1174 Table
 - 1175 Miscellaneous collection
 - 1177 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 1178 Cuts in one stroke
 - 1179 Feign sickness
 - 1180 Genus of humming birds
 - 1181 Implements
 - 1182 Fruit (pl.)
 - 1183 Pronoun
 - 1192 Float
 - 1194 Dross
 - 1195 Symbol for silver
 - 1196 Earth goddess
 - 1197 Worms
 - 1199 French for "and"
 - 1200 Printer's measure
 - 1202 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 1203 The gods
 - 1204 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 1206 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 1207 Priggle
 - 1209 French composer
 - 1211 Fortune tellers
 - 1212 Biblical weeds
 - 1213 Divert
 - 1214 Catch in a gusset
 - 1215 Den
 - 1216 Ester of acetic acid
 - 1217 Syllable of scale
 - 1219 Cylindrical
 - 1222 Native of New Zealand
 - 1224 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 1225 Hypothetical
 - 1226 Symbol for force
 - 1227 Poem
 - 1228 Great Lake
 - 1229 U.S. soldier
 - 1231 White
 - 1232 Part of ship
 - 1234 Warded off
 - 1235 Cling with strong attachment
 - 1237 Citrus fruit
 - 1239 Fortunate (India)
 - 1240 Perform
 - 1241 Aeriform fluid
 - 1242 Supports
 - 1244 Table
 - 1245 Miscellaneous collection
 - 1247 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 1248 Cuts in one stroke
 - 1249 Feign sickness
 - 1250 Genus of humming birds
 - 1251 Implements
 - 1252 Fruit (pl.)
 - 1253 Pronoun
 - 1262 Float
 - 1264 Dross
 - 1265 Symbol for silver
 - 1266 Earth goddess
 - 1267 Worms
 - 1269 French for "and"
 - 1270 Printer's measure
 - 1272 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 1273 The gods
 - 1274 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 1276 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 1277 Priggle
 - 1279 French composer
 - 1281 Fortune tellers
 - 1282 Biblical weeds
 - 1283 Divert
 - 1284 Catch in a gusset
 - 1285 Den
 - 1286 Ester of acetic acid
 - 1287 Syllable of scale
 - 1289 Cylindrical
 - 1292 Native of New Zealand
 - 1294 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 1295 Hypothetical
 - 1296 Symbol for force
 - 1297 Poem
 - 1298 Great Lake
 - 1299 U.S. soldier
 - 1301 White
 - 1302 Part of ship
 - 1304 Warded off
 - 1305 Cling with strong attachment
 - 1307 Citrus fruit
 - 1309 Fortunate (India)
 - 1310 Perform
 - 1311 Aeriform fluid
 - 1312 Supports
 - 1314 Table
 - 1315 Miscellaneous collection
 - 1317 Short for certain kind of dog
 - 1318 Cuts in one stroke
 - 1319 Feign sickness
 - 1320 Genus of humming birds
 - 1321 Implements
 - 1322 Fruit (pl.)
 - 1323 Pronoun
 - 1332 Float
 - 1334 Dross
 - 1335 Symbol for silver
 - 1336 Earth goddess
 - 1337 Worms
 - 1339 French for "and"
 - 1340 Printer's measure
 - 1342 Enslaves (ab.)
 - 1343 The gods
 - 1344 Short fleshy underground stem
 - 1346 Wrote "Clotel and the Hearth"
 - 1347 Priggle
 - 1349 French composer
 - 1351 Fortune tellers
 - 1352 Biblical weeds
 - 1353 Divert
 - 1354 Catch in a gusset
 - 1355 Den
 - 1356 Ester of acetic acid
 - 1357 Syllable of scale
 - 1359 Cylindrical
 - 1362 Native of New Zealand
 - 1364 Single shelled mollusk (pl.)
 - 1365 Hypothetical
 - 1366 Symbol for force
 - 1367 Poem
 - 1368 Great Lake
 - 1369 U.S. soldier
 - 1371 White
 - 1372 Part of ship
 - 1374 Warded off
 - 1375 Cling with strong attachment
 - 1377 Citrus fruit
 - 1379 Fortunate (India)
 - 1380 Perform
 - 1381 Aeriform fluid

KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT

By IRENE ROBERTSON

FOR the past week my mid-day diet has consisted of cold sandwiches and instant coffee.

For several days I've spent my entire lunch hour perched on an easy chair atop a little dais in the studio of Robert Wood, artist and portrait painter.

A young man of considerable talent, his handwork ranges from wood-carving and clay-modelling to landscape and portrait painting.

A life-like study of his wife hangs beside a startlingly natural self-portrait.

A canvas of Caledonia Avenue on a rainy day looks across at a section of Douglas Street.

A British Columbia logging road contrasts with a painting of London's ancient Waltham Abbey.

In this slightly Bohemian atmosphere of artists, artists' models, paint, easels and people, I've subjected myself to the almost monumental discipline of looking at a given object for 60 consecutive minutes. I've watched an unrecognizable blob of paint turn into a likeness of myself. I've been sitting for a portrait.

"Just relax," Mr. Wood told me. "Look at that little sculptured head on the window sill. I'm going to work on your eyes."

After 15 minutes I felt as relaxed as a fiddle string. At the end of an unblinking half hour I had the feeling that Mr. Wood wasn't the only one who'd have to work on my eyes. I was wondering how contact lenses compared to conventional-type glasses.

The little sculptured head has haunted me for days. It's superimposed itself on the features of friend, foe, and fellow worker. I'm plagued by the idea that I've met that little face before, waiting for a bus, maybe, or taking tickets at a bingo game.

After a week of sittings I've come to recognize some indisputable facts. I've learned that a series of triangles and rectangles, interspersed with straight and curved lines is not necessarily a mathematical problem; it is actually a painting of a green olive.

Furthermore, it's well-nigh impossible to look soulful while munching a cheese sandwich. The mysterious expression I'd been striving for has fallen by the wayside, replaced by a look of unappeased hunger.

Perhaps the most disconcerting of all is the realization that when a portrait painter asks a question he doesn't expect an answer. He expects you to keep your mouth closed so he can block in your lips.

First Lesson for Modeling

ROBERT WOOD and friend . . . the model was weary.

PHONEY MONEY

SOME 10 SECONDS after the first transition was made from using cows, billhooks, spades and common objects for trade to using ingots or coins, the first counterfeiter arrived.

It's a little hard to counterfeit a cow, or make a spade by hand that costs less to produce than can be gained from trading it, but ingots of lead washed with gold were hard to tell from ingots of gold—once.

And so it is with our present-day coins and notes—they can be produced cheaply and sold or traded for much more than the cost of production.

And the counterfeiter's best friend, his unpaid accomplice, is you. And me. How often do you look at the small change you get from a purchase.

And if you do look at it, how often do you look at the coins, rather than just count the denominations?

It's the same way with bills. Unless they are very poor, how many of us notice that we have been given a counterfeit?

No matter how carefully the mints of the world print or mint money, there is always someone who thinks he can do better.

And some of them do.

In the early days of minted coins in China, for instance, the top craftsmen among the horde of counterfeiters plaguing the government were put out of business in a unique way—the government hired them to work in the mint.

And very recently a European, noticing that the English gold sovereign is bought and sold at premium prices, decided to make his own.

He was a forger with a difference. As the sovereign is no longer official British coinage, he was immune from prosecution.

And to further confuse the issue, he decided that his sovereign would be better than the genuine one—he used a higher quality of gold in his counterfeit.

Unfortunately he was only one of a number of men counterfeiting the sovereign, and not all took as much pride in their product as he did!

Old as Coinage

The fight between mints and counterfeiters is intriguing—like a chess game where one side makes a move and it is countered by the opponent.

With bills, for instance, the veins of leaves, and cloth and metallic threads have all been woven

By Ted Shackleford

into banknote paper to foil forgers. And, of course, there are the small green flecks in the paper used for Canadian notes.

Generally, genuine bills are more clearly printed, with sharper impressions than the reproductions.

With coins many of the counterfeiters feel

"greasy" to the touch. And sometimes the milling around the edge is missing or imperfect.

Perhaps the best test of money, whether it is paper or metal, is the quality of the work in the finished product. No forger or group of forgers can hope to attain the perfection that a government's top experts can reach.

The recent finding of $1,300 in fake bills in Vancouver merely points up the fact that the forger is still with us and will be with us for a long, long time.

And if a forger is caught in Canada he will be in prison for a long, long time.

Making counterfeit money can draw a sentence of 14 years. Possession of counterfeits also draws up to 14 years. And having filings, clippings or bullion obtained from current coins can cost a man or woman five years' freedom.

The person who takes the filings or clippings from current coins, or who issues the defaced coins, is liable to 14 years' jail, as is anyone who "passes" counterfeits, or attempts to export them from Canada.

There's big money to be made from counterfeiting if you don't get caught, but Canada's RCMP, which helps look after the country's counterfeiters, is acknowledged one of the world's best police organizations.

Anyone who is unlucky enough to receive counterfeit money should give it to the police at once, together with all the information possible about the person who passed the spurious money.

And "all the information possible" includes a full description, licence number of the car used by the passer, description of the car and where and when the offence happened.

It's not smart to pass off a counterfeit coin to someone else. All of Canada backs Canada's official issues of money and any counterfeit money about weakens the country to the extent of its pretended value.

Counterfeits have been used to weaken and even topple governments. The Nazis tried it.

It's much better to do it the democratic way—at the polls.

ANAGRAM ANSWERS

- (1) RAPTURE
- (2) DEFIANT
- (3) ELASTIC
- (4) TREASON
- (5) BETWEEN

Daily Colonist 11
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1969

ADVICE TO MILADY

to

LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Whenever you see someone who seems to boldly defy Father Time, you can be assured that this is not an accident but the reward of effort. The indolent may think she is merely lucky, but a more accurate description would be industrious.

"You haven't changed in years," people tell Harriet Nelson, and this is true.

"I keep a record of my measurements, and for the past 14 years they have remained the same to the half-inch," Harriet confessed. "I was a dancer when I was younger and when I gave it up I substituted exercise. If I don't exercise I feel constricted."

"I had an aunt who just recently died at 80. She got out of a car as easily as I and she exercised every day, too," Harriet exclaimed.

"I have a pet peeve—a woman who is a slave to her scales. She'll go overboard on the size dress she feels she should wear. This is just a number that no one but the salesgirl knows."

"And I've seen women who pride themselves on how little they weigh, but their bodies are flabby and their faces are haggard and unattractive. The older a woman is, the more important it is for her to accompany dieting with exercise. But I don't mean an 'I-run-around-all-day' kind. It isn't that type of exercise that does the body good. A daily routine—an organized program—is needed."

"I have one I do for 15 minutes every morning, but if for some reason I have to miss, I do it before going to bed. It's a mistake to feel if something happens to your set time you can't substitute another."

"THERE IS NO EXCUSE for any girl or woman not to keep herself in shape," Harriet said with emphasis. "I know how swamped you feel with a house and family to manage, but somewhere during the day you can find that quarter of an hour for a workout. Save the time by lingering less over that second cup of coffee or talking on the telephone. And once you get started you'll be surprised how much it does for you."

"You'll feel better for it and bring pleasure to those around you. I'm quite sure that even if I were not on TV, I would use this same discipline to please my husband and my sons." (The Nelson's "Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," on ABC-TV, began as a radio show in 1944.)

"Do you think men should be equally considerate about keeping in shape?"

"Indeed I do," she replied. "Ozzie is in wonderful condition. He wore Rick's belt the other day and I was so pleased that his waist is still 32. He exercises and loves that whirl-pool bath."

"I'm for anything that brings up circulation," Harriet declared. "I get a massage once a week, but I don't expect it to reduce me. A good one stimulates the circulation, and that helps keep the body in condition. It can be relaxing if you don't talk but 'listen to the massage.' You get so much more out of it if you follow what the masseuse is doing."

"I'm really sold on a relaxing machine which I got for Christmas last year," she enthused. "I go to sleep when it is working on me, so I always ask someone to wake me in half an hour."

12 Daily Colonist
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1959

With Diet, EXERCISE

HARRIET NELSON . . . doesn't change.

"I THINK IT'S POSSIBLE to be attractive at any age but to exaggerate the importance of a wrinkle is a terrible thing. I pity women who are afraid they're growing unattractive. Some spend the whole day on themselves and end up with a well-preserved-look that is a horror. The effort shows too much. Keeping in condition is something to be done along with other things. The type of youth which is desirable and attractive includes the spirit of youth—the kind that comes from a balanced life."

"Yours is a young and happy family," I remarked.

"Yes," Harriet said with feeling. "We are very close. I realize there are many reasons for inharmonious relations between parents and teenagers. But I don't understand the 'I-wash-my-hands-of-my-children' attitude. That is immature and makes a poor parent. I don't mean to sound off as if I knew it all, but a teenager has neither an adult's equipment nor experience to meet problems, and a parent should be patient and understanding."

"I read in an interview the other day that Ricky said he was grateful that we kept after him about differences until we brought him around to our point of view. This was the first time I realized he was aware of it, and it pleased me so much," Harriet beamed. "Every parent has a fear of nagging."

Port Man W

K EVAN
ma ing his p lines.

He living wi few who in the a

This bury age, decided tha branched out int
Skin-diving
the war helped
He has take line of duty, has Studio portr
for Van Herd.
He took flyi
his pilot's licence Aerial photo of Canada and developed areas with the other!

Though he is out of the plac
Newspaper
west Vancouver
There's nev
first job was wit served in the No
After the na
in Alberta with h
But the trail
Work was a secure jobs only
So back to tanker.

Tiring of th
camera, he arriv portrait and indu
But again, t man on the Squ
Ambulance citati
Persevering
on Vancouver Isl
the office staff o
In his spare for aerial pictures

He has now
the Central Vanc
Van Herd co absorbing knowle
three years ago, t line in the busines
After all, he big money, espec taken into consid
He went to counter of a jewe
His reputatio

Boys' Town

H

BRITISH CO newest coun is just over thr
old, has a populat
and a credit balanc

It is called Boys and its inhabitant
loose, needy boys.

Situated on a ranch on the Ho
Highway, 100 mi
Vancouver, Boys
day will be the b such youngsters i terialize.

The project wa
by a group of Bri bia businessmen i give a sense of pu means of self-dev boys who otherw stray into idlene
quency.

Port Alberni's Man With a Camera Goes

By MARK BRUCE

KEVAN VAN HERD, former Royal Canadian Navy man, of Port Alberni, Vancouver Island, is advancing his photographic career along unusual but effective lines.

He is one of thousands in Canada who make their living with a camera, but he must be one of the very few who are professional photographers on the ground, in the air, and below the water.

This busy commercial photographer, born in Saskatchewan 36 years ago, decided that there was not enough excitement in his studio, so he branched out into underwater photography.

Skin-diving experience while he was in Bermuda with the navy during the war helped him along and he soon became a proficient diver again.

He has taken industrial shots in 60 feet of water and often, outside the line of duty, has done underwater salvaging jobs of one kind or another.

Studio portraits and underwater photographic work were still not enough for Van Herd.

He took flying lessons and eventually—in August of last year—received his pilot's licence. Next step, he says, is to buy an aircraft of his own.

Aerial photographs are in great demand in this fast-developing corner of Canada and the "Flying Dutchman" is a familiar sight over the semi-developed areas of the province, flying with one hand and photographing with the other!

Though he takes care that his studio work is not neglected, Van Herd is out of the place more than in.

Newspaper assignments take him away quite often in the north and west Vancouver Island area.

There's never a dull moment in the life of this photographer whose first job was with the Royal Canadian Navy as a communications man. He served in the North Atlantic.

After the navy, he bought a partnership in a mobile photographic studio in Alberta with his earned service credits.

But the trail shortly led to British Columbia where he entered university. Work was scarce in Vancouver just before 1950, and he was able to secure jobs only as a "sparetime" photographer.

So back to sea he went and was purser for 18 months aboard an oil tanker.

Tiring of the sea, and aching for an opportunity to work with the camera, he arrived at the booming town of Kitimat and there returned to portrait and industrial photography.

But again, to make ends meet, he took a job as accountant and first-aid man on the Squamish-Vancouver railway — and won himself a St. John's Ambulance citation!

Persevering with his ambition to get into business on his own, he arrived on Vancouver Island. He earned his board and room for a time working on the office staff of a construction company in Nanaimo.

In his spare time, he freelanced with his camera, and found a demand for aerial pictures.

He has now taken photographs of almost every piece of Crown land in the Central Vancouver Island area.

Van Herd continued to wend his way along the path to his own studio, absorbing knowledge all the time. He began skin diving as a hobby again three years ago, then realized he could perhaps turn it into a profitable sideline in the business he was dreaming about.

After all, he thought, skin diving equipment costs money—at that time, big money, especially when the price of two underwater cameras had to be taken into consideration.

He went to Port Alberni two years ago and worked on the camera counter of a jeweler's store.

His reputation had preceded him to the West Coast city and he began

UNDER the SEA, or INTO the AIR

to get underwater industrial assignments from MacMillan & Bloedel, the big logging outfit, and other assignments from the fisheries research board.

Kevan Van Herd bought himself a studio and obtained his pilot's licence in a matter of a few months of each other. He was in business—a three-way business. It was the realization of a lifelong ambition, dreamed about on those convoy duties in the Atlantic over 15 years ago.

Boys' Town in B.C.

HOME FOR 500 PLANNED

BRITISH COLUMBIA's newest community now is just over three months old, has a population of nine and a credit balance of $16.

It is called Boys Town, B.C., and its inhabitants are foot-loose, needy boys.

Situated on a 1,000-acre ranch on the Hope-Princeton Highway, 100 miles east of Vancouver, Boys Town one day will be the home of 500 such youngsters if plans materialize.

The project was launched by a group of British Columbia businessmen in efforts to give a sense of purpose and a means of self-development to boys who otherwise might stray into idleness or delinquency.

The community, it is hoped, some day will be able to support itself by sale of livestock and dairy products.

The big ranch, appraised at $305,000, was sold by a sympathetic owner to the sponsors of the project for $65,000. Since then construction has begun on the first dormitory cottage and two herds of cattle, some horses and other livestock have been acquired.

The nine boys now at the ranch are living in an old bunkhouse and helping put other existing farm buildings back into operating condition.

These first arrivals are being trained as future leaders of the boys' community.

One of them is Brian Page, of Birmingham, Ala., who came to Vancouver hoping to join an ice show as a figure skater but was too late to be included in the cast.

"I literally walked a hole in my shoe looking for work in Vancouver," he said. When he heard of Boys Town he came straight here, and now is planning to organize physical education for the community.

Another is Peter Moore, who came to B.C. last year from Eastern Canada and ran out of funds. An expert on "hot rod" cars, he plans to teach Boys Town residents safe driving and automobile mechanics.

Cliff Moore, 33-year-old contractor who is president of Boys Town, is selling the project to businessmen in interviews and at public meetings around B.C. He has been successful in getting donations, such as 17 head of Highland beef cattle from Bruce McLean, rancher at Langley, B.C. Harold S. Keenlyside of Cloverdale, B.C., has donated two palomino horses.

The farm manager of Boys Town, Bill McFaul, meanwhile has obtained 10 purebred Ayrshires in Eastern Canada to start the community's dairy herd. Cattle breeders were so impressed by the project that they gave four of the 19 head free of charge, and some extra donations.

Chairman W. A. Bill Rundle of the Boys Town advisory committee says it looks like a long-awaited answer to a pressing youth problem.

"There are hundreds of boys in B.C. who never really have a chance to develop because they are in broken homes, or left to shift for themselves at an early age," he says.

"These boys need a centre where they will get both training and moral and spiritual guidance.

"You've got to make it real for them or you won't be successful."

Among patrons of Boys Town are External Affairs Minister Howard Green, A. E. Dal Grauer, president of B.C. Electric Company, and Grant McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines.

For 72 Years Douglas Lake Stock Has Worn

NICOLA VALLEY

By JOHN SHAW,
Editor, The Islander

IF YOU RODE a horse from Victoria to Cowichan Lake's upper end and then to the Nitinat and back to Nanaimo, you would have covered the distance across the vastest cattle ranch in the British Commonwealth, the fabulous Douglas Lake spread in the Nicola Valley.

It's roughly the size of Prince Edward Island. It's an empire in the cattle world.

Until recently it was owned by two gentlemen well known in Victoria: Colonel Victor Spencer, son of the famed David, whose family owned the stores which bore their names here and in Vancouver; and the Hon. Frank Mackenzie Ross, lieutenant-governor of B.C., another man of substance and wide interests.

They sold out, a few weeks ago, to youthful Charles N. Woodward, son of the founder of the big retail store outlets in Vancouver and Victoria, whose mother lives in a lovely Central Saanich home, hard by the rolling acres of Woodwyn Farm, where black beef cattle fatten.

They sold Douglas Lake Ranch—the Three Bar—for $3,000,000, and are reputed to have declined an offer of $500,000 more from American interests because they wanted to keep Douglas Lake Cattle Company Ltd. a strictly Canadian operation.

"There won't be any change of policy," Mr. Woodward told this writer. "Bernie Chance will stay as manager. He's been there 35 years already."

The vast Douglas Lake spread sells something like 4,500 head a year. It's a tremendous operation, with summer herds aggregating 14,000 head, and as many as 200 hands at harvest-time.

"It's fully modern now," said Mr. Woodward. "We use machinery where once they used horse teams."

To give an idea of the dimensions of this undertaking, Campbell Carroll, who wrote a book about it, says an assessment of the property 50 years ago gave the following information:

There were 98,400 acres of land and 300 miles of fencing. (Now there are 167,000 acres and 600 miles of fencing);

There were 12,000 head of white-faced Herefords at the peak of the year. (Now there are 14,000);

There were 230 range mares, with foals, more than 200 head of purebred Clydesdales, 100 head of work horses of other strains, 200 saddle horses, purebred Clyde stallions valued at more than $1,500 apiece.

There were 8,400 acres of bottomland and another 3,000 of irrigable acres at the Pike farm, 1,500 at Upper Nicola, 3,500 at Minnie Lake, and 100 at Nicola Lake.

Today the harvest yields more than 8,000 tons of hay for winter feed and substantial crops of other kinds. The ranchers learned the hard way to provide for the cold-weather feeding, for the winter range was frozen solid, years ago on one occasion, and ranchers lost as much as 75 per cent of their stock. The poor creatures were eating brush wood before they died in the frozen creek beds and along the shores of the lakes of the Nicola Valley.

Ever since that dreadful time, Douglas Lake has grown feed. They don't depend on the range-land in winter.

DOUGLAS LAKE was founded 72 years ago by Joseph Blackburne Greaves. Old Danger he was called, and with good reason. But the lake was named for John Douglas, who pre-empted the first land in the Nicola Valley in 1872. For his bride Douglas brought a piano and a fine carriage to the remote ranchhouse. But even so, she wouldn't stay. So he set her up in the Douglas House in Victoria and she made a success of the hotel business.

Former owners of the Douglas Lake Ranch, Hon. Frank Mackenzie Ross (left) and Col. Victor Spencer . . . they sold for three millions.—Photo by Ryan Studios.

The log cabin she despised still stands in the home ranch "village" on the shore of Douglas Lake.

Francis Bulkley Ward was joined by Chance after the ranch changed ownership on Greaves' retirement—with a million dollars in his jeans. In the ensuing years Ward and Chance built

C. N. WOODWARD . . . new boss of a big spread

Douglas Lake to new prosperity in a Ward family syndicate operation.

But this man Greaves is worth a word or two of mention. He was Old Country-born, came to America as a stowaway, ran cattle and sheep from California to the Fraser diggings in 1859.

Thad and Jerome Harper had driven a herd to California from B.C. in '76. It took them 18 months. But in 1880 Old Danger bettered their feat when he drove 2,000 miles from Nicola Valley, through Washington, Oregon, Idaho and a large part of Wyoming in 12 months. It was an epic. It makes the drives along the fabled Chisholm trail look trivial, child's play.

Greaves sold out in 1910, and his custom of hiring a preacher from Merritt for Sunday services at $100 for the chore, did not persist. Possibly it was just as well. Old Danger used to follow the services with a ceremonial of his own. He'd give every man, woman and child an apple—presumably to keep the doctor away—then open a barrel of whisky and a keg of beer.

Frank Ward took over from Greaves when his banker father bought the ranch, and with Brian Chance added some 70,000 acres to the holding.

The Ward syndicate hung on until 1940.

FRANK GREW UP in Victoria, and died here in 1953 at the age of 81. He was as much of a character in his way as was Old Danger. He wasn't the type of man to wear jeans and a moleskin shirt. He always dressed in breeches and wore a cravat, and he never rode anything but an English saddle. But no one should form the impression that he wasn't a rancher. He was eminently successful.

Colonel Victor Spencer and Frank Mackenzie Ross bought the ranch in 1950. Spencer was an experienced rancher as well as something of a financial wizard. These two gentlemen brought expensive bulls from England to improve their stock, and the bulls and their progeny have done much to make B.C. cattle accepted as the best of any beef anywhere in the world.

It was, and still is, the policy of Douglas Lake to sell stock to neighboring ranchers to improve the B.C. breed.

Brian Chance, who remains as manager under Mr. Woodward, was a Cheltenham boy. The British public school saw the last of him in 1921 when, at the age of 18, he first came to B.C. Then he was with his father in Australia sheep-ranching for five B.C. in 1926 and Douglas Lake.

MEN STAY at station in the hug Of the 70-odd per more than 100 ex them have been v their lives.

Jack Hovell, f been with the out

Lawrence Grah peron, Harry's Cro Johnny MacDonald has served half a

Dave Lindley, named for him, h

Joe Sledge, Por years with the cr

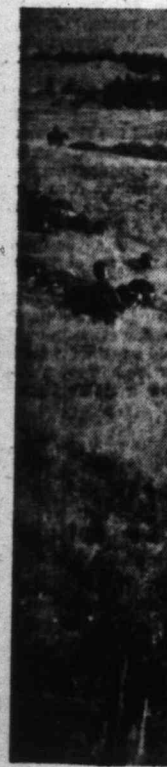

Direction for a of course, comes f Brian Chance uses hands, or sends a summer camps.

But the day of New the Jeep saves horses for cutting course, but a herd

And the giant pull the plows and replaced by tractor

The picture at th very much over th There are the ow cookhouse, the gen children, the manag houses and offices. they were and have layout is much as Greaves stomped t after his reverence clattered out to h the next morning.

The country ha

Home on the r

Yorn

Y

the Three-Bar Brand

CATTLE EMPIRE

ranching for five years. But he came back to B.C. in 1926 and made a permanent home at Douglas Lake.

MEN STAY at Douglas Lake—or at whatever station in the huge ranch they may be posted. Of the 70-odd permanent employees—there are more than 100 extra for harvest-time—many of them have been with the company for most of their lives.

Jack Hovell, foreman at Minnie Lake, has been with the outfit 50 years.

Lawrence Graham, superintendent of Chaperon, Harry's Crossing and Norfolk ranches, and Johnny MacDonald, boss of the Brush Camp, each has served half a century.

Dave Lindley, foreman of the cow camp, named for him, has been on the job 44 years.

Joe Sledge, Portland Ranch foreman, has 29 years with the crew.

Direction for all this enormous undertaking, of course, comes from the Home Ranch, where Brian Chance uses radio-telephone to talk to his hands, or sends a courier by horseback to the summer camps.

But the day of the 1,000-head remuda is gone. Now the jeep saves time and money. They need horses for cutting out and at round-up time, of course, but a herd of about 350 suffices.

And the giant Clydesdales which used to pull the plows and help at harvest have been replaced by tractors.

The picture at the Home Ranch hasn't changed very much over the last half century, however. There are the owner's comfortable home and cookhouse, the general store, a school for staff children, the manager's house, powerhouse, bunkhouses and offices. They are bigger than once they were and have more conveniences. But the layout is much as it was when Old Danger Greaves stomped to bed at 8.30 Sunday night after his reverences and his entertainment, and clattered out to his saddlehorse again at 4.30 the next morning.

The country hasn't changed, either. There's

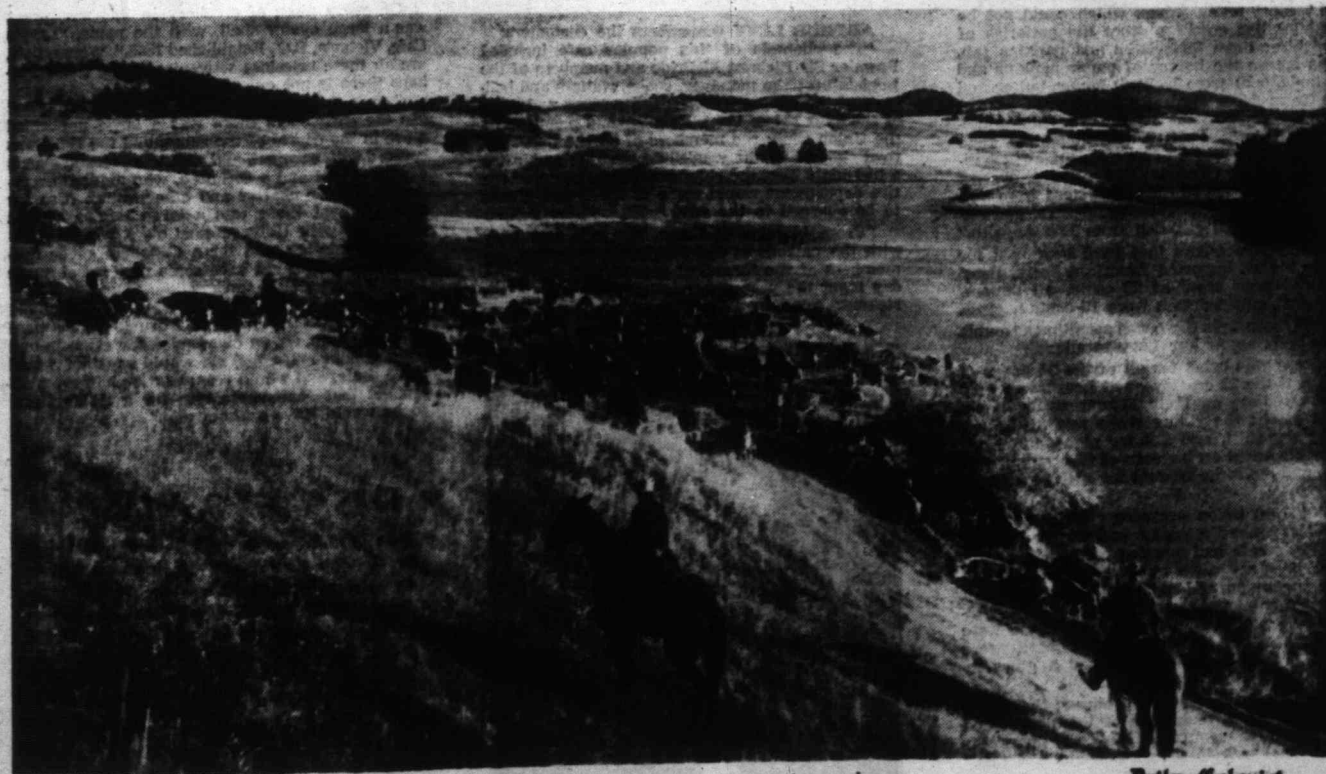

This is the home ranch of the great Douglas Lake spread, recently purchased by C. N. Woodward, which has been operating 72 years. It's the biggest ranch in the British Commonwealth.

timberland on the north frontier on the Douglas Lake plateau, and Fenask Lake lies dimpling in the sunshine just as it did when Douglas rode that range on what is now the southern border.

Salmon River canyon, to the east, is wild and picturesque as it always has been. Only on the western limits is the change apparent. The Princeton road runs along the miles of four-strand fencing.

Douglas Lake Ranch is going to continue to put its three-bar brand on its white-faced cattle for a long time to come.

Home on the range . . . this is typical of the Douglas Lake country where huge ranch grazes 14,000 head of Hereford cattle.—B.C. Government Photo.

Daily Colonist 15
SUNDAY, JULY 19, 1930

On All the Coast There was no Better

By JAMES K. NESBITT

"Levy's is a place of known renown,
The oldest restaurant in town.
Levy established it in days of old,
When Cariboo mines gave up their gold.
In the east it is known, also in the west,
Through north and south it is known as the best.
The palatable oyster, mussed and clam,
Juicy beefsteak, or chop from the lamb.
Prawns, crabs and delicacies of every kind,
Ale, stout and wines all here you'll find.
So call at Levy's when you hungry feel,
And there obtain a first-class meal."

WITH THESE DEATHLESS WORDS,
one of Victoria's best-known restaurants, dating from the 1860s, advertised in Victoria and San Francisco, making a name for itself, and becoming a convivial eating house quite as good as any in the city by the Golden Gate.

This famous restaurant was opened by Henry Emanuel Levy, whose son Arthur still lives in Victoria, 74 now, but spry and bright, interesting himself in writing, walking uptown from his Michigan Street home and feeding the ducks in Beacon Hill Park. Mr. Levy says he comes from a long-lived family and expects to be around until he's 98. Therefore, in the Jewish Cemetery here, he has his tombstone all ready, and has it marked 1885-1974. If anything goes wrong, he says, in 1974 he'll simply erase the 1974 and put in 1976.

Levy's Restaurant, open all night, as so many of Victoria's restaurants were in the early days, was on the west side of Government, between Yates and Johnson. It was first known as the Arcade Oyster Saloon, then the Arcade Restaurant and Chop House, and then Levy's. H. E. Levy, the founder, in 1877 brought his brother Joseph from England and turned the restaurant over to him. Joseph went off to the Klondike gold rush in 1898 and H. E. Levy took over again and then his son Arthur ran the business until 1914.

Arthur Levy recalls the hey-day of Levy's: "It was a unique establishment in its field—specializing in many imported items, oysters, turtles, frog-legs, and it also had a liquor licence, when drinking was a science and few ever over-indulged."

"In conducting a cafe of this kind it was necessary to import many things which could not be procured locally: crockery from the potteries of Staffordshire; linen tablecloths and napkins (ah, the days before the horror of paper napkins and plastic table tops) from Ireland; honey, butter and mutton from New Zealand; live turtles — 200 pounds each, from Tahiti; Lake Superior whitefish from Duluth; Eastern malpeque and Blue Point oysters and frog-legs from Baltimore; Olympia oysters from Olympia; Toke Point oysters from Astoria; Morgan's eastern oysters from San Francisco; crawfish (fresh-water lobsters) and catfish from Portland; crayfish from Los Angeles."

Mr. Levy remembers that local beer sold for five cents a pint, imported American beers, Bass' ale and Guinness' stout at 25 cents—all liquors, liqueurs and mixed drinks were 15 cents a glass.

Even in those days there was sometimes trouble with the help, as Arthur Levy recalls:

"Business was brisk for all of the 24 hours of the day, and the 22 employees at Levy's had very little leisure time on their 10-hour shifts of six days per week: the ruling wage was $10.50 per week for day-shift, and $12 for night; after one year's employment an increase of $5 a month was allowed, and the same amount for each year thereafter."

"About 1910 union organizers arrived in Victoria and organized a cooks' and waiters' union. While Levy's cafe had a union card on the wall, some of the other cafes in town refused to sign up with the union and a strike was called, and even Levy's employees were called out in a sympathetic strike, although all these employees were drawing more than union scale, and some were getting twice as much—this seemed a gross injustice."

"All the kitchen crew were Chinese; they were clean and efficient, and some of them remained in our service for upwards of 20 years, then retiring for a final trek to their homeland of China."

16 Daily Colonist
SUNDAY, JULY 12, 1959

Levy's Restaurant
124 GOVERNMENT ST. VICTORIA, B. C.
OPEN ALL NIGHT.
OUR SPECIALTIES ARE FISH AND SHELL FISH.
FIRST-CLASS IN EVERYTHING BUT PRICES.

I'm Out on a H... of a Time.

When I can't stand, tie this to my button-hole. Secure my pocket book, wind up my watch, sponge off my clothes, call a hack and

SHIP ME HOME.

My name is

Residence

Keep this out of the Newspapers, and tell my wife that it was the old stomach trouble.

An early publicity dodge, this card, circulated in Victoria very widely and caused much amusement.

GOURMET HOUSE

MRS. H. E. LEVY
... Henry's wife and Arthur's mother.

ARTHUR LEVY remembers the customers:

"The clientele of this popular cafe included Premier Sir Richard McBride and members of the Legislature; the manager, cooks, waiters and bell-boys of the Empress Hotel; the pursers and crew of the CPR ships; Capt. Palmer and members of the Union Club; the members of all the theatrical road shows and the vaudeville circuits; and, after a bad night fire, the chief and all members of the fire department would come in for T-bone steaks to be charged to the city."

"From 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. the cafe was busy with the patrons of the theatres and dances, the members of the theatrical groups, and every Friday night the passengers from the San Francisco steamer came in after midnight and sometimes eat around until dawn, when their ship left for Seattle.

ARTHUR LEVY
... his gravestone's ready.

"In 1909 Victoria had a 60-day horse race meeting at the Willows, and the majority of the horse owners, jockeys and book-makers attacked our T-bone steaks. We usually cut up eight full loins of beef, about 600 pounds, during a weekend."

"Then we had the rate war on the Seattle steamers, when fares were down to 25 cents from Seattle to Victoria and people came over in thousands. They flocked into our cafe and when the place was full we had to lock the door, then allow a few in at a time to replace those who were leaving. Otherwise, that door had never been locked in the 47 years of the operation of the cafe, both day and night."

LEVY'S HAD A FANCY front: "In one of the show windows an aquarium was built, in which were trout, catfish, crawfish and terrapin, with a wire screen separating some goldfish."

"During the agricultural fair each autumn at the Willows, when Dr. S. F. Tolmie was president, he would put on a banquet at Levy's for the visiting cowboys who were taking part in the rodeo, and we would prepare as the 'piece de resistance,' or main course, a 20-pound Tyee salmon, stuffed and baked whole, and served so on a large platter; we had such platters in those days—it was a great treat for the cowboys, who were mostly from the Prairies."

On every piece of crockery in this restaurant was a large oyster shell, with the name, "Levy's Cafe, Victoria, B.C., Established 1865." Where, now, are all these priceless souvenirs of the past? Perhaps there is not one piece left.

Levy's was the centre of much friendliness: "In the early days there was a large pot-bellied stove in the centre of the room, and the floor was covered with sawdust, and, on their pedestal stands were a parrot and a cockatoo, who amused everyone with their chatter and other antics. Also for entertainment there was a large Regina Corona music box with 12 large steel discs, with an indicator or selector, and for a Canadian silver five-cent piece you could have some very sweet music from several of the operas."

"In my estimation those were the 'good old days' and up to the end of 1912 drunken folks were at a minimum. If an overloaded tar came in and ordered ham and eggs, we would say that would be 75 cents, and would respond 'Gor blimey, me, I can get that somewhere else for a shilling' and so he would leave without ado."

THIS WEEK'S ANAGRAM

How is your vocabulary? There is no better or more fascinating way to improve it than by solving these anagrams each week. Add the letters in the first column to the letters in the second column, and rearrange the letters so as to form a new word. EXAMPLE: FEND plus SEE equals? Answer: DEFENSE. Can you solve the following anagrams?

- | | | | | |
|----------|------|-----|--------|-----|
| (1) PURE | PLUS | TAR | EQUALS | ??? |
| (2) DEAN | " | FIT | " | " |
| (3) ISLE | " | CAT | " | " |
| (4) SEAT | " | NOR | " | " |
| (5) NEET | " | WEB | " | " |

Solution to today's ANAGRAM on Page 11